By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 10.—Dark indeed and fading in the distant mist is the prospect of world series fame and fortune for the Chicago Cubs, while the Philadelphia Athletics are bent on pursuing complete victory to a speedy and triumphant end as baseball's annual October opus resumes here on the morrow on the home grounds of the men of Connie Mack.

With this change of venue from Wrigley Field in Chicago, where lie scattered hopes of the Cubs, shocked by the impact of successive and decisive defeats in the first two games, the world series may be entering its final stages impelled by the demonstrated superiority of American League champions over National League standard bearers who have not won a postseason contest since Grover Cleveland Alexander personally pitched the Cardinals to victory over the Yankees in the seventh game of 1926.

American League Parades.

Ten times since that classical contest have the American Leaguers carried on in an uninterrupted procession of victories. Like the Cubs of 1929, the Pirates of 1927 and the Cardinals of 1928 were also hailed as courageous, fighting teams, but they succumbed in four-straight fashion. True the cause of the Cubs is not yet lost, and their courage may not be doubted, but their mechanical prowess, which has failed to match the ability of the hackmen in the first two games, must assert itself tomorrow afternoon and Saturday or accept decisive defeat.

The pitcher whom Manager McCarthy will nominate today, when an admiring, almost idolatrous public to the number of 40,000 will welcome home the Athletics, must bear a tremendous burden. He may be Guy Bush or he may be Charlie Root. McCarthy has made no definite announcement, but either must stay the power in the Philadelphia bats before the Cubs can hope to win.

Mack Holds Answer.

Folly, indeed, would it be to predict or otherwise name Connie Mack's pitcher for tomorrow in the absence of any positive assertion by the Philadelphia manager himself. The ways of the wily Mack are beyond prognostication, it has developed, with his nomination of Howard Ehmke to start the opening game of the series at Chicago and his known reputation for pulling the unexpected and playing the "surprise element" against the opposition to the utmost.

It may be Ehmke again tomorrow if the big right-hander is "right" according to his own belief and it may be old Jack Quinn with his spitter, but it is logical to believe best that it will be George "Rube" Walberg, of portside persuasion, who will draw the assignment.

Slain Girl's Last Letter Tells of Plan for Party

The last letter Marjory O'Donnel wrote before her murder is in the hands of her 83-year-old grandmother, Mrs. R. C. Schoffner, of Wilmerding, a suburb of Pittsburgh, it was learned last night.

A few hours before she set out on the party which led to her violent death, Marjory wrote her grandmother, told her of the forthcoming dance, the dinner and of the "becoming lace dress with the green bow," which proved to be the gown in which she was slain.

"Tonight," wrote Marjory, "I am going out to dinner and dance formally for the first time this fall. Am going to wear my green satin slippers and my lace dress with the green bow. I have a chance to sell the lace dress, but it's so very becoming and everybody raves about it so much that I hate to part with it.

"I am going out tonight with some people from Kansas City. Guess we will go over to Wardman, as some people in the party are also coming over from the Naval Academy at Annapolis and that seems to be their favorite place in Washington."

Of Dexter Churchill Dayton, the young salesman who has confessed to killing the former Pittsburgh girl, Marjory wrote nothing.

The letter, postmarked in Washington at 7:30 p. m. Monday, was received by Mrs. Schoffner Tuesday afternoon.

Part of the letter told about a younger sister, who had also been brought to Washington within the past few months and placed in a school here, to be provided for by Marjory and Catherine, the older girl. Much of it had to do with the younger sister's progress, and how the two girls were "pinching pennies" to see her through.

The gown, of ecru lace, a relative explained, was a made-over one more than 25 years old.

"Everyone admired the gown, and Marjory so liked it that last spring she and I made it over ourselves. From the day she left school she had struggled in her own way to succeed. She secured her own jobs, paid her own bills, and made many of her own dresses. The money she had over, she spent on her sister.

CANNON SAILS TODAY FOR VISIT TO BRAZIL

Bishop to Take No Further Part in Old Dominion Political Fight.

REGRETS HE CAN'T VOTE

Richmond, Va., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will take no further part in the Virginia political campaign, but will sail for Brazil on the steamer Eastern Prince, leaving New York tomorrow afternoon, to preside over three Brazilian conferences of the church. He will return to the United States December 3.

In conference with anti-Smith leaders here today, Bishop Cannon said he was surprised that the general public did not know of these Episcopal missions, inasmuch as they had been printed in the church press. He said he had declined requests to make addresses in the Virginia gubernatorial campaign, as he would leave for Brazil almost a month before the election.

"I regret that I will be unable to be present to vote in November for Dr. William M. Brown (anti-Smith and Republican nominee for governor), as I regard this election as the most important State election held in Virginia in many years," Bishop Cannon said:

"Democratic State leadership may declare that prohibition and Raskobism are not the issues, but the press and the public outside of Virginia are practically unanimous in the view that the election of Dr. Brown will be the signal for a general uprising of dry Democrats throughout the South to demand that Raskobian liberalism, as proclaimed in the Washington banquet, be definitely repudiated, and that the wet brand be removed from the Democratic party, leaving the prohibition question to be a nonpartisan question in the future, as it has been in the past, both in the State of Virginia and the Nation at large. Prohibition is distinctly a moral social question and not properly a political issue, as Raskob has made it to be."

Bishop Cannon said that while he had declined all invitations to make political speeches in Virginia, he had issued a statement from Washington last Tuesday setting forth his views. Replies commending the statement, Bishop Cannon said, had poured into

SECOND PHILIPPINE TARIFF RIDER LOST

New Amendment Broussard and Walsh, of Bay State, Offered Is Swamped.

VOTE DIVIDES COALITION

(Associated Press.)

For the second time in as many days, the Senate yesterday rejected an amendment to the tariff bill designed to obtain early independence of the Philippines and thereby removed an issue which threatened seriously to delay the Hawley-Smoot measure.

The amendment finally voted upon was a combination proposal, offered by Senators Broussard, of Louisiana, and Walsh, of Massachusetts, both Democrats, which would have declared Congress' intention to free the Philippines in the immediate future and requested the President to call a conference of nations to agree to respect that independence.

The vote, 63 to 19, was more overwhelming against deciding the Philippine question at this juncture than the 45 to 36 ballot cast Wednesday against the amendment of Senator King (Democrat), Utah, which would have granted independence after the Pacific possession had drawn up a constitution.

As on Wednesday, some opponents of the independence amendments said that while they favored self-government for the islands, they did not believe such an important question of policy should be approved as a rider to the tariff bill, but rather should be settled independently when no other extraneous matters are pending.

Of those voting against the proposal yesterday, 47 were Republicans and 16 Democrats. Only two Republicans—Frazier, of North Dakota, and McMaster, of South Dakota—voted for it, along with 17 Democrats.

Immediately after the vote, the Senate turned down without a roll call another amendment by Senator Broussard, which would apply American tariffs on Philippine imports, and, pending independence, return of the revenue to the island treasury.

Broussard served notice that he would seek separate votes on his proposals when the tariff measure goes back to the Senate from the committee of the whole.

Most opponents apparently were content to rely on the promise of

MYSTERY VEILS TIME OF DEATH IN GIRL SLAYING

Police Curious Whether Marjory O'Donnell Died Tuesday.

THEORY BROACHED VICTIM WAS DUPED

Friends of Writer Aver She Was Tricked Into Tryst.

DAYTON, MOROSE, AWAITS GRAND JURY

Slain Woman's Sister Takes Body Home as Father Fails to Arrive.

Although the discovery of Marjory O'Donnell, pretty 23-year-old National Geographic Society writer, strangled in the Roosevelt Hotel early Wednesday morning appeared a case of simple murder at the time, especially after the confession of Dexter Churchill Dayton, young insurance salesman, a veil of mystery has gathered steadily about the girl's death for the last two days. Last night contradictory evidence made the case as baffling in some respects as the McPherson affair.

In view of the action of the coroner's jury holding Dayton for grand jury action yesterday, official investigation turned to two knotty questions as yet unsatisfactorily answered:

Was Marjory O'Donnell lured to the Roosevelt Hotel room in which she was slain by Dayton on the pretense of meeting another couple or another person, or did she go willingly to consummate a love tryst?

When Was Girl Slain?

Was Marjory O'Donnell slain early Tuesday morning, as Dayton contends, or was she strangled after a night and day of revelry in the hotel room?

Two significant facts were uncovered last night, but they brought officials no nearer to answers to these questions.

A second note which seemed to substantiate the belief advanced by Katherine O'Donnell that her sister was lured to her death, was in a diametrically opposite position to a revelation tha ttwo chocolate milks and two ham sandwiches had been delivered to the room occupied by the couple about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Girl Wrote to Grandmother.

Added to this came a copy of a letter written by Miss O'Donnell Monday afternoon to her grandmother in Wilmerding, Pa., telling of the date she was to have that night, of the dress she was to wear and of the out-of-town people she was to meet.

The second note, which was in the possession of Lieut. Joseph Morgan, chief of the homicide squad, appeared to have been written in a different handwriting from the confession letter ascribed to Dayton. It was addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Burton."

After asserting that the writers had found the room vacant and that they were making themselves at home, the note continued that they would drink all the liquor if the Burtons did not return. It was signed "Rex and Marj."

Food Sent From Drug Store.

The chocolate milks and sandwiches were sent by Dr. Harry Kenna, of the Roosevelt Hotel Pharmacy, and delivered by Max Swales, colored messenger boy.

The messenger boy said yesterday that he saw no one on either bed at the time and that the man was dressed in dark pajamas and appeared to be drunk. The room was dark, though, and he could not see inside very clearly, he admitted.

These chocolate milks and ham sandwiches were seen in the room by Dr. John Baber, of Emergency Hospital, the first physician to examine the body, and they had been untouched.

Death Hour Undetermined.

Even Dayton had recounted in one of his versions of the murder that the girl had fallen asleep and that he had been drinking for some time, he didn't know how long, when he strangled her.

When asked last night his opinion as to how long Miss O'Donnell had been dead when he examined her,

Father Killed by Son To Secure Inheritance

Kentland, Ind., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Charles Hyers, 34, of Hammond, Ind., confessed tonight that he shot and killed his father, James Hyers, 84, Tuesday night that he might inherit 80 acres of land. The son shot through a window at his father, whose body was found by a half brother with whom he lived near here.

Charles Hyers said he conceived the plan after his wife threatened to leave him because he was penniless and unemployed.

HOOVER HOLDS HOPE FOR REAL ARMS TREATY

Acceptance of Invitation to Parley Is Hailed as Indication.

WASHINGTON PACT'S BROADENING DESIRED

Five Countries That Met Here Are Ones Asked to Gather Again.

COMMISSION'S TASK MAY BE LIGHTENED

Binding Addendum to 1921 Agreement Intimated as Expected by U. S.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover looks for a binding agreement to come out of the forthcoming five-power naval parley in London, not a mere text for submission to the Preparatory Commission of the League of Nations, it was indicated yesterday in this country's acceptance of the British "invitation" to participate.

The acceptance seems to make it clear, in fact, that it is a reconsideration and broadening of the Washington arms treaty that Hoover and Premier Ramsey MacDonald have in mind. Only five countries are signatory to this treaty and it is these five countries that are now asked to reopen it in advance of 1931.

The reply, as carefully worded as was the British invitation, was delivered to the British Foreign Office yesterday by Ray Atherton, American charge d'affaires, in the absence of Ambassador Dawes who is on his way to this country for a vacation.

Note Accepts Invitation.

"I have the honor to refer to the note which you were good enough to address to the ambassador on October 7th," it said, "and I take great pleasure in informing you that the American Government hastens to accept the invitation of His Majesty's government to a conference on naval armaments to take place in London the latter part of January, which will unite the powers signatory to the Washington treaty in a discussion which will anticipate the problems raised under Article 21 of that treaty as well as broaden its whole scope by the inclusion of the other categories of ships."

Of course, the reference to acceptance of the "invitation" is not correct because no invitation was sent to this country. Instead, copies of the invitations sent to the other governments were submitted with a covering note asking that this government confirm Great Britain's understanding that it planned to participate in the conference.

The important part of the reply, however, is seen in the language "which will unite the powers signatory to the Washington treaty in a discussion which will anticipate the problems raised under article 21 of that treaty as well as broaden its whole scope by the inclusion of the other categories of ships."

Commission Task Lightened.

The importance of this lies in relation to that assurance of the British invitation that in no quarter was there a disposition to set up machinery to take the place of the preparatory commission in dealing with naval armaments and that "on the contrary, it is hoped that by this means a text can be elaborated which will facilitate the task" of the commission.

The British invitation was worded in this manner, of course, in an effort to ward off the objection which France gave to participation in the 1927 Geneva conference. France contended at that time that the preparatory commission was working on the naval armaments question and that for it to participate another conference would embarrass the commission.

But in view of the wording of the British invitation, the question immediately arose as to whether the London conference was for the purpose of reaching a treaty agreement after all; whether it was not to be, instead, a meeting for a conditional agreement which would be submitted to the commission as a contribution to its work.

Japan Wants Term Clarified.

This view, in fact, was rather widely accepted in France, according to press advices, and to a large extent, at least, explains France's willingness to come into the conference. As indicative of the widely flexible interpretation that this phraseology lent itself to, in fact, it was reported that Japan with withholding its acceptance until it could determine the meaning of the "text" that the invitation said was to be "elaborated" at the conference.

The American reply says, in effect, however, that it expects the Washington treaty to be taken out of the Few Intangible Clews Sole Result of Week's Investigation.

Los Angeles, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—A handful of intangible clews and a mounting report of deaths and missing persons were all police had today after a week of investigation into the mysteries of the Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Eleven.

Clear facts surrounding the disappearance of seven persons were far out of reach and the work of police apparently only has erected a more complex situation.

Relatives of the cult leader, Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, who is under arrest on grand theft charges, requested Los Angeles authorities to search for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black-

Permission to Exhume Nurse's Body Sought From Father.

DETAILS OVERLOOKED BY POLICE, IS BELIEF

Cause of Blood on Floor Is One Point Sleuths Want Cleared.

NEW WOMAN WITNESS CLOTHED IN MYSTERY

Investigators Regard Her as Important; Identity Is Kept Secret.

Permission to exhume the body of Mrs. Virginia Hurley McPherson for purposes of performing an autopsy was requested yesterday by the Department of Justice.

The request was made to A. A. Hurley, of Chester, S. C., father of the attractive young nurse whose body, strangled with the cord of her pajamas, was found on the floor of her apartment in the Park Lane on September 14.

Although it is understood that no reply has been received from Hurley yet, it is expected that he will grant the request today, because of his natural eagerness to see an early solution of the mystery surrounding his daughter's death, and particularly in view of the fact that he is a strong subscriber to the belief that Virginia McPherson was murdered.

There are numerous details incidental to an autopsy which are believed to have been neglected in the rather cursory examination which is believed to have been made shortly after the body was found by the girl's husband, Robert A. McPherson, jr., who is now in the District Jail under indictment for her murder.

Operation Hinted At.

It is believed that if a more thorough autopsy had been performed at that time, the coroner's jury might not have brought the verdict of suicide which was later upset by the grand jury in its indictment of McPherson.

One point which it is understood that the Federal investigators are anxious to have clarified is the possibility that an operation might have been performed which would account for the blood which was found on the floor of Mrs. McPherson's apartment.

This move for a new autopsy is closely in line with the usual thoroughness of the Department of Justice, which leaves no clew uninvestigated, and which sees no theory as too fantastic to justify most careful consideration. A charge of murder having been made in connection with Mrs. McPherson's death, the Federal investigators are determined that their activity toward solution of the mystery must not be concluded without a most thorough autopsy which would reveal all possible physical conditions which might have any bearing upon the manner of reason of the girl's death, whether the final verdict be suicide or murder.

New Girl Witness Quizzed.

Another new "mystery witness" entered the McPherson mystery last night, in the person of an attractive, well-dressed young woman who was brought to the offices of the Department of Justice by an operative of the Bureau of Investigation for questioning.

She was closeted with the Federal agents for some time, but all efforts of reporters to discover her identity or the nature of the information she might have given the Justice agents were unavailing. It was presumed, however, because of the treatment she was accorded, that she is considered an important witness.

It was learned last night that the Department of Justice intends to in-

M'BRIDE'S SLAYER IS SOUGHT, CLAIM

New Homicide Squad's Chief Urges Former Sheriff to Submit Any Data.

SAYS OLD CLEWS FAILED

The Washington homicide squad has not abandoned its hunt for the murderer of Barney McBride; on the contrary, it stands ready to expend any amount of energy and money to bring him to trial, Lieut. Joe Morgan, new chief of the squad, announced last night.

Lieut. Morgan's statement followed a story in The Post in which Everett E. Pumphreys, former sheriff of Prince Georges County, Md., declared he was almost certain that he knew the identity of McBride's slayer. Morgan said he would welcome any information that Pumphreys might turn over to him and, through the press, asked the former sheriff to come in and see him.

"We don't want to quarrel about where McBride was killed," Morgan said. "Although his body was found near Meadows, Md., we know that he was seen alive the night before in the Elks Club here. That is why we always have cooperated with the Maryland authorities in the case.

"We are still cooperating, and we are going to continue to cooperate until the murderer is found. Let's get him behind the bars first; there will be plenty of time to argue about jurisdiction afterward."

Former Sheriff Pumphreys declared Tuesday that the man he suspected is a Washington underworld character, who disappeared after McBride's body, badly hacked, was found under a culvert near Meadows, Md., on the morning of August 22, 1922.

Morgan said yesterday that the information that Pumphreys had was

NEVIN LINES FACING FINES IN BUS FIGHT

District Utility Board Plans $200 Assessment Today as Test Action.

CHANGED GIVEN COURSE

The Public Utilities Commission of the District is preparing to plunge into the fight between Nevin Lines, Inc., independent motorbus concern, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., operator of competing bus lines, and slap a fine of $200 against the independent company because it has deviated slightly from routes prescribed by the commission.

For a brief while yesterday afternoon it was the intention of the commission to have a driver of one of the Nevin buses arrested and there was consultation with legal advisers for authority in such an action.

Recourse to paragraph 85 of the public utilities law which provides that a utility may be fined $900 for each violation of an order of the commission was decided on, however, as a substitute an dit is planned to assess the fine at a meeting of the commission today.

But compelling the company to pay the fine is another matter, and apparently the commission will have to enter suit to collect. The bus company is to be fined for changing its route a oas to call past the Washington Motor Coach Depot, at 1421 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, in order to pick up additional passengers for outgoing buses.

The company is following the commission's prescribed route in all other respects, its buses turning west on E from Thirteenth street to the depot, loading and proceeding on Pennsylvania avenue and thence over the commission route. The commission

Senators Deride Customs Aids as Censors of Books

Deletions From Literature Draw Fire of Cutting; Tariff Bill Issue.

(Associated Press.)

Censorship of books by customs inspectors provoked a lively literary discussion in the Senate yesterday, as Senator Cutting, Republican, of New Mexico, opened an attack on a section of the tariff bill restricting importation of literature.

The debate ranged all the way from the classical "Arabian Nights" to the more recent publication of "All Quiet on the Western Front." When the Senate quit wrok for the day, Cutting still had the floor and the opinions of a dozen senators were in the record. No vote was taken on his amendment to eliminate the censorship section.

From the time that Cutting produced a "black list" of 739 books barred from entry into this country, the question excited unusual interest, all of the senators present—more than half of the membership—

Cooperation With Labor Called Great Rail Asset

Industries Must Accept Worker as Partner, A. F. L. Is Told.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—An impromptu debate over political policies and an exposition of the advantages of full cooperation between railroads and labor unions featured the proceedings today of the American Federation of Labor convention.

Two English trades union delegates stressed the accomplishment of trades unions in their country in building an independent labor party and William Green, president of the Federation, responded with a defense of the nonpartisanship of the federation in the United States.

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railroads, asserted that cooperation with labor unions in his system, under a plan followed by the Baltimore & Ohio and other lines in the United States, had "come to be regarded as our greatest asset."

"In the present day and in the days to come," Thornton asserted,

Police here declared, however, that Dr. Ballard had established an apparently satisfactory alibi regarding his movements both before and after the death of Mrs. McPherson.

Manager Tells His Story.

All day yesterday a steady stream of witnesses flowed through the offices of the Bureau of Investigation to tell their stories to the Federal operatives. Among the most important witnesses yesterday was Wilmer C. Ruff, manager of the Park Lane apartment house.

Only a relatively small number of those who have been interviewed by the Federal agents within the past day or two are believed to have offered any information having definite bearing upon the death of the girl.

While the Department of Justice emphasizes that it is eager to receive all information which might contain a possible clew to the mystery, it is known that the department has received numerous calls, both in person and by telephone, from persons with weird theories but no facts, and that these calls have done much to hamper and retard the work of the Federal agents in solving the problem with which they are faced, inasmuch as the policy of the department requires a thorough check on all such alleged information.

Police Inquiry on Shelf.

No changes in the staff of the district attorney's office are contemplated as a result of criticisms made by the grand jury which indicted McPherson and by members of Congress, it was declared yesterday by Attorney General William D. Mitchell.

While no definite date has been set or indicated for reopening the investigation of charges brought against two officials of the Police Department, it is not expected that any further action will be taken by the Commissioners until after the trial of McPherson or any other defendants who might be named as a result of the Federal investigation.

This investigation of the police situation was undertaken by a special board appointed by the Commissioners after the grand jury had accused Inspector William S. Shelby and Lieut. Edward Kelly, both of the Detective Bureau, with negligence and perversion of testimony in the early stages of the McPherson mystery. However, when the grand jury refused to cooperate as individuals in the probe which it had demanded as a body in secret session, the Commissioners decided on Wednesday to postpone further activity until later.

Murders of Four Retold at Lamar

State Narrows Net in the Trial of Alleged Bank Robber.

Lamar, Colo., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—A swift-moving picture of four murders in less than three days was almost complete tonight as the State wove its pattern of evidence against George J. Abshier, charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying of A. N. Parrish during the robbery of the First National Bank here in May, 1928.

After the protest of Abshier's counsel, the State introduced the testimony of numerous Kansas residents who took part in the chase after the bandit gang escaped over the State line, or who had been intimately connected with unraveling the mystery of the four slayings.

During and after the robbery Parrish was killed, his son was slain and a bank teller and a Western Kansas doctor were found murdered. Among the articles introduced as evidence by the State as its case drew to a close were guns, pistols, a coat worn by Dr. W. W. Wineinger, Dighton, Kans.; a cap worn by A. E. Kessinger, slain bank teller; bullets found in the bank, and numerous maps.

Orchestra Head Wins $3,000 in Legal Action

H. W. Hullinger, trading as "Happy Walker's Orchestra," was awarded $3,000 yesterday in District Supreme Court in his suit against Harry Cohen, concession owner at Glen Echo and local business man, for alleged breach of contract. The award was made by a jury sitting before Justice Jennings Bailey.

Hullinger, in his suit, claimed that as a result of a contract made with Cohen he, in November, 1925, took his orchestra to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for a season's engagement on a roof garden. He alleged that the roof garden closed after two months of operation. He was represented by Attorney Ralph A. Cusick.

FALL'S TRIAL HANGS ON DOCTORS' REPORT

Declaration of Mistrial Because of Ill Health Seems Likely.

PATIENT STILL AT HOTEL

(Associated Press.)

On the report of three physicains who examined Albert B. Fall yesterday under orders of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, depends the decision whether the bribery trial of the former Interior Secretary will continue or be declared a mistrial.

The latter course seemed more likely last night as one physician other than Fall's personal doctor told Justice Hitz yesterday that the aged defendant was not able to stand trial. Fall has not left his hotel room since Tuesday, when he was assisted from the courtroom on the verge of collapse.

Dr. Frank Leech, Dr. John Thomas and Dr. L. G. Tewksbury, who were named from the bench to conduct the examination, were closeted with Fall for half an hour yesterday. They refused to comment on his condition pending Justice Hitz's disposition of their report.

Eleven Doctors Appointed.

Their appointment brought to eleven the number of physicians named by the Government to ascertain Fall's condition for this and other trials, the others resulting in postponements.

"Personal feeling" between Fall and Dr. Sterling Ruffin, the first physician named by Justice Hitz to visit the defendant, caused Fall to refuse to allow Dr. Ruffin to examine him Wednesday. Announcing the latter's failure to examine Fall, the justice said Dr. Ruffin had been unable to accept the assignment for "professional" reasons.

Dr. Thomas A. Claytor examined the former Secretary first Wednesday and reported him too ill to go to trial. He recommended further examination, however, and then the three additional doctors were named.

Bronchitis Is Described.

Fall's family physician, Dr. H. T. Safford, who accompanied him here from El Paso nearly two weeks ago, said his patient's condition was not immediately dangerous, but added he was very weak as a result of the bronchial attack suffered shortly after his arrival in Washington. Fall is extremely susceptible to bronchitis, he said.

Counsel on both sides wish to complete trial on the indictment charging Fall with receiving a bribe from Edward L. Doheny for the lease of the Elk Hills, Calif., naval petroleum reserve. Both the Government and the defense suggested a recess until the final decision is reached by the medical men.

Pending decision, the jury of eight men and four women will remain carefully guarded against outside contacts. Bus rides and card games have been their principal amusements.

routing is from a terminal at 503 Fourteenth street to F to Thirteenth to Pennsylvania avenue and eastward.

The commission has been watching the Nevin Lines for some time, even going so far as to telegraph the Virginia commission recently that the line had not made any application here for a line between Richmond and Washington. The Virginia commission in response, postponed action on the petition of the concern, which sought to establish the line to compete with the R. F. & P. owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which turned its passengers here over to the Greyhound Lines, also owned by the railroad. Since that time, however, the Nevin Lines have applied for a permit here.

Looms as Test Case.

In the meantime, the fight over the route being followed by the northern Nevin Lines has come to issue. The company representatives declare formal application for a change in their routing to permit picking up passengers at the Pennsylvania avenue depot was sent the commission several weeks ago. The commission says it never received the letter.

Apparently commission officials are determined to go ahead the same as if they had not heard of the letter and impose the fine and make a test case of the affair. Charles W. Darr and Sefton Darr, of Darr & Darr, attorneys for the Nevin Lines, Inc., refuse to discuss the situation for publication, saying that the matter will be amicably settled. Members of the commission, however, are known to be vexed and determined to see who is who in a situation in which the commission has little authority in view of the United States Supreme Court decisions declaring that State commissions can not interfere with interstate bus operations.

Youth's Wedding, Laid To Fear, Is Annulled

Justice Alfred A. Wheat, in District Supreme Court, yesterday awarded an interlocutory annulment of marriage to George Bruckman, who resides on Seventeenth street northwest, near DeSales street, from his wife, Dorothy Flacher Bruckman, of I street southeast, near Eleventh. Bruckman, a minor, brought his action through Minnie B. Bruckman as next friend.

Bruckman, on the stand, testified that he married his wife through fear. He told the court that his wife's sister threatened to report him to a certain secret organization unless he went through the ceremony. He was represented by Attorney Godfrey L. Munter.

SENATE LOBBY QUIZ GROUP HOLDS SESSION

Henry Miller Service.

PANTAGES COACHED HIM, WITNESS SAYS

Theater Employe Tells How Magnate Mapped Out What to Relate.

CLASHES MARK TRIAL

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The first inkling to Alexander Pantages' own version of what happened in the "little room" of his theater building the afternoon of August 9 came today from the lips of one of the millionaire's employes, a State witness in the trial of a statutory charge against the one time Alaska dance hall proprietor.

William Jobelman, publicity manager for Pantages here at the time of the alleged attack against Eunice Pringle, coed dancer, and now his press representative in Kansas City and Minneapolis, appeared as a reluctant witness after a turbulent cross examination of W. C. Hale, motion picture player.

District Attorney Buron Fitts inquired immediately into the principal circumstances of the incident as Jobelman took the stand.

"Did you at any time talk to Pantages afterward?"

"On Saturday, August 10, I talked with Mr. Pantages about the alleged attack."

"Did he refer to anything you might might say to the district attorney?"

Pantages Repeated Story.

"I asked if I could help regarding what occurred in the little room. Mr. Pantages said, 'I was going down stairs to see you on some business matter and Miss Pringle was coming down behind me. I found your door locked and she wanted to talk to me. So I stepped into the little room to talk and she made a fuss and almost immediately she began screaming.' I asked what I should tell the district attorney and he repeated the story."

"Was there anything more?"

"I can't recall anything else."

Presiding Judge Charles Fricke took the witness out of Fitt's hand and asked "about how long did you and Pantages talk over the matter?"

"We had various conversations throughout the day."

The court asked for a definite estimate of the total time.

"Well, I should judge about half hour in all."

Fitts resumed the questioning.

"Did Pantages say anything about you being in the little room?"

"Yes. I had come out of the little room into my office (before the alleged attack) when Pantages came down with Miss Pringle. This was that afternoon (August 9). I judge Pantages asked if I had been in the little room."

Court Warns Prosecutor.

Fitts commenced requestioning of Jobelman, attempting to learn whether Pantages had instructed him to give certain testimony. The move brought down a flood of objections from the defense which clearly irritated the prosecutor.

"Now your honor," Fitts protested, "here is a witness still on the payroll of this defendant. I will state we should be granted latitude in endeavoring to obtain evidence from him."

The court concurred but warned the prosecutor to beware of leading questions.

Returning to his questioning Fitts efforts were met by repeated "no, sirs" from the witness amid subsequent defense objections, which were sustained.

"Did you come to the district attorney's office during the investigation of this matter?" Fitts asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Did you make a statement to the district attorney?"

"Yes, sir."

A recess was taken at this point.

Devilfish Tows Skiff Eight Miles Into Gulf

Gulfport, Miss., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—A mammoth devilfish dragged Lieut. Gov. Bidwell Adams and his skiff 8 miles out into the Gulf of Mexico last night before he cut his line and was rescued by a passing yacht.

The monster struck the lieutenant governor's tarpon line in mid-afternoon, and he and his guide fought the fish until darkness fell and they had been dragged far into the gulf.

"It was as big as a house, about 18 or 20 feet broad," Adams said.

Pantages Witness Held On Charge of Forgery

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Jay Sheridan, surprise witness yesterday for the prosecution in the assault trial of Alexander Pantages in Los Angeles, was held here today under $10,000 bail on a charge of forging a check for $250.

Arrested last month, Sheridan was released on $1,500 bail furnished by a San Diego bank official. When Justice of the Peace Arthur L. Mundo today ordered the bail raised to $10,000, the bank official withdrew his security. The court set November 6 for Sheridan's preliminary hearing.

Rites Tomorrow For Maj. Herron

Geological Survey Engineer, of Central Unit, to Be Buried in Arlington.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in St. Margaret's Episcopal Church for Maj. William Harrison Herron, engineer in charge of the central division of the topographic branch, United States Geological Survey, who died at Urbana, Ill., Wednesday. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Maj. Herron was born near Danville, Ill., November 20, 1865, and spent his early years on his father's farm. He became associated with the Geological Survey in 1885, rising through various grades until in 1907 he was placed in charge of the central division, with the title of geographer. In 1916 he served as acting chief geographer.

During the World War he served as major of Engineers from June 25, 1917, until March 25, 1919. He was placed in charge of military mapping in the Eastern department of the Army.

Maj. Herron was a member of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church and was a vestryman for several years. He belonged also to the Cosmos Club and the Washington Society of Engineers. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Lillian Young Herron, of Florence Courts West, and a son, Lieut. Donald S. Herron, of the Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Monroe.

GAS BOMBS HURLED IN $32,000 HOLDUP

Salt Lake Auto Bandits Shoot Policeman and Seize Bank Messenger's Grip.

GIRL PASSER-BY BLINDED

Salt Lake City, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Two holdup men attacked A. G. Jackson, bank messenger, with tear-gas bombs on the street here this afternoon, shot W. M. Rogers, a policeman, through the neck, and escaped with $32,000 in cash.

The robbers, in a small car, dashed from an alley opposite the Church Office Building on South Temple street, threw a bomb at Jackson, a messenger for the Utah State National Bank, shot the officer who was guarding him and escaped. The messenger was on his way to the Federal Reserve Bank nearby when the holdup occurred.

Two other men were reported to have been in the car in which the robbers drove away after they had seized the satchel containing the money.

The robbery was witnessed by several passersby and employes of the Deseret book store, one of whom, Lapheal Larsen, a young woman clerk, was blinded by the tear gas.

Stone Hurts Boy's Leg In Schoolhouse Yard

Nine-year-old Max Goldberg, of 413 Four-and-a-half street southwest, suffered a possible fracture of the left leg yesterday when struck by a stone, thrown, police reported, by Russell Downe, address unknown, while at play in the Fairbrothers School yard at Tenth and E streets southwest.

The child was given treatment at Emergency Hospital by Dr. I. Rutkoski and later permitted to return to his home.

$20,000 Damages Claimed in Crash

Two Women File Actions, Accusing Auto Drivers of Negligence.

Two suits for damages aggregating $20,000 were filed yesterday in District Supreme Court against Joseph Kushner, of 3500 Eighteenth street northeast, and Mary Charlotte Zveare, 1108 Buchanan street northwest, as the result of an automobile collision June 21 last between automobiles owned and operated by the defendants.

Plaintiffs in the actions, both of which are brought through Attorneys Michael M. Doyle and Frank B. Hoffman, are Jennie W. Kiewics, of Hyde Park, Mass., and Antoinette Zveare, of Buchanan street near Georgia avenue northwest.

Both plaintiffs set out that they were invited passengers in the automobile of Mary Charlotte Zveare and were proceeding along Monroe street northeast between Twentieth and Twenty-second streets when their vehicle and the automobile operated by Kushner collided. Each plaintiff says she suffered permanent injuries and alleges that the drivers of the two automobiles failed to exercise reasonable care and prudence.

SUBPENAS IN LOBBY INQUIRY ARE READY

Senators Will Open Hearing Tuesday; Tariff to Be First Subject.

GRUNDY EARLY WITNESS

(Associated Press.)

Subpenas were prepared yesterday for the first of the witnesses to be called by the Senate lobby committee when it opens hearings of those interested in the pending tariff measure next Tuesday.

The decision to begin the inquiry on that day and to call tariff witnesses first was reached yesterday as the committee of five headed by Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, organized.

Grundy to Be Called Early.

Just who the first witness will be has not been determined and will be announced only after the subpenas have been served. It is known, however, that Senator Caraway intends to call early in the hearings Joseph R. Grundy, representative of the American Tariff League, and William Burgess, of Trenton, N. J., a former Republican member of the Tariff Commission.

Burgess has been in Washington while the tariff bill has been before the Senate. Grundy has been here almost constantly since the bill was started through the House last winter.

Eyanson Will Be Heard.

Chairman Caraway also announced yesterday that Charles L. Eyanson, an employe of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, who was employed by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, to assist him in his work on the finance committee in framing the tariff measure, would be called.

"Mr. Eyanson will be given ample opportunity to explain his double salary," the senator said.

15,000 WATCH ARMY DESTRUCTION TESTS

Fourteen-Inch "Big Bertha" Casts Shell 25 Miles at Aberdeen.

ROBOT FIRES BATTERY

Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The Army trotted out its postwar ordnance developments here today to show how much destruction modern armed aircraft can cause on land and its new means of resisting airplane attacks.

Spectacular tests of aircraft bombing and "strafing," tank and motorized infantry maneuvers and anti-aircraft gunnery were staged in connection with the eleventh annual meeting of the American Ordnance Association.

The 15,000 who gathered to hear a 4,000-pound airplane bomb explode were somewhat disappointed. Army officials became cautious and the two bombs, released from a height of 6,000 feet, fell 4 miles away. One failed to explode, but the second fell into a forest, exploded and gouged out a crater 20 feet deep and 80 feet in diameter, tossing trees and debris skyward.

High Government Army and Navy officials witnessed the exhibition. Among them was Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, who stepped off from an airplane flight en route to Lakehurst, N. J., where he later took his first ride in the dirigible Los Angeles.

Another feature of the demonstration was a battery of 75-millimeter mobile antiaircraft guns, operated by an electrical robot. Firing shrapnel at a target towed by an airplane at an altitude of 7,500 feet, the guns scored 20 hits. Machine gun antiaircraft firing registered 74 hits at a target towed 100 miles an hour at a height of 2,000 feet.

One round was fired from a 14-inch gun, the concussion from which was felt a mile away. The huge projectile was thrown nearly 25 miles.

Benedict Crowell, president of the ordnance group, and Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, president of the National Aeronautical Association, spoke.

You can always start the day with a smile if you turn to the page of comics in The Washington Post. Some of America's most famous cartoon characters have their laughable adventures there every day.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

THE shingle bloc threatens to defeat the tariff bill if it does not get what it wants. Not only have the Republican Northwestern senators united in a demand for a tariff on shingles, but a group of Democrats is working vigorously for the same result. It hopes to poll ten Democratic senators for a duty on shingles when the roll is called on this schedule.

This latter feature causes considerable perturbation among the Democratic leadership, especially in executive committee headquarters, where Jouett Shouse and Charles R. Michelson have been laying down a barrage against the whole principle of protection. So that the idea of ten Democratic senators voting for this duty is not one for the party leaders to contemplate with patience. How can they make a tariff issue if Democratic senators insist on having their local products protected?

• • • •

WHILE he has been keeping very quiet about it, and has made no threats and no promises—in fact, no one knows whether he will vote for the bill as a whole even if the duty on shingles is granted—Senator Dill, of Washington, is regarded as the moving spirit in the Democratic shingle bloc. Dill has always been a puzzle to the Democratic leadership. He surprised the country by defeating Miles Poindexter seven years ago, and he rather surprised the leadership of his party when he weathered a Hoover landslide in his State of 180,000 and was returned last year by 30,000 majority.

Other Democratic senators who may vote for the duty on shingles, though this list is tentative and subject to change, are Kendrick, of Wyoming; Ashurst, of Arizona; Brattan, of New Mexico; Pittman, of Nevada; Ransdell and Broussard, of Louisiana, Trammell and Fletcher, of Florida, and possibly Wheeler, of Montana. This list represents the optimistic opinion of members of the bloc, but it will be noted that all of the Democratic senators named, with the exception of those from the two sugar-producing States of Louisiana and Florida, are from the West, making it one of the highly interesting sectional splits which has developed in the present tariff revision.

• • • •

THE only Democratic senators from the West who are not hopefully included in this shingle bloc are Walsh, of Montana, who has so far become interested only in a tariff on manganese, and King, of Utah, who wishes to vote against all the tariff increases except that on sugar.

Meanwhile, what is generally referred to as the Northwest—Minnesota, the Dakotas and Iowa—is seething against the duty on shingles. The big lumber interests of Minnesota have large forest holdings in Canada. They had made so much headway before the organization of the Republican and Democratic shingle blocs that the Senate committee had removed the duty on shingles (now on the free list) which the House of Representatives had imposed. They were in a fair way to have the Senate strike the duty out.

As a matter of fact if the vote for a tariff on shingles were being held independently, assuming the tariff bill to have passed and this a separate bill, there is no doubt whatever that it would be snowed under. The farmers as a whole are opposed to it. They have to buy shingles to roof their houses and barns. So the Middle West and South could be counted almost unanimously against it. The city dweller buys no shingles. They are forbidden by fire and insurance regulations in most fair-sized towns even. But in the cities there is a considerable sentimental objection to a tariff on shingles, logs or lumber of any sort. This is due to the emphasis placed for many years in the public schools on Arbor Day and the necessity for planting trees. In the last few years the general public has been educated up to the idea that it has been the denuding of the forests which is responsible for the floods which have played such havoc.

SO, on the whole, the idea of cutting down the trees in a foreign country and saving those in this country has come to have a considerable appeal so far as the general public is concerned.

This sentimental appeal, by the way, is attacked by members of the shingle bloc with considerable vigor. They insist the cedar trees from which shingles are cut would have to be felled anyway when the trees all around them in a forest are cut down. The cedar trees, it is said, run about one in ten in the Northwestern forests. Left alone, the shingle bloc senators insist, they would be blown down in the first storm, having been deprived of a shelter and support they had grown to depend upon.

But what really moves the shingle bloc senators to oratory is the growth of shingle importations from Canada. These have expended in a few years from around half a million to six billion a year. Now the State of Washington is producing about 8,000,000,000 shingles a year, with Oregon second. So in those two States the issue is vital.

Even Senator Borah is impressed with the idea that the argument for a tariff on shingles has merit, though he will vote for nothing but farm schedules. But if the duty on shingles is imposed it will be simply and solely because the leaders do not believe they can obtain enough votes for the bill as a whole without it.

SENATORS DERIDE CUSTOMS AIDS AS CENSORS OF BOOKS

taking chairs around him and giving close attention to what he had to say. He did not read the list.

The "black list," Cutting said, showed the "depth of absurdity" to which officials went in forbidding entry to books. On the list were the names of Boccacio, Aristophanes and Voltaire, and included in it were books in Spanish, French, Italian and English.

Pointing out that a French edition of the "Arabian Nights" and books of Balzac had been barred, Cutting said the question of free speech and free thought in this country was of greater importance than the tariff bill. He argued the question should be left to the States, where juries could decide whether books are harmful and that "this legislation tries to keep this sort of thing from a jury."

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, called attention to the fact that 30 or 40 pages had been eliminated from the American version of "All Quiet on the Western Front," a recent German war novel, and inquired what the nature of the deletion was.

"Hasn't the senator been able to secure the original?" Cutting asked.

"I haven't," Dill answered.

"I've been equally unfortunate," Cutting said, as the galleries smiled.

Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, said he had the book "if any senator wanted it," adding that there was "nothing immoral" in it and that the book "tells the truth" about war.

WAGGONER IS GIVEN 15 YEARS IN PRISON

Banker's Robin Hood Claim in Swindle Fails to Impress Court.

ENTERS PLEA OF GUILTY

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—An elderly small-town banker who came out of the West with a scheme that caused six of New York's biggest banks to turn over $500,000 to his credit pleaded guilty today to mail fraud, but insisted that he was a Robin Hood of high finance rather than an ordinary criminal.

The man is Charles Delos Waggoner, president of the bankrupt Bank of Telluride, Colo. He was sentenced to fifteen years in Atlanta Penitentiary. Before sentence was imposed he told the judge before whom he entered his unexpected plea just how he thought his fraud should be regarded.

"I was under a moral obligation to commit crime," he said. "It was a matter of duty. The people of Telluride were largely dependent on that bank. It was a matter of protecting depositors, persons of Telluride whom I knew and whom I did not want to suffer."

Covering Up, Says State.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle drew a far different picture of the crime and the criminal. He said his investigation had shown that Waggoner long had been looting his own bank and when he realized at last the day of reckoning was upon him he conducted the half-million dollar coup in the hope that he could cover up his earlier misdeeds.

"The only reason why the Bank of Telluride went under," Tuttle said, "was the same that caused the private banks of the Clarke Bros., in this city to go to the wall a few months ago. It had been scuttled from the inside."

Federal Judge Frank Coleman listened to both descriptions and decided that the prosecutor's was the more reasonable. He imposed sentences of five years each for three counts in the indictment, those sentences to run consecutively, and five years for the remaining three counts, that time to run concurrently with the other, a total of 15 years to serve in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Fooled Biggest Banks.

"I am convinced," he told the impassive banker, "that the theory of the defense (the Robin Hood idea) is highly improbable, and that your crime was deliberately planned and involved no altruism."

Waggoner's crime was one of the most astounding in banking history. He had messages sent to six New York banks in bankers' code, signed with the signatures of six Denver banks, authorizing them to place in one Manhattan bank an aggregate of $500,000 to the credit of Waggoner.

Then he came East, walked into the bank he had selected as a depository, identified himself, and was given paper representing the half million. With part of it he paid off personal obligations and those of his bank and some he had sent out to Telluride to pay off his depositors.

It was not until he had disappeared that the banks learned the messages of authorization were forgeries; that the Denver banks had never sent them and disclaimed any part in the transaction.

Bomb Wrecks Plane; Flier Dies in Plunge

Guymon, Okla., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Shattered by a premature explosion of a bomb during a stunt flight at the county fair here, an airplane crashed to the ground from an altitude of 500 feet, killing J. Jimmy ("Mile High") Bethel, 30, of St. Joseph, Mo., and dangerously injuring John Noonan, Guymon, the pilot.

Bethel, an aerial stunt performer, released a five-second bomb from the front cockpit which failed to clear the plane before it exploded. One wing was blown off and the plane dived to earth.

Reparations Bank Taboos Are Fixed

Conference Decides What New Institution Will Not Undertake.

Baden-Baden, Germany, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The conference on the Bank for International Settlements, which is to handle German reparation payments under the Young plan, made decided progress today by agreeing provisionally on several things which the institution will not do.

It was decided that the new bank will not issue notes nor create credits, but will merely transfer, distribute and mobilize existing credits. Its practice beyond that point will be left for the future.

With these don'ts clearly established, the delegates tonight felt that they had avoided dangers that might have arisen from inflation, the interference of the International Bank with private enterprise or the domination of economics of any country. The French were especially cautious not to give the bank wide powers from the start. They thought that it would fully justify its existence as a receiver and distributor of reparations and as a stabilizer of exchange.

DEPUTY "DROPPED" MARION STRIKERS

Shot Two in Self-Defense, Ward Testifies at Riot Inquiry.

ALL BACK UP SHERIFF

Marion, N. C., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The story of the gun fight that climaxed a strike at the Marion Manufacturing Co. October 2 was unfolded here today by deputy sheriffs who maintained they fired only after they had been fired on by strikers.

Five men, all strikers, lost their lives as a result of the fight, 15 peace officers were arrested charged with murder and between 50 and 60 strikers were charged with rioting, rebellion and resisting an officer. Two of the police officers have been released since Judge W. F. Harding, of the North Carolina Superior Court, began an investigation.

Broad Robins, deputy, and one of those charged with murder, testified he shot at a striker after the man had taken two shots at him. It was after this, he said, that the shooting became general.

Charlie Tate, another deputy, declared two men had fired at him at the same time and it was only after this that he pulled his gun.

Sheriff O. F. Adkins, who testified yesterday that he had not fired a shot, did not pull his gun, Tate said, but on the contrary, was struggling on the ground with strikers who had attacked him.

Still another deputy, Robert Ward, testified that he had shot three times at two men who were shooting at him.

"What did they do?" he was asked.

"They dropped," he replied. "I shot only to save my own life. They were shooting at me."

All the officers agreed that no one was shot while running away. Strikers have accused the sheriff's force of shooting men in the back.

WARRANT OF ARREST OUT FOR CONSTABLE

Prince Georges Officer Is Accused of Shooting Twice at Student.

HEARING SET FOR TODAY

William B. Acker, Washington law student, yesterday obtained a warrant for the arrest of Prince Georges County Constable Walter F. Good, charging assault. The hearing is due to be held today at Upper Marlboro before Judge Sheriff. If the constable is found guilty he may be automatically dismissed, although it is held likely, that in case of conviction in police court, he will appeal. In this case the matter will be finally settled at some future term of the circuit court.

Acker accused the constable of firing at him twice on the road near Laurel during a chase as a suspected hijacker, for whom Good was looking. Acker asserts that he thought the constable, whom, he says, did not show his badge or make his identity known, was a highwayman.

State police, acting under the orders of Gov. Ritchie, are now making an investigation of the circumstances.

No indication has been given yet as to whether the grand jury, now in session at Upper Marlboro, will undertake an investigation of the death of Thomas Franklin Burroughs. The grand jury Tuesday heard an account of the death from County Officer A. G. Thompson, who requested the grand jury to investigate. To date, however, that body has summoned no further witnesses, though it is held probable that the investigation may be decided upon a week after the grand jury has acted upon the 30-odd cases now before it.

Burroughs died in a Washington hospital following an automobile accident at Silver Hill. The immediate cause of death was pneumonia aggravated by his injuries. It was thought at first that his injuries were sustained in the accident, but it developed that there had been a fight at a roadhouse a short time before and it was claimed that Burroughs had sustained injuries there.

County officials generally, however, take little stock in this theory.

Frank H. Beach, in the Circuit Court in Upper Marboro yesterday, was found guilty by a jury of driving while drunk and of reckless driving.

On the night of August 6 last Beach was arrested by County Officer A. C. Thompson after a car operated by Beach had struck a truck belonging to Lewis Sherman, of 7105 Georgia avenue. The accident occurred near Clinton. At the police court Beach was fined $100 on the drunken driving charge and $25 for reckless driving. Sentence yesterday in the Circuit Court conviction was deferred.

A marriage license was issued yesterday at Upper Marlboro to Harry Lee Anderson, of Berwyn, to wed Dorothy Elizabeth Boyle, of Berwyn.

Manslaughter Charge Placed Against Slayer

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 10.—Authorities indicated today that only a charge of manslaughter would be pressed against J. W. Pierce, of Shenandoah Junction, W. Va., who shot and killed Luther Grey, 37 years old, former deputy sheriff. Grey died at the local hospital last night from wounds received Sunday night from a revolver in the hands of Pierce.

Pierce, in a confession to police, said he shot Grey only after the latter had tried to arrest him following a quarrel a week previous. Witnesses to the shooting have borne out his statement. Pierce was wounded in the shoulder when Grey shot at him. The shooting took place near Sharpsburg. Grey, no longer an officer, had no authority to make arrests, police say.

West Virginia Masons Honor Fairmont Man

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 10.—H. H. Rose, Fairmont attorney, was elected grand pursuivant of the State Grand Lodge of Masons this afternoon at its annual convention here. As all other positions were filled by advancement, interest centered chiefly in this election.

Dr. Dorsey C. Peck, of Grafton, was elected grand master; Dr. William T. Morris, of Wheeling, deputy grand master; John W. Defebre, of Ronceverte, senior grand warden; Frank F. Flaig, of Parkersburg, junior grand warden; Lawson D. Willis, of Kenova, senior grand deacon; H. F. White, Shepherdstown, junior grand deacon, and John W. Ashley, of Charleston, grand marshal. Samuel N. Myers, of Martinsburg, was reelected treasurer, and George S. Laidley, grand secretary.

Tobacco Men Ask Ear of President

Interview Sought as Low Prices in Old Belt Fail to Improve.

Danville, Va., Oct. 10.—Tobacco growers in the Old Belt who are dissatisfied with prevailing prices have made the first move towards taking their case directly to President Hoover.

William C. Holman, of Greensboro, N. C., claiming to represent growers of this and adjacent sections, has written to Senator F. S. Simmons informing him that prices in this belt have declined since the recent Washington tobacco conference and have not been stimulated by the increased wholesale price arrived at by the large domestic manufacturers.

He is calling on Senator Simmons to see President Hoover and to arrange if possible a meeting between the growers and the President to discuss the situation and possible remedies. The average here is standing at 15½ cents a pound. The deliveries are not in usual volume and the belief is the producers are holding back their tobacco hoping for a turn in the market.

CHURCH AUXILIARY SELECTS OFFICERS

Roanoke Woman Is Returned as President of Group at Staunton, Va.

PULASKI FOR NEXT YEAR

Staunton, Va., Oct. 10.—Mrs. W. H. B. Loving, of Roanoke, was reelected today president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Diocese of Southwestern Virginia, and delegates to the tenth annual convention chose Pulaski, Va., as the place of meeting next October.

Mrs. Robert Carter Jett, of Roanoke, wife of the bishop of this diocese, was elected honorary president. Other officers selected are:

Miss Helen Otey, Wythesville, reelected first vice president; Mrs. Thomas D. Lewis, Amherst, reelected second vice president; Mrs. Thomas D. Spindle, Salem, secretary, who succeeds Miss Julia Leach, of Roanoke, resigned; Mrs. Gordon H. Baker, Roanoke, treasurer, reelected; Mrs. Landon Lowry, Bedford, reelected educational secretary of James River Convocation; Mrs. K. A. Grandstaff, Bristol, reelected educational secretary of New River Convocation; Mrs. W. E. Minges, Abingdon, reelected custodian of the United Thank Offering, and Mrs. J. W. Johnson, Lynchburg, reelected director of the Church Periodical Club.

Among the business transacted today was the adoption of resolutions on the death of John Gardner Murray, of Maryland, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States; resolutions on the tenth anniversary of the elevation of Dr. Jett to the bishopric, and resolutions conveying to the diocesan executive board the auxiliary's interest in and support of the project to establish a mission school in Wise County which will give instruction in high school subjects.

The budget for the coming year was fixed at $3,000. There are 47 branch auxiliaries in the diocese, and 35 were represented here at the convention, which was closed this afternoon.

Elkins Y. M. C. A. Pays Honor to Mrs. Elkins

Special to The Washington Post.

Elkins, W. Va., Oct. 10.—The auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. here was crowded at a service marking dedication of a tablet to Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins, of Washington, founder of the Young Men's Christian Association here, who made a gift of the original building. Senator H. B. Martin, president, presided.

Dr. James E. Allen, president of Davis and Elkins College, read the dedicatory address. He paid tribute to Mrs. Elkins, whose portrait adorns the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. Prayer was offered by the Rev. J. McD. Lacy, pastor of the Davis Memorial Presbyterian Church. The Rotary Quartet, composed of Dr. C. H. Hall, Dr. G. H. Neale, Prof. Dobbins and Prof. Phil Davies, sang. The Goldberg Trio, composed of Alex Goldberg and N. I. Hall, jr., violinists, and Mrs. G. H. Overholt, accompanist, gave selections.

COALITION SPEAKER ASSAILS GOV. BYRD

Virginia Executive Is Called Dangerous Influence by Col. Wise.

CRITICIZES DR. POLLARD

Sandston, Va., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Col. Jennings C. Wise, in a speech prepared for delivery here tonight on behalf of the coalition candidates, said: "Because he has been unable to envisage more than the material prosperity of our people, in my opinion, Gov. Byrd has proved a dangerous influence.

"I can not discover any broader vision on the part of Dr. Pollard, who seems to have accepted without protest the program of the bosses," he added. "Not one word has he uttered in this campaign as to those great moral reforms which are vital to the welfare of our people. Again, I ask, what profiteth our wealth if our souls be lost?"

Col. Wise said in part:

"In all political societies there is a caste who deem themselves the aristocracy of the State. Always they look upon those who question their right to exploit the masses as incendiary radicals. Thus, in Virginia today, with profound indifference to history, this class refuses to recognize the political revolution which years of maladministration of our government has induced. Blinded by prejudice, they are opposing those who are trying to give to revolution conservative leadership, to prevent it from taking a radical turn, when in fact the present leaders are trying to save them from their own indifference.

"The people of Virginia are inherently the most conservative I know, slow to act, but when they do act they act with conviction. Prejudice can not rule forever. We must, in the great march of time, as St. Paul said, renew our minds.

"The so-called plain people are already deeply stirred. If the present conservative revolution is repressed, anger will take the place of what is now a laudable demand on the part of a democratic people for a better government. Then the masses will rise and the revolution will take a radical turn.

"In my opinion, Gov. Byrd has proved a dangerous influence. I can not discover any broader vision on the part of Dr. Pollard, who seems to have accepted without protest the program of the bosses. Not one word has he uttered in this campaign as to those great moral reforms which are vital to the welfare of our people. Again, I ask, what profiteth our wealth if our souls be lost."

Convicted Robber Gets Ten-Year Term

Charles Town, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Forest Oakes, Brunswick, Md., was sentenced to ten years in the State penitentiary by Judge D. H. Rodgers in circuit court here this morning following conviction last week of holding up and robbing J. W. Clevenger, garage proprietor, at Halltown, W. Va., in July. Oakes worked in Charles Town at the time. He was arrested at Frederick, Md., when he arrived later with his fiancee, of Ranson, near here, whom he intended to marry at Frederick.

Trial of Mrs. Mary Huff, scheduled for today, ended abruptly when she entered a plea of guilty to possession of liquor. She was sentenced to jail for 90 days and fined $300 and costs.

Dr. Herbert Kneisley Dead at Hagerstown

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 10.—Dr. Herbert Lee Kneisley, prominent retired physician and interested in a number of local business enterprises, died here today after a long illness, at the age of 52.

He was born at Woodstock, Va., graduated from the Medical School of the University of Maryland in 1905, practiced a year at Westminster, Md., and then came here. He retired from the profession in 1919 to care for his other business interests. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War. Besides his widow, Mrs. Daisy Bester Kneisley, one daughter, Mary B., survives him. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from the residence.

Parent Group Elects.

Danville, Va., Oct. 10 (Special).—Mrs. Millard F. McKinsey was elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association of George Washington High School here.

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON HEADS' INACTION ASSAILED

Delegate Reid Declares They Seem Indifferent to Tax-Change Proposal.

DENTAL CLINICS PRAISED

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Returning from Richmond yesterday, Hugh Reid, member of the Virginia House of Delegates, who, with State Senator Frank L. Ball, attended the meeting of the State Gasoline Tax Commission, declared last night that Arlington County faces a drastic cut in the amount it now receives from the State. Should the area plan for distribution of the gasoline tax be adopted, the county would receive between $1,600 and $1,700, instead of the $70,000 it now receives each year, he said.

The county now receivs its share of the gasoline tax based on the amount of taxes paid annually by the county to the State.

"Failure of the county board of supervisors to take action to support the other counties which are opposing such a drastic change is not helping the fight that Senator Ball and I are making to save the county from such a heavy loss," declared Reid.

"I have appeared before the county board of supervisors at their monthly meetings on two occasions and more than a year ago wrote them a letter, in which I stated that plans for a change in the distribution—in the gasoline tax was being considered by the General Assembly, but up to the present time no action has been taken by the governing body of the county.

"While the supervisors of numerous counties attended the meeting of the commission yesterday, none appeared from Arlington County.

"No county in the State has State highways more heavily traveled, together with its many county roads, the latter maintained by the county, than Arlington County. It being the smallest county in the State, should a plan such as the area plan be adopted, would be in a serious condition as far as being able to keep up its roads is concerned."

In conclusion Reid stated that a movement will be started for joint action by counties to oppose the area plan.

Picturing the dental clinics, as maintained under supervision of the Arlington County Health Department and in charge of Dr. C. R. Boyland, county school dentist, as among the most efficient in the State, Dr. N. Tally Ballou, director of the bureau of mouth hygiene, State Health Department, addressing a number of out of town doctors who attended the special clinic held yesterday at the Nellie Custis School, in Virginia Highlands, declared the practice as followed in the county might well be followed in any city or State.

"We make the standard under which the child is said to have a perfect mouth and if the work is done by the family doctor it must come up to our standard, or the special five-point certificate is not issued," he said.

"There is no work that the health department can do in the school that means more to the student than the dental clinic," Dr. Ballou added. While Arlington County is the smallest county in the State, it has a full-time health officer, sanitary officer, two special nurses and dentist." He complimented the county on its program.

Among those who attended the clinic were Dr. L. W. Morrey, director of dental work of Chicago; Dr. W. R. Davis, director of dental work of Michigan; Dr. S. R. Meaker, of Tennessee, chairman of the State Dental Directors Association; Dr. G. H. Wandel, of Chicago, director of the American Dental Association; Dr. E. A. Branch, North Carolina; Dr. Thomas A. Gardner, Iowa; Dr. F. M. Erienbach, Massachusetts, and Dr. C. Wise, Ohio.

The bowling and dance committee of the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department will hold a special meeting tomorrow night in the firemen's hall to perfect plans for a dance. The plan is now for the department and its auxiliary to hold a dance in the Old Columbia Pike Schoolhouse, October 31.

The bowling team of the Arlington Fire Department will hold its scheduled game tomorrow night at Rosslyn. The department is a member of the league formed by the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The Arlington Rotary Club held its weekly luncheon meeting yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club, with President Dr. R. N. Sutton presiding.

W. B. Clarkson, of Washington, assistant to President Wilson, of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., addressing the club, declared the treatment afforded employes of that company, permitting them to become stockholders, providing insurance and many other features, made them better employes, which also made it possible to give to the general public the efficient service to which it is entitled.

S. A. Wiseman, of Fairfax, narrowly escaped serious injury while stacking corn at his farm Wednesday afternoon, when one of the stocks broke and pierced his left eye. He was taken to the Eye and Ear Hospital in Washington, where he was treated by Dr. Burke. His condition last night was said to be much imroved.

T. W. McHugh has been elected president of the Potomac Fire Department. Other officers are Sidney J. Hammerseley, vice president; Richard A. Roseberry, secretary; J. Wilson Gladden, assistant secretary; Roy G. Craver, treasurer; Ladrue Strobel, lieutenant of engine company; Junius Cobean, jr., sergeant of engine company; Samuel B. DeVaughan, lieutenant of truck company, and J. B. Butler, sergeant of truck company.

The election of line officers for the truck company has been made in anticipation of the City of Alexandria providing a truck for Potomac after December 31, when the town becomes a part of the city as the result of the annexation proceedings.

Budget Hints Tax Cut In St. Marys County

Special to The Washington Post.

Leonardtown, Md., Oct. 10.—Study of the budget of the county commissioners of St. Marys County shows that this year's tax rate on $100 is lower than previously.

The total assessable basis in the county for the year 1929 is $8,536,290. The expenses of the county will be $128,093.93. The rate for this year is $1.51 on $100. The total assessable basis for the year 1928 was $8,271,930. Expenses were $135,019.35 and the rate last year was $1.63 on $100.

Virginia Building Projects Involve Millions, Report

Field Representative of State Department of Labor and Industry Submits Review, Covering Second Half of August, Which Shows Huge Commitments.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Millions are involved in industrial, building and other activities in Virginia in the period August 16 to August 31, covered in a report submitted by William Boncer, field representative of the State department of labor and industry, to John Hopkins Hall, jr., State-Federal director, public employment service.

Boncer's survey for the fifteen-day period follows:

Dorchester—The Wise Coal & Coke Co. is spending about $200,000 in sinking a shaft and the erection of a new tipple.

Pardee—The Blackwood Coal & Coke Co. is spending a large sum of money in the opening of a new drift into high splint seam of coal on Black Mountain and the construction of a conveyor line.

St. Charles—The Benedict Coal Corporation is spending about $250,000 in the construction of a new unit to their tipple, a new incline plane to the new mine recently opened into the number 12, or high splint seam of coal near the top of Black Mountain and for new equipment to their plant.

The Kemmerer Gem Coal Co. has expended over $25,000 at their mine in the construction of a new fan house, new explosive container, improvements to their drift mouth and tipple and for new equipment.

Jewell Ridge—The Jewell Ridge Coal Corporation is spending a large sum of money in improvements to their mining operation and are planning for the opening and development of three new mines.

Wilderness—Henry Ford, the Detroit automobile manufacturer, has purchased a 200-acre tract of land on which the old Vaucluse gold mine is located. According to the records of the mint, more than $1,000,000 in gold was taken from this mine before the Civil War.

Grundy—A one-story brick high school building is to be erected at a cost of $24,000. It is reported that drillers putting down a well for the W. M. Ritter Lumber Co. and the Harmon interests have struck a body of natural gas at a depth of 900 feet.

Alexandria—The American Manganese & Fertilizer Corporation has been incorporated with a capital of $350,000 to develop mines and manufacture fertilizer. Albert S. Dulin, 1422 F street, Washington, D. C., is president.

Bristol—The Big Jack Overall Co. has added 100 new machines to its factory which will require 115 additional employes and increase the daily output from 1,000 dozen to 1,200 dozen.

Roanoke—The Jefferson Electric Co. is planning the erection of a modern fireproof store building, at 21 Franklin road. According to a report from the building inspector's office the number of permits issued during 1928 totaled 927, with a value of $3,355,191.31.

Emporia—The citizens of Emporia have a movement on foot to raise $50,000 to secure a new industry there.

Norfolk—The old Y. M. C. A. building is being remodeled and will be converted into a store building to be occupied by Rice's, Inc. Cost of alterations will be $102,000.

The Gulf Refining Co. has purchased about 66 acres of land on the southern branch of the Elizabeth River and the Belt Line Railroad, upon which it is expected that the oil company will develop an extensive distributing plant for Norfolk and adjacent territory.

The city council has appropriated $18,000 with which to establish a prison farm on land adjoining the city home. Work will be started at once.

The A. V. Moore Brass Works has completed arrangements with the Virginia Smelting Co., of West Norfolk, whereby the brass works will treat all lead products from the smelting plant and the smelting plant will handle all sales of the brass work's output from the lead. It is understood that this arrangement will necessitate the employment of a large number of men in the brass works.

Danville—Smith-Douglas Co. has acquired a 10-acre tract of land upon which they will erect a fertilizer plant at a cost of $50,000.

Fredericksburg—The Hughes Foulrod Construction Co., of Philadelphia, has been awarded the contract for the new $1,000,000 plant of the Sylvania Corporation and construction work has started already.

Lynchburg—Publix Theaters Corporation, subsidiary of Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation, will construct two new theaters at a cost of about $1,000,000. Work on them will start in about 60 days.

Wolf Trap—The Boston Brick Co. has opened a brick plant and equipped it with modern machinery, having a capacity for turning out 90,000 bricks per day.

Kenbridge—From 20 to 25 men are employed in the installation of the water and sewerage system with a weekly payroll of about $600. Prospects are bright for the location of a manufacturing plant which will employ 50 white, male workers.

Five men were sent from Kenbridge and vicinity to aid in harvesting and curing tobacco crops in Canada.

Latest reports indicate that farmers in the tobacco belt will receive about 10 per cent more for their crop this year than they did last year.

Winchester—The B. & C. Baking Co. has leased a building and are equipping it with modern bread ovens and other equipment for a bakery.

Boydton—It is reported that negotiations are being made for the construction of a hydroelectric power plant on the Roanoke River, near Boydton.

Culpeper—The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia is arranging for the purchase of the Culpeper company. Upon the completion of the sale the new owners propose to spend about $22,000 on improvements to the property.

Burkeville—A large amount of building construction work is now under way replacing buildings recently destroyed by fire.

Waynesboro—The city has sold $200,000 worth of bonds from which $150,000 will be used in general improvements and $50,000 for a water system. The Mid-Atlantic Concrete Pipe & Products Corporation, of Norfolk, will establish a branch plant at Waynesboro in which it will manufacture concrete pipe for the new industrial development now under way by the city incidental to the establishment of the large rayon plant of the Dupont Co.

South Bend—A radio transmitting station is to be established.

Chase City—A new high school building is to be erected at a cost of $45,000.

Gloucester Courthouse—A new Presbyterian church is to be erected in the near future.

Leesburg—A new addition is being built to the Lucketts High School at a cost of about $18,000.

Staunton—The city hall is to be remodeled at a cost of nearly $100,000.

Greene County—The Blue Ridge Industrial School will erect the Gibson Memorial Chapel at a cost of $20,000.

Williamsburg—J. A. Osborne, former publisher of Virginia, but recently located in Florida, is moving his plant from the latter State and will revive the Virginia Gazette, the first newspaper printed in Virginia, at historic Williamsburg.

Hopewell—Rapid progress is being made in construction of the several bridges for the branch line of the Seaboard Airline Railroad into Hopewell.

Martinsville—R. S. Brown and S. S. Stephens will erect a four-story office and apartment building at a cost of about $70,000. Other buildings under construction are as follows: New Montgomery Ward store building, $45,000; new addition to and remodelling of Henry County Courthouse, $55,000; new Stultz building, $10,000; new 20-room apartment house by I. Petuski, $15,000; new addition to Pannill Knitting Co. factory.

Harrisonburg—New construction work as follows: Incinerator to cost between $25,000 and $30,000; addition to city light and power plant, $25,000; addition to Virginia Craftsmen's Plant, $25,000; addition to plant of Shenandoah Valley Canning Corporation, $50,000; Spottswood building remodeled for hotel purposes, $35,000. Largest tourist travel stop-over in history of city.

Timberville—New addition to plant of Natural Cold Storage, Inc.

New Market—New garage being constructed at a cost of about $5,000.

Richmond—Improved employment conditions are reported for August by Special Agent Harton of the Public Employment Bureau. There were 893 positions filled in August as against 752 in July, 1929, and 811 in August, 1928. The Public Employment Bureau is ready to serve both employer and employe at all times without cost to either.

Permits for building and alteration work in August amounted to $233,547. New work authorized since January 1, 1929, totals $6,952,676 and alterations and repairs $685,387, making a grand total for the eight months of 1929 of $7,638,063, according to the report of Building Inspector Henry P. Beck.

A special effort is being made by city officials and representatives of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce and other organizations to have the Goodyear-Zeppelin Co. establish their American port in Richmond for transoceanic Zeppelins and other similar craft. If the effort is successful it will require about 1,000 acres of land for runways, hangars, shops and other buildings which will necessitate the expenditure of several millions of dollars.

SECOND PHILIPPINE TARIFF RIDER LOST

Chairman Bingham, of the territories committee, that he would hold hearings and attempt to obtain action at the regular session on the independence resolution of Senator King.

Disposal of the Philippine question permitted the tariff bill to slide back into an unobstructed pathway, temporarily at least. After some discussion, the Democrats lost, by a vote of 42 to 37, an attempt to strike from the bill a provision carried in existing law permitting manufacturers to protest appraisals and classifications of imported goods and intervene in the courts to pursue such complaints.

The section was opposed by many Democrats as another means to raise duties through boosting valuations of appraisers.

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, proposed to strike out the section, but six of his colleagues joined thirty-six Republicans to retain the provision. Nine Republicans, all of the Independent group, and 28 Democrats supported Harrison.

Many interpretations were placed on the significance of this vote, but one on which there seemed to be most agreement was that it proved the coalition of Democrats and Western Republicans, which has had unusual success in opposing the administrative provisions, could not hold together always.

Two Republican independents—Howell, Nebraska, and Schall, Minnesota—were among those voting against elimination of the section. The six Democrats desiring retention were Barkley, Kentucky; Copeland, New York; Heflin, Alabama; Steck, Iowa; Thomas, Oklahoma, and Trammell, Florida.

Republicans voting for withdrawal of the intervention privilege from the manufacturers were Blaine, Wisconsin; Borah, Idaho; Brookhart, Iowa; Frazier, North Dakota; La Follette, Wisconsin; McMaster, South Dakota; Norbeck, South Dakota; Norris, Nebraska, and Nye, North Dakota.

5,000 Cars Ordered By Southern Railway

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 10.—Purchase of 5,000 new freight cars by the Southern Railway System, to be delivered by the builders for service during the winter months, was announced today.

The order included 3,500 double-sheathed, steel-frame automobile box cars, 40 feet 6 inches in length and of 40-ton capacity, and 1,500 all-steel hopper-bottom coal cars of 55 tons capacity.

Factory Fire Chief Heart-Attack Victim

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 10.—Joseph Collins, 51, fire chief of the Tubize Artificial Silk Co., at Hopewell, died this morning at St. Elizabeths Hospital, Richmond. Collins had been suffering with heart trouble for several weeks and went to the hospital yesterday.

Chief Collins, who was from Kentucky, came to the Tubize Co. from the Dupont Chemical Co., of Wilmington, Del. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ada Collins, of City Point.

Moore to Quit House, He Hints

Virginia Representative Is Planning Not to Run in 1930, Belief.

Representative R. Walton Moore, Democrat, who represents the nearby Virginia counties in the House, will not be a candidate for reelection in 1930. At least, this was the interpretation placed upon statements made by him Tuesday and yesterday.

Addressing a political gathering Tuesday night, Moore said that it was "doubtful, more than doubtful," that he would be a candidate. Last night he said that was as far as he would go; that he had made no definite statement and would make none now.

In the ten years he has been in the House, Moore has put through legislation that has been helpful to both Washington and nearby Virginia. It was he who sponsored the legislation for the Mount Vernon boulevard, which is to connect the Lincoln Memorial Bridge with Mount Vernon.

RAIL COOPERATION WITH LABOR URGED

"those industries will prosper most which accept labor as an equal partner and labor will best prosper when it recognizes the obligations and the dignity of that partnership. We commenced the cooperative movement in the shops of the Canadian National Railways, with the following objectives: Continuity of employment, more kindly and satisfactory relationships, improvement in output with reduced unit costs, the introduction in shop administration of the brains of our men, and a more accurate conception on each side of the other's point of view.

"All of these objectives have been measurably achieved. The results have been well worth the effort. They stamp the whole movement as an unqualified success. The policy has now been extended to maintenance of way and promises equally advantageous results.

"I can almost visualize the day when the entire staff of the Canadian National will be operating under appropriate cooperative partnership plans. If it should finally develop that the parnershi theory has banished contention, tranquility and peace in industry, it may be that the nations of the earth will learn the same lesson, and a greater spirit of consideration and cooperation govern our international relations." J. T. Brownie, representing English machinists, swung into an address, the tone of which contrasted sharply with Sir Henry Thornton's from the moment he announced the labor party of that country to be "now the government of Great Britain."

"I'm not one of those who imagine that the labor government is going to effect a revolution," he said, "but labor will yet effect an economic and industrial evolution in society. We are yet faced with the representatives of organized predatory wealth; maybe they'll forego their rights and if they do, they'll be well advised, for they can no more arrest the onward drive of organized labor than they can arrest the sun. But I think it would be unintelligence to expect those people to get off our backs and say thank you."

President Green took issue quickly with the speakers.

"We are advancing our interests in the United States by pursuing a different policy from organized labor in Great Britain," he said. "We see in political power the same virtue that our English brothers do, but we are hard-headed men. We have a different country. It has 48 States, 48 government, and at least half of those States are each larger than Great Britain. We have a cosmopolitan people, with language and interests of great diversity. It is not possible in this great expanse and with this great diversity to create a single party organization like that which exists in compact Great Britain.

"Here is the difference that must always be considered. We know we are on the right track now in abstaining from party organization but if the time ever comes when the best interests of organized labor can be served by a labor party, we'll face the issue in this congress of labor."

James A. Whitebone, presenting the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, emphasized the unity between Canadian labor organizations and that in the United States, remarking incidentally that "dual organization is not causing us any concern in Canada. For the increase in trades union membership last year alone was greater than the total membership claimed for dual organizations."

Officers of the United Textile Workers made public today a resolution, advanced for federation consideration, proposing a general union organization campaign for Southern territory. It asked that a general conference of international union executives be summoned to finance the effort, and to lay down a policy for it. It was referred to the convention's committee organization for preliminary consideration.

Divorce Suit Alleges Burden Deserted Wife

Alleging that her husband deserted her less than a month after their marriage, Mrs. Margaret A. Johanson Burden, of Kensington, Md., has filed suit for absolute divorce in Circuit Court at Rockville. She asks the right to resume her maiden name, Margaret Anna Johanson.

Through Attorneys Casteel & King, of Washington, the wife declares that she and Edgar R. Burden were married October 29, 1924, in Washington and that they took up their residence on Thirteenth street northwest, near L street. On November 20, 1924, the husband gathered all of his effects and left, presumably for another city, the petition states, and from that time he has not been heard from, although the wife made an effort to discover his whereabouts. There are no children.

MACDONALD PARTY REACHES NEW YORK

Hundreds Greet Premier at Ferry as He Arrives for Three-Day Visit.

DINES HIS PHYSICIANS

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Convinced that there will be a satisfactory harvest of results from his visits with President Hoover, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald arrived here late today for a three days' stay before crossing into Canada for conferences with Mackenzie King, the Canadian premier.

Halting on his trip from Washington at Philadelphia to have with him at luncheon the physicians who attended him in his illness in that city two years ago, the British statesman said he was "going away content" after his visit to the National Capital.

He also expressed his delight with the "great response" the American people and the American press had given to the attempt of the President and himself to arrive at a mutual understanding.

Corrects Slip of Tongue.

The prime minister said some matters would take a short time to straighten out. At first he phrased it "a long time," but amended that immediately to "a short time" and then, to emphasize that there had been a slip of the tongue, reiterated the expression.

Arriving in New York City at the Twenty-third Street Ferry, Mr. MacDonald was greeted by a crowd of several hundred cheering people and then was given a thrilling ride over Fifth avenue, with his machine weaving in and out of the evening rush-hour traffic, which was held at a standstill for blocks.

Asked at his press conference after his arrival here if he intended to devote his next few days to rest, he exclaimed:

"Rest! That's the first time I've heard that suggestion since I came to America. I am very glad to have met you, sir."

To an inquiry as to whether he would speak before the American Federation of Labor at Toronto, Mr. MacDonald said he did not see how that would be possible, as he has less than a day there with a number of official engagements.

New York Is "Family Town."

"I'm very glad to be back in New York, my adopted city, again," he went on. "New Yor' is a real family city. I consider myself quite a New Yorker."

Sir Harry Armstrong, British consul general at New York, greeted Mr. MacDonald on his arrival at Jersey City on a special train over the Baltimore & Ohio. The premier, his daughter, Ishbel, Sir Robert Van Sittart, principal secretary to the statesman, and under secretary of foreign affairs, and the others in the party entered automobiles for the short drive to a special ferry boat.

Mr. MacDonald was escorted to the bridge of the craft, where he opened and read a sheaf of cablegrams handed to him by Sir Harry. Then he gave himself over to viewing New York's sky line and the shipping in the harbor as the ferry moved up the Hudson to her dock on the Manhattan side.

Thanked by Mueller.

One of the messages received by the prime minister was from Hermann Mueller, the German Chancellor, thanking him on behalf of the German government and people for his generous tribute to the late Gustav Stresemann, German minister for foreign affairs, in the address Mr. MacDonald made before the Senate last Monday.

Except at Baltimore and Philadelphia, the prime minister remained in the private car placed at his disposal by the railroad. But Ishbel made an inspection of the special train consisting of two Pullmans, a luxurious lounge diner and a baggage coach. In the last one she talked to the engineer, W. H. (Bill) Markey, over the train telephone.

Three public appearances of the prime minister have been arranged for tomorrow, but Saturday and Sunday have been kept free for his own private engagements. Monday he will leave for Niagara Falls and Tuesday cross into Canada. He had no engagements tonight.

On Radio at Night.

At noon tomorrow Mr. MacDonald will attend a luncheon given under the auspices of the St. Andrew's, St. George's and St. Daniel's Societies and the English-Speaking Union in conjunction with other British organizations. At 4 p. m. he will attend a reception by the Foreign Policy Association and in the evening attend a dinner to be given in his honor by the Council of Foreign Relations.

After the dinner and beginning at 9 p. m., the premier will speak to a radio audience in this country, Canada and Great Britain.

John Coolidge's Wife Tells Aims in Article

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The Cosmopolitan Magazine announced today that Florence Trumbull Coolidge, wife of John Coolidge, has written an article for the January issue under the tentative title of "What Kind of a Wife I Want to Be."

The magazine said that young Mrs. Coolidge places her choice of housekeeping as a "career" to the example of her mother. Her aim is to live on her husband's income by making a successful home to enable him to have a successful career.

Two Children Perish In Farmhouse Blaze

Ragland, Ala., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The two children of Mr. and Mrs. John Alverson, aged 2 and 4 years, were incinerated by an early morning fire which leveled the Alversons' farm home today before they had awakened.

Mrs. Alverson was at a spring drawing water when the small house burst into flames, presumably from a stove. The fire spread quickly, preventing the mother's efforts at rescue. The father had gone to his work.

HOOVER ANTICIPATING ARMS PACT BINDER

archives at the London conference, dusted off and broadened to take in cruisers, submarines and destroyers. An addendum to this treaty would, of course, not be a temporary draft for submission to the preparatory commission.

Article 21 of the Washington treaty, to which the reply refers, provides for the replacement of capital ships beginning in 1931. The United States would lay down two in that year, and from 1931 to 1936, inclusive, would lay down a total of ten. Battleships cost about $37,000,000 apiece. Great Britain would lay down the same number in the five-year period.

Five-Year Postponement Planned.

This country and Great Britain plan to propose at the conference that the beginning of replacements be put off for five years, or at least that there be a modification of the replacement program. The general expectation, too, is that, regardless of the outcome of the conference on other categories, there will be an agreement on battleships.

The point is, however, that the London conference is being held in accordance with the implied pledge of the Washington treaty that there be another conference of the five powers by 1931.

It is insisted in official quarters that this pledge of the treaty, and the fact that the Washington treaty is to be the vehicle of discussion at London, coincides with the assurance in the British invitation that no "new" machinery for dealing with naval armaments is being set up.

France and Italy Seen Bound.

Inasmuch as both France and Italy are signatories to the treaty, too, it is contended that there is no way for them to wiggle out of participating in a conference that deals with it.

In other words, it is pointed out that there must be a conference of the five powers under the Washington treaty. And at that conference the United States and Great Britain will try to have the treaty broadened to include cruisers, submarines and destroyers.

There is an impression in the wake of Premier MacDonald's visit that he was anxious for an announcement of a definite agreement on cruisers to mark his departure. He and Hoover came very close to an agreement several weeks ago, close enough, in fact, for them to be willing to go into the five-power conference with the knowledge that their cruiser differences would not wreck the parley, as was the case at Geneva two years ago.

Discussion Is Now Technical.

There is said to have been a lot of discussion on cruisers between the President and the prime minister and now that he has gone, the belief exists in some quarters that it got down to right technical points.

At any rate the discussion did not go to the point of justifying an announcement of a definite and complete agreement. Hoover would not like to make any such announcement any way, because he believes the less said abut cruisers at this time the better it will be.

Apropos of the British premier's statement that he was returning to England with a "series" of problems between the two countries that had "defied" solution heretofore, there was an understanding among some observers that the number of problems was twelve to be exact.

Freedom of Seas Is One Problem.

It is definitely agreed that freedom of the seas is to be a matter of discussion between the two governments from now on, but just what are the other 11 problems is something else. If it should really develop that there are that many between the two countries, in fact, the impression would seem to be that the relations between the two countries were worse than any one imagined.

The British premier went to Philadelphia from here. Unlike his arrival his departure was quiet without the attendance of the cavalry escort or the blaring of trumpets. He just went down to the depot, as they say in small towns, and got on the train, he and his delightful daughter, Miss Ishbel.

Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, Secretary of State Stimson and Capt. Alan Buchanan, the Presidents naval aid, went down to see them off.

BRITISH NAVAL CUT HINGES UPON PARIS

London Seeks Safeguard in Event France Balks at January Parley.

JAPAN ASKS NEW RATIO

Paris, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Insertion of a safeguard clause to protect the British position against that of France and possibly that of Italy in any eventual limitation of armaments, is being discussed by the great naval powers, according to information in diplomatic circles in Paris.

Great Britain is said to wish to protect herself in any agreement on naval limitation against the possible refusal of France to fall into line at the five-power naval conference in January.

The idea is that if France declined to discuss figures on naval tonnage at the conference, the British would hesitate to accept a definite naval treaty unless it included a provision that Great Britain no longer be bound by it if the French building program exceeded a stated figure.

Japan to Fall in Line.

The Associated Press correspondent was informed today that Japan as well as the United States is ready to negotiate a final naval treaty; for Japan, which holds that sea, land and air armaments are interdependent, believes none the less that they can be dealt with piece by piece.

Japan soon will begin conversations with Washington and London for the right to have a naval strength proportion of 7 against 10 and 10 for the United States and Great Britain.

The ratio for battleships at the Washington conference was 6-10-10, but it is reported that Japan will insist on a ratio of 7-10-10 in cruisers with the same persistence the United States has shown in demanding general parity with Great Britain. If the United States enters into an agreement at London to possess eighteen 10,000-ton cruisers, Japan will want twelve.

The strength of Japan in big cruisers is a matter of interest to England also. The British do not want to be behind Japan in this class of vessels.

Diplomatic circles here continued to speculate keenly on the trouble which might arise at the London conference over the question of submarines, in which France as well as Italy and to a less degree Japan is understood to be firmly against abolition.

Sees Peril to Parley.

Jacques Louis Dumesnil, reporter of the naval budget for 1930 in the Chamber of Deputies and minister of marine in one of the Herriot cabinets, said in an exclusive interview today that the scrapping of submarines, if insisted upon by Great Britain and the United States, would prove an insurmountable obstacle to agreement on a naval disarmament program as far as France was concerned.

M. Dumesnil said France did not desire and was not prepared to discuss or criticize any agreement reached by Great Britain and the United States concerning the parity of their navies. He believes this is rather aimed at maintaining the status quo than at reducing their navies.

France Will Not Yield.

"But at no time and under no consideration, could France accept the principle of abolition of submarines, or even lose the liberty of building all the submarines she judges indispensable to her defense.

"To France, submarines represent not an element of offensive warfare, but the defense of our shores and overseas possessions.

"They are the only effective weapon for preventing a power enjoying a great superiority in surface craft from imposing its naval domination upon other nations.

"I have no doubt that the French Parliament will persist in manifesting the sentiment which qualified parliamentary committees have never missed a chance of affirming, on this subject."

New Store Opened By Saltz Brothers

New Establishment Offers Fine Line of Men's Furnishings.

Opening of the new shop of Saltz Brothers at 1342 F street northwest today gives Washington one of the most up-to-date and complete establishments in this section devoted exclusively to furnishings for men.

Both Lewis Saltz and Thomas Saltz, as owners of the new shop are well known in Washington through their association formerly for several years with a men's store here. The latter recently however, has been connected with a well-known establishment in New York.

The new venture is being launched in a pretentious manner with the signing of a long-term lease at an amount aggregating approximately $350,000, according to announcement.

The interior of the establishment has been decorated in a manner reproducing that of the famous men's shops along Regent street in London, with an English atmosphere created in a novel arrangement of the several departments featuring a line of hand-tailored clothes, a line of English overcoats, fashionable sports wear, hats, shoes and other merchandise.

New East Chicago Arrests Follow Rum Charges of U. S. Jury.

East Chicago, Ind., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The tentacles of the Federal Government reached further into the political life of East Chicago today and gathered in more than a dozen officials and civic leaders on charges of conspiracy against the national prohibition law.

Mayor Raleigh P. Hale, Chief of Police James Regan, and Lester Ottenheimer, prominent attorney, all of whom were already under arrest, were rearrested on indictments returned by the Federal grand jury last week.

Along with Mayor Hale and the others the United States marshals arrested Edward Higgins, president of the East Chicago Board of Safety, which controls the police department; Hyman Cohen, member of the Municipal Board of Works, and E. E. Trombley, manager of the East Chicago Dock Terminals Co., which controls the lake harbor. Trombley, the Government charges, permitted the importation of Canadian liquor through the harbor.

TWO SENSATIONAL
in RADIO-PHONOGRAPH reproduction

For the first time . . . music from the air or records . . . with the amazing realism of the Screen-Grid Radiola or the incomparable Super-Heterodyne.

Here is front page news for every lover of fine music . . . the year's greatest offering of RCA engineers. For the first time, Radio-Phonograph combinations in Screen-Grid and Super-Heterodyne models . . . complete home instruments of the finest type . . . designed, built and guaranteed by RCA! Here is music from the air that will astound you with its superb fidelity . . . music from records that equals only the matchless performance of the Radiola!

Radiola 47 is the newest RCA all-electric development in Screen-Grid Radio combined with the Electrical Phonograph in one exquisitely designed cabinet. It is the latest triumph of the same RCA engineers who developed the Screen-Grid Radiotron and the Screen-Grid Radio Circuit.

Radiola 67—the Super-Heterodyne model—is conceded everywhere to be the last word in Radio and Phonograph reproduction. The Super-Heterodyne is recognized by all as the finest achievement of the Radio art. Combined in a strikingly handsome cabinet with the electrical phonograph, this remarkable instrument becomes the outstanding triumph in complete home entertainment!

RCA RADIOLA 67—The new Super-Heterodyne combination with RCA Electro-Dynamic loudspeaker giving electrical reproduction of records. The complete home instrument; brings to you at will "Music from the air or record." $690 (less Radiotrons).

RCA RADIOLA 47—The newest RCA "all-electric" development in Screen-Grid radio combined with the phonograph. Radio and phonograph utilize the same improved built-in Electro-Dynamic reproducer. "Music from the air or record." $275 (less Radiotrons).

Both Radiolas 47 and 67 embody the famous RCA electro-dynamic speakers which reproduce music as well as voice—in any desired volume—with a fidelity unequaled by any other method of sound reproduction. You get the freedom from distorting noises and electrical hum without the costly sacrifice of loss in fidelity and tone range . . . without that weakening of power and dulling of low and high notes which owners of ordinary radio sets must suffer when hum is reduced in defiance of electrical research and experience.

Here are the instruments of the future. We invite you to see and hear them at your nearest RCA dealer. A single demonstration will give you a new conception of Radio and Phonograph enjoyment. It will strengthen your belief more than ever in RCA as the pre-eminent builder and designer of fine Radio instruments.

The new Radiolas may be purchased on the convenient RCA Time Payment Plan which enables you to enjoy the world's finest music from Radio or Phonograph while you make easy monthly payments.

AN ALLIANCE?

After President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald had issued their fateful joint statement a separate communication to the press was made by Mr. MacDonald. This communication, taken in connection with the joint statement, is very likely to be accepted in Great Britain and Europe as an announcement that the United States and Great Britain have resolved to act in concert hereafter against any nation that violates the Kellogg treaty.

The joint statement and Mr. MacDonald's declaration contain allusions that fairly warrant the presumption that a new policy has been agreed upon, providing for common action. The joint statement refers to "means by which the moral force of our countries can be exerted for peace," and declares that "each of our governments will direct its thought and influence toward securing and maintaining the peace of the world." Mr. MacDonald emphasizes the importance of a "common pronouncement" concerning "Anglo-American policy," and adds that this joint statement is a pronouncement that the two nations are determined to apply the Kellogg treaty "in our practical policy."

Both the joint statement and Mr. MacDonald's announcement make it clear that the two governments are about to approach old problems from a new angle. They intend to use the Kellogg pact, says Mr. MacDonald, as the basis for an agreement "upon subjects which have defied agreement up to now."

The only vital subject upon which Great Britain and the United States disagree is that of freedom of the seas. If it be true that the two governments now propose to cooperate in maintaining peace against a violator of the Kellogg pact, it follows that the United States would not be a neutral in case of war, but a cobelligerent. Hence no question of aggression against American commerce would arise.

Astounding as it may seem to Americans, there can be little doubt that Mr. MacDonald's pronouncement, fortified by the joint statement, will be accepted in Great Britain and throughout Europe as a declaration that the United States and Great Britain have formed an alliance.

The mischief that may flow from such a misunderstanding is incalculable. It may destroy all the good effects of recent efforts to bring about an Anglo-American understanding on naval parity. The United States owes it to other nations to make the fact clear beyond possibility of mistake that it has not entered into any special understanding with Great Britain calling for common action in any emergency whatever, or at all.

When the Kellogg treaty was pending in the Senate the debate revealed that American policy is firmly opposed to any commitment requiring it to take action against a violator of the treaty. Secretary Kellogg had already formally declared that the only effect of violation would be to release the parties to the treaty. The Senate committee on foreign relations gave this interpretation:

> The committee further understands the treaty does not provide sanctions, express or implied. Should any signatory to the treaty or any nation adhering to the treaty violate the terms of the same, there is no obligation or commitment, express or implied, upon the part of any of the other signers of the treaty to engage in punitive or coercive measures as against the nation violating the treaty.

The United States can not avoid entanglements in foreign politics if it makes any agreement, express or implied, to proceed against an alleged violator of the Kellogg pact. It must be its own judge of such circumstances, and must be free to act independently. It might conclude that an alleged violator was really fighting in self-defense, while the League of Nations might hold a contrary opinion. In case the league should proceed to apply penalties, the United States would not be bound to recognize such measures. It would endeavor to remain neutral during foreign wars, and it would expect all its neutral rights to be respected, including its right to the freedom of the seas.

For this reason the United States is building up its Navy. The country is disappointed in the failure of Great Britain and the United States to reach a formal agreement providing for equal naval strength. A vague pronouncement has gone forth, easily susceptible of being interpreted as a declaration of an alliance, but the real business before the two countries, that of making a parity treaty, has become involved in tedious and uncertain negotiations of a preparatory and tentative character, to be submitted to some future world disarmament conference.

Mr. MacDonald may be constrained to lay great stress upon his special understanding with America, in his forthcoming struggle for survival as head of the British government. The British public will make a mistake if it assumes that the United States has formed an entente or alliance with Great Britain. What Americans desire is prompt agreement fixing the equality of the two navies. Beyond that they will not go.

SMOKE AND SOOT.

Washington once had the reputation of being a spotless town, but of recent years it has been beclouded with smoke every winter. Already it is apparent that the cold months this year will witness little improvement. Probably the antismoke regulations are being enforced as strictly as is possible with an inadequate personnel. Glaring examples of smoking chimneys are rare. Nevertheless, there is deposited each morning everywhere a layer of soot and cinders. The spotless Washington of before-the-war no longer exists.

It may be, as is frequently asserted, that the kind and quality of fuel obtainable today is responsible for the dirty condition of American cities in winter. But it is unquestionably true that almost any kind or quality of fuel, properly fired, will burn without smoke or residue. Since smoke or soot emitted through the chimney denotes wasteful combustion, there should be a twofold interest in smoke-prevention. Not only is property value enhanced in smokeless communities, but furnace operators save dollars and cents if they make certain that their fuel is burned without waste.

At the beginning of the cold season it is time for furnace operators, be they householders, apartment or building owners or business men, to recognize their duty to the community to make their heating plants models of efficient combustion. It is only through the cooperation of individuals that Washington can again be made a spotless town.

HONORS TO PULASKI.

Poland and the United States unite today in doing honor to a patriot who met death in the American revolution 150 years ago. Casimir Pulaski's championship of liberty, both in his native and his adopted country, so won the hearts of the Polish and American people that after a century and a half they are glad to pay tribute to his memory. Through all these years remembrance of his zeal against oppression has been a bond of friendship between the two countries.

The sesquicentennial observance of Gen. Pulaski's death was provided for in a proclamation by President Hoover issued in response to a joint resolution introduced in the House by Representative Ludlow, of Indiana. The President, the Senate and the House appointed members of the sesquicentennial commission. Action has also been taken in many of the States, and observance of the event will extend throughout the country, centering in Washington and Savannah, Ga., where Gen. Pulaski died October 11, 1779, from wounds suffered two days previously in the siege of Savannah. Poland has sent an official delegation headed by Tytus Filipowicz, minister of that country to the United States, to attend the celebrations, and various Polish organizations are cooperating.

Gen. Pulaski came of a wealthy and influential Polish family. His love of liberty brought him exile from his own country, and he was a refugee in Paris when he came in contact with Benjamin Franklin and became interested in the American revolution. Once interested, he gave this cause his whole devotion. Perhaps the best evidence of his service is the fact that he, a foreigner, was raised to the rank of brigadier general, and that he was paid an enviable tribute by Gen. Washington. In recommending his appointment to the Continental Congress, Washington said: "This gentleman has been, like us, engaged in defending the liberty and independence of his country, and has sacrificed his fortune to his zeal for these objects. He derives from thence a title to our respect . . ." The tributes of two nations today give ample evidence that the honor then accorded him has not been dimmed by the passing years.

THE ZIONIST MOVEMENT.

Leaders of the Zionist movement have not been diverted from their purpose to establish in Palestine a national home for the Jewish people. The recent massacre of Jews has been lamented by their kindred throughout the world, but the reaction seems to have been toward strengthening instead of abandoning the Zionist movement. In connection with the celebration of the Jewish new year in Washington, Dr. J. T. Loeb, rabbi of Ohev Sholom Temple, declared that the Zionist leaders are in no sense discouraged. The immigration of young Jews to Palestine must continue, he said.

There can be little question that the Jews are anxious to live at peace with the Arabs and all other peoples in the Holy Land. But the question is raised as to whether Palestine can support a much larger population than it has at present. If the resources of the country are such that immigrating people can only make a livelihood at the expense of the present inhabitants, there is certain to be constant friction.

Agricultural resources of Palestine are discussed by A. T. Strahorn in the Geographical Review. He finds that in no civilized country has there been such neglect of subjects pertaining to agriculture. Yet the inhabitants are almost wholly dependent on cultivation of the soil, he says, since Palestine has no forests, little mineral wealth, and only limited possibilities for development of hydro-electric power. The possibilities of commercial development are likewise restricted. Mr. Strahorn makes a further point that Palestine already has a population density equal to that of Michigan and Ohio in 1920, and that it requires heavy importation of foodstuffs.

It appears that the restoration of Palestine is much more complicated than was supposed at the inception of the Zionist movement. Obviously the rights of the Arabs, as well as the Jews, must be maintained. There seems to be a disposition on the part of the Jewish people to respect the rights of other races in the Holy Land, but that does not give assurance that peace will be maintained under adverse economic conditions. The recent disturbances and subsequent findings suggest that it would be wise to give further consideration to the economic aspects of the movement.

ANOTHER RUBBER TRUST.

Undeterred by the breakdown of the British rubber control scheme, Dutch interests now propose a somewhat similar scheme designed to raise the price of rubber. Eighteen months ago a committee was created to promote Dutch rubber interests, and it recently issued an invitation to producers to meet in Amsterdam the latter part of the month for the purpose of forming a central agency to control and market a certain portion of the 1929 crop. If Dutch producers fall in with the suggestion, the support of foreign interests will be sought.

The committee estimates for 1929 a total world production of 820,000 tons and a consumption of 790,000 tons. It estimates production for 1930 at about the same level, but allows an increase in consumption of 8 per cent to 850,000 tons. Thus, according to its analysis, if no unforeseen circumstances occur 1930 will witness a rubber shortage. The committee therefore proposes to reserve 45,000 tons, representing about 10 per cent of the production of the British, French and Dutch rubber enterprises under European control, for sale at a price to be determined later. The withdrawal of this amount of rubber from the 1929 market, it is argued, will influence an improved price and next year, when the shortage occurs, the withdrawn supply can be disposed of without affecting the price.

In theory, the plan is as perfect as the scheme under which Brazil withheld coffee from the market during years of overproduction in the belief that lean years would come along during which the accumulated stores could be disposed of. In practice, however, the Dutch scheme seems calculated to work no better than the Brazilian. Improved prices have a way of stimulating production, as Brazil found to her sorrow, and the first withdrawals from the market have a way, through the years, of expanding to enormous size.

The factor that the Dutch rubber industry has to reckon with is production under the American flag. Domestic concerns that were caught in the British rubber squeeze of several years back have large plantation projects well under way and their first crops are due soon to come in. What will happen to European rubber industries when America finally is able to produce all her own rubber is problematical. Certainly, they can not be preserved by schemes of price fixing.

THE DEMOCRATIC BLUNDER

From the New York Times (Dem.).

How long will the Democratic-Progressive coalition in the Senate hold together and how far will it go? Its easy triumphs, some of them on insignificant details, seem to have gone to the heads of some Democratic members. They are bent on continuing a performance that seems of doubtful value to their party. The closer and the longer their alliance with the shifty "bloc" that has duped them memorably in the past; the more effective temporarily their success in putting the administration "in a hole," the more strongly they concentrate public attention on the evils of political groups and combinations. Against Mr. Hoover, even more bitterly than against Mr. Coolidge, the artificial opposition is directed.

This sort of thing has brought no prosperity to the Democrats hitherto. Aside from the popular instinct to sustain the President as against Congress or the Senate, it should be remembered that all the insurgent Republicans, except two or three, were supporters of Mr. Hoover. Some, like Mr. Brookhart, were particularly ardent Hooverites. All were elected as Republicans. All represent States where the complaints of the farmers are a standing invitation to politicians to exhibit remedies. In a presidential election a majority of the distressed farmers are usually found faithful to their old habit of voting the Republican ticket. So far as a large view of the political future is concerned, the present burst of Democratic opportunism seems a little fantastic. So far as the prospects of passing a tariff bill are concerned, a real parting of the ways has not yet come.

The cart has been put before the horse. There has been great pother about administrative form. The structure of rates is the essential question. The farmers want protection and plenty of it. Whatever its actual value might turn out to be, can the Senate or the House afford to let the special session end without having achieved its main purpose? The iron resolution attributed to the House in the matter of the flexible provisions may be flexible itself when concession and compromise and bargaining have done their work. In industrial revision, too, there are senators now lofty and superior who will listen to their constituents and see that certain products of their States are properly protected.

Between agricultural and manufacturing interests a modus vivendi may be arranged. No doubt pourparlers that "mean business" are going on. The solemn futilities of the show on the stage will go on. That is the ceremonial and ritual part of tariff-making. Actual tariff-making is the application of give-and-take. After all these preliminary flourishes, some coalitionists are likely to prefer business to pleasure.

HIS CHOICE.

"He could have saved himself," they said.
"Some crazy thought was in his head
Regarding rules. Though no one saw
It seems he broke an ancient law,
A far-fetched regulation made
Covering the final stroke he played,
Then told his rival with a grin,
To his amazement: "Sir, you win!"

Men gathered round him in a crowd.
Arguing the point with voices loud.
"That little movement of the ball
Did not affect your shot at all!
Shall you accept defeat because
Of one word in a code of laws?
No one on earth but you can prove
Whether or not that ball did move."

He smiled at them and walked away;
"I lost the game," was all he'd say.
Some who had wagered cursed the whim
Which made a loser out of him.
Others denounced the rule as hard
And one that all should disregard.
"He could have saved himself," they cried.
"That's what I did," the lad replied.

"I saved myself, but lost the game,
I saved myself from endless shame.
Though I could all the others fool,
The fact remains I broke a rule.
Call it hard luck or what you will
To lose a match that way, but still
When that one chance to cheat arose,
It was to save myself, I chose."

Why Bark Up a Tree If There Is Something Better on the Ground?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ONE of the great electric companies employs the entire graduating class of a well-known technical school. The young men come to work in white collars, expecting to sit at desks, but a foreman who has small regard for book learnin' equips them with spades, picks and wheelbarrows and begins to try their souls.

Those who think themselves more important than the world's work are winnowed out in a few months, and thus the organization is protected against chaff. Those who stand the gaff accumulate knowledge along with their blisters and are prepared for work higher up.

In the Middle West of my youth, no boy was satisfied with the education got in school. As quickly as he could, he began to learn a trade or a profession.

Now the boys of my acquaintance do not look beyond college. After that they will teach school or clerk or peddle something—always in a white collar, with soft hands. Most of them will sponge on Dad more or less until the old man dies.

We have taught our boys to believe that success consists in getting rich, and their own common sense tells them that nobody gets rich in overalls.

As a result they have learned to scorn useful labor that makes the hands rough and are content to waste their best years at some insignificant white-collar job while waiting for something to turn up.

For every man producing an article, there are seven selling it. There are five men waiting for every white-collar job. And this universal quest for a soft snap, coupled with the restriction of immigration, tends more and more to reduce the clerk's pay and increase the reward offered to mechanics.

The skilled mechanic doesn't wear ragged underclothes to save money for a "front." He is independent and has a proper pride because he knows the world needs him and must pay a fair price for his services.

The ordinary white-collar youth is merely an unskilled laborer. If he should quit today, any one of a dozen applicants could be trained to do his work tomorrow.

That explains his meager salary. The law of supply and demand trims his wage because he is neither necessary nor important.

Our boys must study the situation sensibly. Not all can hold desk jobs. There aren't enough to go round. And where competition is so keen, only the world-beater can hope to get something worth while.

The others should quit chasing rainbows and learn to do something useful with their hands. They needn't be ashamed of such work. America's ablest and richest men are skilled mechanics.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE RETURN OF A MAJOR NUISANCE.

Arise, men! Get together! Stand fast!

A great menace stares you in the face. Trouble lies ahead. It looks like a tough winter.

Hooks and eyes are coming back!

• • • •

Read this Paris dispatch and weep:

"Paris.—The return of the old-fashioned hook and eye is seen on women's dresses at the latest spring showings here. Many of the newest dresses are hooked up the back. Autumn suits and cloaks revive the hooks and eyes of prewar wraps."

• • • •

Is there no justice? Have these French dress designers no heart? What's the world coming to, anyway?

• • • •

If there was one cry men thought they would never hear again it was, "Hook me up the back, will you, dear."

• • • •

They had assumed this call had disappeared forever, together with, "Would you like to look over the family album, Otis?" "How about some lovely lantern slides after dinner?" "Where's my bustle, Willis?" and "Listen, darling, could I buy a new bird for my hat?"

• • • •

They had felt there was less chance of a return of hooks and eyes than of hair "rats," balloon sleeves, old-fashioned underwear, dotted veils, fur muffs, woolen stockings and picture hats.

• • • •

Life for many years had seemed, everything considered, tolerable with the little woman. A husband could read his paper in peace while she was dressing. She could get into her clothes with a few simple and direct motions. There was no call for assistance.

• • • •

"Well," many a husband would reflect over the last decade, "she has her faults and is somewhat exasperating, but, after all, I don't have to hook her up the back any more!"

Emancipation from that ordeal had seemed permanent. One great burden had been lifted from the white race forever, it had been hoped.

• • • •

And now the great blow, the rude awakening!

• • • •

The inconsiderate, vicious, despicable nitwits who design women's clothes have reached back into the dark ages and brought back the Curse That Men Had Forgotten.

• • • •

They have gone the limit. Some of the dresses that will appear early in midwinter will have so many hooks and eyes on them that a woman planning to wear one to the theater at night will have to send out a call for her husband's assistance in the middle of the afternoon.

Once again the Little Runt will spend the long winter evenings twisting himself in seemingly impossible attitudes and cursing softly as he struggles to get the hook in the eye while the Old Amazon twitches irritably and exclaims, "Goodness, Ellis, you might be frightfully clumsy to take all that time!"

• • • •

It's a hard world, mates!

• • • •

WHY, GRANTLAND!

"The long, lazy right arm of Howard Ehmke sounded the drumbeat of woe to 51,000 rooters as it fell across the backs of the Cubs like the lash of a whip."—Grantland Rice in the Herald Tribune.

Talk about mixed metaphors!

In a Federal court men are being tried for selling redistilled roach poison as prewar whisky. Now you know why so many scofflaws, after a couple of drinks, crawl under the rugs or try to go to sleep in the sink.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Corbin Hollow Mountaineers; by One Who Taught School There.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is with a deep sense of amusement that I read the article in The Post appearing under the caption, "Corbins Hollow Guffaws," and signed "Virginia Mountaineer."

Fur and feathers, ink and anguish! Not one sentence in that whole effort would be intelligible to a person in Corbin (not Corbins) Hollow. Of the 61 adults in the whole community, 30 are illiterates and the remainder, except one, near illiterates.

In the little Sunday school I conducted on Sunday afternoon the first in the experience of all but the oldest pupils, one child knew the Golden Rule. On the first Sunday when I tried to teach the Golden Rule in this form, "I must treat other people as I want them to treat me," because I saw the original wording meant nothing to the children and the adults present, a commotion interrupted the procedure. Stopping to learn what was taking place I discovered one little fellow of 10 years trying to steal tobacco from the boy beside him.

The Ten Commandments the children, with one exception, had never heard of.

Let us see what some of the children know of nature. In one lovely cabin, nestling among the hills, almost submerged in flowers, it was my good fortune to live for the two months during which I taught the public vacation school under discussion. One day I had taken some popples to school. During a reading lesson, and with a number of Skyland guests as visitors, some discussion of the color red arose. So we began identifying the color as found in various objects in the room. Finally I picked up a poppy and said, "The poppy is red." A child replied, "We got a poppy, too." Upon being questioned, it developed that the child was thinking of "Poppy," the name by which he called his father.

Suitable Children's Building Should Be Provided, Housing the Juvenile Court.

To the Editor of The Post: Sir—I noticed this morning your article based on the report relating to the handling of children in institutions in Washington by the Board of Public Welfare to the District Commissioners.

There certainly is a crying need in the Nation's Capital for a proper and dignified children's building which would house the Juvenile Court, the probation office and the temporary detention rooms for children who for one reason or another come under the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court. Hardly a modern American city is without such a building.

No dignified work can be done for children without the necessary machinery to do this work. In connection with my activities, I frequently have to go to the Juvenile Court, and the shock that I had the first time that I saw the abandoned school house in which the Juvenile Court and probation offices are located, has remained with me and comes back every time I visit the court.

It is unfair to the children who have to appear there as well as to the judge and the probation officers to house an important social service agency in that building.

OSCAR LEONARD,
Executive director, Jewish Welfare Federation.

Ding-Dong of Church Bell Disturbs Neighborhood and Provokes Protests.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With reference to letter published in your paper about the "sounding brass or tinkling cymbal," at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, I inclose herewith a copy of a letter addressed to the pastor of that church last June 25, after failure in my efforts to see him at his office, and the matter was entirely ignored by him. The nuisance is kept going from 16 hours to 24 hours every day, including Sunday. The brass is sounded from 758 times to 1,076 times every day.

JOHN E. PARRISH.

The letter to the pastor is as follows:

"Dear Sir: On behalf of many others as well as myself, you are requested to please stop the monotonous, noisy nuisance of "sounding brass or tinkling cymbal," every fifteen minutes from 6 o'clock a. m. until 10 p. m. every day. I have been a member of a Christian church 35 years and I am quite sure that Jesus Christ does not wish to be remembered in any such ridiculous manner; especially when it is so annoying and perhaps detrimental to so many victims, who are subjected to it sixteen hours every day."

MIXED MONEY.

An annoyance with which the country is universally irritated is the persistence of the old currency. Two months after the smaller sized bills or the farmer's dollar, so called, were first circulated, observes the Chicago Tribune, most bill folds contain as many of the old dollars as the new. A number of instances have been brought to our attention of the farmer's dollars having been passed across the counter concealed by the larger money. Whether there has been any substantial loss through such mistakes the confusion is a thorough nuisance. The failure to remove the old currency more completely from circulation and replace it with the new is not a tribute to the management of the Treasury. Of course, old bills may turn up occasionally, even for a number of years, but the necessity for banks to reissue the old money seems inexcusable. The country's requirements of currency can be determined accurately. Therefore the inadequacy of the present process of circulation would indicate that the new money either was issued prematurely or that it was issued without a proper estimate of probable conditions.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Couple Swells Migration to Georgetown

Home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Parker Holds Special Interest.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE description of society's migration to Georgetown is becoming a continued story, with new chapters developing every week or two. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cortlandt Parker, who have just taken possession of their new house at 1511 Thirty-third street, are the latest to join an interesting group of young married couples, all well known in Washington, who are living in a recently restored section of this quaint old town.

Perhaps Mr. and Mrs. Parker were influenced in their choice by the fact that the house into which they have moved was originally the home of Mr. C. B. Corcoran, father of the late W. W. Corcoran, famous as a philanthropist and as the donor of the the Corcoran Art Gallery. Moreover, Mrs. Parker's great grandfather, the founder of the Riggs National Bank, a lifelong friend of Mr. Corcoran, used to spend many happy hours there.

Mrs. Parker, who was Miss Charlotte Riggs, belongs to the Baltimore branch of the Riggs family, which has had such prominent part in the social and financial history of Washington. Mr. Parker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey G. Parker and a brother of Mr. Chauncey G. Parker, jr., who married Miss Cecilia McCallum.

When their house was built, this section was pretty much country. It was then known as "Betty and Hawkins' addition to Georgetown," a name which is to be found in many old deeds and which is still used by those familiar with Georgetown history. Now, of course, the city has absorbed this quondam suburb.

The house stands in a block which is being carefully restored, house by house, to its original state by a young architect, Mr. George Williams, who was recently referred to by the Georgetown Association as "George from Georgia, who came to restore Georgetown."

Like the Parkers, their neighbors seem to run to distinguished ancestors, typical of the original residents of Georgetown. Across the street lives Mrs. Margaret Ross Cox, whose original home was Carvel Hall in Annapolis, and nearby are the homes of Miss Madeleine McCandless, a great-granddaughter of Charles Pinckney, once Ambassador to France, and Mr. James Parker Nolan and Mrs. Nolan, who was Miss Ellen Peelle and whose Ravenel forbears were among the Huguenot settlers of Charleston. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swift, the latter formerly Miss Helen Griffin, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Griffin, also have a house in this square, although they are now in China on a tour.

Then there are Commander and Mrs. Ellis Sewall Stone. With her first novel, "The Heaven and Earth of Donna Erena," Mrs. Stone (Grace Zoring Stone) won remarkably enthusiastic appreciation and I believe she has out a new book, with its setting in the West Indies. Mr. Arthur Brown, associate editor of Nation's Business, and Mrs. Brown also have a house nearby. Others well known in Washington's writing group, who have recently moved to Georgetown—a few blocks away, in Thirty-first street—are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hildebrand, for many years residents on Capitol Hill. Mr. Hildebrand is one of the associate editors of the National Geographic Magazine and edits the bulletin service for "The Geographic."

Engagement Announced Of Miss Sheila Burden.

The engagement of Miss Sheila Burden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A Burden, of New York, and Mr. Blake L. Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Francklyn Lawrence, of New York and Short Hills, N. J., has just been announced. Miss Burden is the granddaughter of Mrs. Henry White, of New York and Lenox, Mass., whose husband was one-time ambassador to France. She is a great-great granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt and fifth in descent from Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, founder of that family.

Miss Burden was graduated from the Spence School, and was introduced to society in New York several years ago. She is a member of the Junior League. Mr. Lawrence was graduated from St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., and Yale, Class of '29. The wedding will take place in the late autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferries Woodhull have returned from the mountains of North Carolina and will be at their home on Massachusetts avenue this winter.

Mr. William M. Calder, former Senator from New York, is at the Willard for a few days. He will return to his home in Brooklyn later in the week.

Mrs. F. B. Loring and Miss Sophie L. Loring have returned to Washington and have opened their house for the winter.

Mrs. Austin Kautz has returned from Kittery Point, Me., and is in her house, 1805 Nineteenth street.

Mrs. W. F. Kelley Returns to Capital.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelley and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. McClure Kelley, with their infant daughter, Joyce, are now at Mrs. Kelley's residence, 2207 Massachusetts avenue, after having spent the early autumn at Knoll, Mrs. Kelley's country home.

Letters have recently been received in Washington telling of the birth of a son to Dr. and Mrs. Franz von Matsch in Vienna, the last week in August. Mrs. von Matsch will be remembered here as Miss Lillian Hendrick. The baby will be named Franz Thilman Hendrick von Matsch—Franz for his father and grandfather and Thilman Hendrick for Mrs. von Matsch's brother, Mr. J. Thilman Hendrick, of Washington, once District Commissioner.

Miss Virginia Belt has chosen attendants for her wedding, Saturday, October 26, when she will be married to Mr. Ennalls Waggaman, jr., at St. Stephen's and the Incarnation Church at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Marjorie Miller will be maid of honor. The bridesmaids include Miss Elizabeth Brawner, Miss Helen Kallow, Miss Grace Colton, Miss Virginia McMillan, Miss Robin Howland and Miss Katharine Perry.

Mr. Waggaman has asked his cousin, Mr. Rodolf Waggaman, to be best man. The ushers will be Mr. John Belt, brother of the bride; Mr. Page Hufty, Mr. John Gill, Mr. Bowman MacArthur, Mr. John F. Brawner and Mr. William Brawner.

The Rev. George F. Dudley will perform the ceremony. There will be a reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin Green Belt, at 1610 Webster street.

Mr. Everett Sanders, former secretary to President Coolidge, entertained a small party at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Mr. H. Gordon Selfridge, of London, and his daughter, Viscountess Jacques de Sibour, are at the Biltmore, in New York.

Mr. Reeside to Wed Miss Abadie Tuesday.

The marriage of Miss Anna Louise Abadie, daughter of Mrs. Eugene Abadie, and Mr. Allan Reeside, son of Mrs. Frank P. Reeside, will take place Tuesday noon at St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, with only a few relatives present owing to the recent death of Miss Abadie's father. The Rev. Herbert Scott will officiate. After the ceremony the couple will leave for a trip. They will make their home in Washington.

Lieut. Gen. Prince Holm, G. C. G., of Paris and Copenhagen, chamberlain to the Count of Caserta, G. M. G., who has been visiting relatives in California during the last summer, is at the St. Regis Hotel, in New York, before returning to Europe.

Mrs. W. Murray Crane closed Sugar Villa, at Dalton, in the Berkshires yesterday and is now in New York, where she will remain until the Holidays, when she will reopen her Dalton house for the Christmas festivities.

Mrs. John Hemphill, of Washington, is passing a few days at the Berkshire Hotel, in New York.

To mark the 150th anniversary of the death of Gen. Pulaski, Polish patriot of the American Revolution, which is being officially celebrated a group of patriotic orders will give a reception at the Lafayette Hotel October 16 at 8:30 o'clock. Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell will come from Philadelphia to address the meeting. Mrs. Elvina Rowe will sing and there will be dancing until 1 o'clock.

The group of orders taking part include: Scions of Colonial Cavaliers, Knights of the Golden Horse Shoe, Order of Washington, Order of Pulaski, Order of Secret Pact, Order of Frontier Wars, Order of White Crane, Order of Lafayette, Order of Oglethorpe and Order of Yellow Rose. Arrangements are in charge of a committee including Mr. G. B. Bulloch, Mr. Daniel Smith Gordon and Miss Frances D. Shirley.

MISS ANNA PARKHURST, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Parkhurst, who will be presented to society at her home in Bethesda, Md., on November 28. Mr. and Mrs. Parkhurst will give a ball for her at the Carlton Hotel, December 30.

Mr. Dawes En Route to This Country

Ambassador Will Come to Capital Before His Return to England.

The United States Ambassador to Great Britain and Mrs. Charles Gates Dawes have sailed for this country on the Ile de France. From New York they will go direct to their home in Evanston, Ill. Gen. Dawes, as his British friends call him, is returning to attend to business in connection with the great exposition to be held in Chicago in 1935. Before returning to London on November 4, he will come to Washington to confer with President Hoover. Presumably, Mrs. Dawes will come with him. With Mr. and Mrs. Dawes on the Ile de France are his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Beman G. Dawes, who have been visiting them in London.

Another passenger on the Ile de France is Mme Curie, codiscoverer of radium and the most famous woman scientist in the world. She will receive a second gram of radium from her American admirers while visiting in the United States and will come to Washington to be a guest of the President and Mrs. Hoover.

When Mme. Curie boarded the ship at Havre, she was given a send-off befitting a queen. A delegation, including the mayor of Havre, the admiral commanding the port and the subprefect representing the government, escorted the gray, indomitable little woman to the ship.

Mr. Kermit Roosevelt, of Long Island and New York, is a guest at the Willard. With him is Mr. John M. Hamilton, also of New York.

Senator Frederic M. Sackett, of Kentucky, is at the Carlton.

Rev. W. H. Laird Weds Miss Kennon.

The Rev. William H. Laird, assistant rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Richmond, son of the late Rev. William Laird, of Wilmington, Del., last night married Miss Constance Williams Kennon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Kennon, of Norwood, Powhatan County, Va., at the bride's home.

The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of Southern Virginia, assisted by Dr. Beverly D. Tucker, jr., rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and Dr. Wilbur Cosby Bell, member of the faculty of the Virginia Theological Seminary, near Alexandria.

The bride's maid of honor was Miss Eleanor Binford, of Atlanta, while the bridegroom's best man was his brother, Edward G. Laird, of Baltimore. Among the other assistants were Leslie Glenn, of New York, and Charles B. Stuart, of Baltimore.

The wedding was the culmination of a romance which started when the Rev. Mr. Laird was acting as supply pastor at St. Luke's Church in Powhatan County. He is a nephew of the late Dr. Joseph Packard Laird, of Berwyn, Pa., who died at sea in July, 1927, on board the steamer Cameronia en route to Europe. He is also a nephew of Walter J. Laird and Philip D. Laird, of Wilmington, and of Mrs. Francis Bland Tucker, whose husband, a son of Bishop Tucker, is rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Georgetown.

Miss Mabel Turner, principal of the National Cathedral School, will be at home on Friday afternoons at the school.

Lieut. and Mrs. Freedrick A. Henney are rejoicing over the birth of a son, named Frederick A. Henney, jr.

Mrs. Henney is at Walter Reed Hospital, but expects to be the guest of her parents, Gen. and Mrs. Amos A. Fries, for six weeks before her departure for Zurich, Switzerland, to join Lieut. Henney, who is attending the Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Ellis Logan, president of the District branch of the Woman's National Sabbath Alliance, will entertain the members at a tea Monday afternoon at her home, 1661 Crescent place.

New and Old Ideals Fused In Residence

Mr. J. H. Hammond, Jr., Designs Unique Home at Gloucester.

On a rocky reef in quaint old Gloucester, Mass., is being erected a house, medieval in design yet modern in its scientific equipment. Mr. John Hays Hammond, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, of Washington, is the builder. While Old World art treasures and the influence of the architecture of the Middle Ages bring to the vast house significant splendor, yet it is to be essentially a home, Mr. Hammond declares. With this in mind, he has designed the house so that sunshine, comfort and privacy reign, from the picturesque courtyard, roofed with celluloid that reflect violet rays, to the many bedroms, each with its private passageway and outer entrance.

COMMUNISM CITED IN GASTONIA TRIAL

Judge Scans Sacco-Vanzetti Case to Learn if Issue Is Admissable.

DEFENSE REQUESTS BAN

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The question of Communism as an issue was injected today into the trial of the seven labor leaders and strikers, charged with second degree murder in the killing of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police, but was not ruled upon. Although the question was brought up by E. T. Cansler, prosecution attorney, it was not immediately pressed.

Judge M. V. Barnhill, presiding, was handed volumes containing four cases, including the Sacco-Vanzetti case. In addition to the latter case, Attorney Cansler said cases which had a bearing on this case were the Most case of New York in 1887; the Ruthenberg case in Michigan, in which syndicalism featured; and the Spies case in Chicago in 1885 in connection with the Haymarket riots.

Katie Corley, a 20-year-old striker, was on the witness stand when the issue was raised.

Communist Issue Injected.

"Who feeds you now?" the witness was asked by Jake F. Newell, prosecution attorney, during cross-examination.

"The International Labor Defense," she replied.

"And the International Labor Defense is a part of the Communist party, isn't it?" Newell shot back.

There was a storm of protest from defense attorneys. The jury was excused and Cansler began by quoting an opinion from the Sacco-Vanzetti case in which the anarchistic views of the defendants had been discussed. Judge Barnhill interrupted the attorney to say that if the decision was not pressing, he would like to read the background of the cases before passing on it.

Second Witness Also Asked.

The next witness, however, was asked the same question by the prosecution regarding the relation of the International Labor Defense to the Communist party and before Judge Barnhill could rule on the defense objections, Paul Shepherd, the witness, a former Duke University ministerial student, had declared he knew "nothing about it."

The defense, continuing its attack on prosecution testimony, introduced ten witnesses today in its efforts to clear Fred Erwin Beal, Clarence Miller, Joseph Harrison, William McGinnis, K. Y. Hendricks, Louis McLaughlin, and George Carter of blame in connection with the shooting of June 7, in which the chief of police was wounded fatally and three other officers, Tom A. Gilbert, A. J. Roach and Charles M. Ferguson, were injured at the tent colony of the Loray textile mill strikers in Gastonia.

The strike was called by the National Textile Workers Union, which has Communist affiliations.

MYSTERIES OF CULT REMAIN UNSOLVED

burn, mother and step-father of the priestess, who disappeared from Portland, Ore., after the father sold his business there for $30,000 and joined the cult.

The other missing persons, Mrs. Katherine Bolz, Mrs. Floyd Miller, Mrs. Harlene aSrtoris, Mrs. Frances Turner and Mrs. Addie McGuffin, apparently have vanished. A Mrs. Turner was buried in San Gabriel, Calif., nearly two years ago. Discrepancies in her death certificate are being investigated as well as the report that the missing woman was placed in an oven of hot bricks to cure a malady and died.

Authorities concentrated on three leads today. One was in the San Bernardino mountains where W. P. Rhodes, foster father of 10-year-old Willa Rhodes, who died while a member of the cult, was leading a search for a box he buried on his wife's instructions without knowing what it contained.

Willa Rhodes died four years ago and after two years in which rites were practiced over her body in hope of a resurrection, she was buried beneath the floor of the Rhodes home in Venice, Calif. The remains have been recovered and are being analyzed to determine cause of death.

Authorities also were hunting for "the sixth seal," a book believed to hold the key to the cult's objectives and the meaning of its rites. They also hoped to find clew to the missing adherents.

Mrs. Blackburn's daughter, Mrs. Ruth Wieland Rizzio, and Mrs. William Rhodes, also are under arrest on charges of defrauding cult members out of more than $50,000.

Court Hears Arguments In Scripps Estate Row

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The United States Circuit Court tonight had under consideration an appeal of Mrs. Josephine Scripps, Miramar, Calif., from a Federal district court decision, which denied her claim of approximately $6,000,000 in the estate of E. W. Scripps, her father-in-law and founder of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain. No indication was given when an opinion would be handed down.

Arguments for Mrs. Scripps were made by Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State, and former Federal Judge J. W. Peck, Cincinnati Mrs. Scripps maintained $6,000,000 was due her as her husband's portion of the increment which accrued to the elder Scripps during management of the newspapers by his son, who was the late James G. Scripps, her husband.

STANTON LEADS AIR TOUR TO GREENVILLE

Davis Second and Haldeman Third in Hop From Winston-Salem.

FOUR PLANES DELAYED

Greenville, N. C., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Stanley Stanton was first of the air tourists to land here this afternoon in the hop from Winston-Salem. Art Davis was second and George Haldeman third.

Johnny Livingston and M. E. Zellard were fourth and fifth.

Wylie Post made the best time from Winston-Salem to Greenville, covering the distance in 50 minutes 18 seconds.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 10 (A. P.).—Twenty-four of the 28 airplanes which left Richmond this morning on the day's flight in the national air tour arrived here on time. Illness, motor trouble and navigation difficulty caused four contesting planes to lag.

Appendicitis Attacks Pilot.

Early Rowland, piloting one of three Cessna entries, was stricken with an attack of appendicitis and may be definitely out of the event.

The hughe bimotor Curtiss Condor transport plane turned back to Byrd Field shortly after the take-off due to motor difficulties.

Miss May Hazlip, flying an American Eagle, was held at the port here with a broken rocker arm on her ship's motor. She is expected to push on when repairs are effected.

One Entrant Thought Lost.

Capt. Willian Lancaster, piloting a Great Lakes biplane, had not arrived here and was believed to have wandered off his course in the haze.

Stanley Scandon, flying a Cessna, was the first contestant to reach Winston-Salem. The others came in at short intervals, several of them arriving slightly behind schedule.

A luncheon tendered the fliers here was hurried that they might leave on time. The first plane got away a few minutes after 2 o'clock on the last leg of the day's flight to Greenville, S. C.

Father Kills Children And Self Over Losses

Breslau, Germany, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—On the day his castle and domain were to be sold at auction because of financial difficulties, Herr von Schuetz-Goldfus and his three children were found dead today in his bedroom. The father had shot his children and himself after setting fire to the room.

The Japanese wife of Von Schuetz-Goldfus, and her mother and aunt were overcome by smoke and were carried unconscious to a hospital. The last two arrived yesterday from Japan for a visit.

INTERNATIONAL LAW EXPERTS ASSEMBLE

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Elihu Root Address Opening Session.

WILL CODIFY PRINCIPLES

Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., Oct. 10 (A. P.).—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and head of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, today delivered the address of welcome at the opening of the Institute of International Law Sessions here. Elihu Root, former Secretary of State, presided.

Dr. Butler told the members of the institute that "you have come here at the psychological moment in the history of the modern world, at the precise instant when the stage has been set for the largest understanding your past."

"Here I will mention," he continued, "four great men who have done much in this work in which you are interested: Gustav Stresemann, whose passing at this moment is a grievous loss to the world; Aristide Briand and the two men on whose conversation the world is at present waiting—Premier MacDonald, of England, and President Hoover, of the United States.

"In their conversations the curtain has merely risen on a new era of national conduct because it has risen on a new era of national thinking."

Mr. Root, in opening the conference, said the work of the institution is "bringing nations closer together."

"A broad vision in the field of law brought to bear on the public questions of the day will bring preservation of peace and order throughout the world," he said.

In outlining the work of the conference, Dr. James Brown Scott, general secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and president of the institute, said that the organization was formed for the gradual and progressive codification of international law.

"Our principal object," he said, "is to produce through the uncontrolled actions of a limited number of eminent jurists a statement in as certain a manner as possible of the judicial opinion of the civilized world and to give to this opinion an expression sufficiently clear and exact to be accepted by the various States as the rule of their foreign relations."

Bill Urges Indian Signs' Recording

Leavitt Wants Work Put in Hands of Maj. Gen Hugh L. Scott.

(Associated Press.)

Preservation in permanent record form of the sign language of the American Indian was proposed yesterday in a bill introduced by Representative Leavitt, of Montana, chairman of the House Indian affairs committee.

Leavitt said Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, retired, was the "one man living today fitted to handle this work."

"Gen. Scott," he said, "has been a student of Indian sign language since his graduation from West Point in 1876. He should be given a free hand with the cooperation of the Smithsonian Institution and the office of Indian affairs and there should be no delay in getting at the work."

Jail Terms Provided For Criticisms of Gil

Mexico City, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Any one who tries to assault the President of Mexico will be subject to two years' imprisonment under the new penal code just published in the Official Gazette. If he uses his fists on cabinet members or congressmen he will face from one to two years in jail.

Attacks made verbally or in writing against the president in his private life are punishable by a fine of from ten days to a month's income, "more than a month's imprisonment," or both. If he is slandered in his official capacity, the imprisonment will be for a minimum of two months.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

A draw bridge, built from a crumbling gangway transported from a deserted New England wharf, forms the entrance to the great hall, which is a reproduction of the interior of a Gothic church. Within its area is a fireplace, large enough to hold ten men standing erect; and there is an organ with the capacity of an orchestra of 110 pieces. The instrument is so constructed that a novice may control the keys. Before the fireplace is a chair reputed to have come from the Church of St. John the Lateran in Rome.

Colorful walls rising from the courtyard, and imported from ancient houses of remote corners of Europe, are in harmony with other continental ideas employed by Mr. Hammond. Artificial rain or moonlight can flood the court by pressing a button. Centering it is embedded a tomb, dating 200 years before the birth of Christ.

The galleries will be hung with rare art treasures, collected by Mr. and Mrs. Hammond from all parts of the world.

Visitors From West To Be Entertained.

Mrs. F. E. Hutchins and Miss K. Florence Hill, of Pasadena, Calif., are spending a few days at the Willard. Both have many friends here in the official set and several luncheons and dinners are being planned in their honor.

Col. T. Bentley Mott, of the American Embassy in Paris, is in New York, at the Commodore.

Mrs. Richard V. Taylor Entertains for Guest.

Interstate Commerce Commissioner and Mrs. Richard V. Taylor have as their guest Mrs. George R. Vaughn, of Mobile, who is passing a few days here en route home from a sojourn in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Maryland. Mrs. Taylor gave a bridge tea in compliment to her guest at her suite in the Hotel Washington.

Mrs. Mina C. Budlong, field secretary of the General Alliance of Unitarian Women, will be the speaker at the first fall meeting of the Woman's Alliance of All Souls' Unitarian Church in Pierce Hall today at noon. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock.

A benefit card party will be given by the Young Women's Council of the National Woman's Party Thursday evening, October 17, at their headquarters on Capitol Hill. At this time the Old Capitol Building will stage the last of the many festive scenes which have marked the stay of the National Woman's Party there. Soon afterward the drawing rooms will be dismantled preparatory to moving to new headquarters.

Miss Angelina Carabelli will have charge of the entertainment Thursday evening, with the following committee on arrangements: Miss Mabel Van Dyke, Miss Helen Wheeler, Miss Beryl Loughlin, Miss Emma Serivanek, Miss Lela Angleberger, Miss Julia Bland, Miss Maxine Townsend, Miss Carmela Roehrer and Miss Naomi Trotter.

Pen Women's Group To Entertain Tonight.

The League of American Pen Women of the District will celebrate the sixth anniversary of the creative group at a party to be held this evening in the new studio in Stoneleigh Court at 8 o'clock. Miss Myrta Ethel Cawood, chairman of the groups, has charge of the entertainment.

The creative group was organized in 1923 by Mrs. Harriet Hawley Locher, who was president. Following Mrs. Locher, the group work has been in charge of Mrs. Eli A. Helmick, Mrs. William Wolff Smith, Miss Elizabeth N. Barnes, Mrs. Aaron D. Newman and the present chairman, Miss Cawood, all of whom will take part in the ceremony. The speaker will be Miss Florence Ward. Mrs. Archer Haycock will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Bess Heath Olmstead.

Mr. William E. Huntington will be the guest in whose honor Mme. Josephine de Lagnel will be at home Sunday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock.

Under auspices of the Greek Institute and for the benefit of its educational work, a four-act drama in Greek, "The Genofa," will be presented Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in Immaculate Conception Hall. The Greek Institute, which is now in its second year, maintains a school for 200 children and is under the supervision of the Greek Letters and Fine Arts Society.

Mrs. Phyllis Lamar will have as her guest at her home over the week-end Miss Margaret Buley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Buley, of Cumberland, Md. Miss Buley is attending college at Richmond this winter.

The committee in charge of the dances to be given during the winter by the officers of the Navy and Marine Corps on duty in the District, has announced that the dances will take place at the Willard on the following dates: Thursday, November 14, 1929; Thursday, December 19, 1929; Thursday, January 16, 1930, and Thursday, April 24, 1930.

Miss Gertrude Schultz Watson, daughter of Mr. George D. Watson, of New York, was married Wednesday, October 9, to Mr. John Thomas Scully, son of Mrs. Thomas J. Scully and the late Representative Scully, of New Jersey, at the Park Lane, in New York.

The bride was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore ivory satin, trimmed with old point lace. Her veil of tulle was caught with orange blossoms. She carried lilies.

Mrs. Clifford Condon was matron of honor, and other attendants were Mrs. Robert G. Clarke, of New York, and Mrs. Dorothy Godman Blodgett, of Boston, a cousin of the bride.

Mr. Knowlton L. Ames, jr., of Chicago, was best man.

After a trip, the couple will reside in New York. The bride is a graduate of the Veltin School; Mr. Scully of Princeton, 1917. He was a lieutenant in the Navy in the World War.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Jardine will have as guests his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Jardine, who will arrive Sunday from Corvallis, Oreg. Mr. J. P. Jardine is dean and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Corvallis.

A wedding of international interest will take place in Paris, Thursday, October 17, when Miss Mary Clark, daughter of Mrs. Tobin Clark, of New York, California and Paris, and granddaughter of the late Senator William A. Clark, of Montana, becomes the bride of Baron James Baeyehs. The bride will be given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Richard Tobin, who for six years was American Minister to the Netherlands and who resigned recently. One of the witnesses for the bride will be Mr. George Gordon, acting Charge d'Affaires of the United States.

The ceremony will take place at noon in the Church of St. Clotilde in the aristocratic Seventh Arrondissement. A large gathering of French and American society will be present.

Baron Baeyens is a grandson of the noted financier of the name who was a lifelong friend of King Leopold II, of Belgium.

Mrs. W. Harry Brown, of Pittsburgh, and her son, Mr. W. Harry Brown, jr., who came to Washington to attend the reception given by the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard in honor of the British premier, will remain at the Mayflower for a few days longer before going to New York.

Maj. and Mrs. Otto Wagner have arrived in Washington from Kansas and are occupying their new home in Foxhall Village. Maj. Wagner is at present in the historical section of the Army War College.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lyne have taken an apartment at the Army and Navy Apartments on Connecticut avenue, having returned from Jamestown, R. I., where they had a house for the summer. With them is Mrs. Lyne's mother, Mrs. James Warden Pope, widow of the late Brig. Gen. Pope, who will remain in town a week before returning to her home in Denver.

100 of Younger Set To Aid at Bal Masque.

A beaux and belles committee will be a feature of the Halloween Bal Masque to be given at the Willard on October 31, with 50 young men assisting debutantes of this year and last. FOUR USING SHIELDS BLAST OUT OIL FIRE

Quartet Advances on Blaze Under Barrage by Hose to Plant Explosive.

FLAME COLUMN BROKEN

Oklahoma City, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Advancing behind shields of corrugated steel upon which streams of water were played, four gritty oil workers today succeeded in planting a charge of glycerine-dynamite which snuffed out a gigantic column of flame that had been hissing from the mouth of a new gas well here since early Tuesday.

The quartet did not use the asbestos suits that usually are donned for such work, but wore ordinary clothing instead. The well belongs to the Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. and is situated in the South Oklahoma City Field.

With a charge of 30 quarts of the explosive the crew of four advanced on the fire monster, placed the charge at the base of the flames and retreated to a spot of safety, from which they exploded it by electricity.

Concussion Breaks Flame.

The tremendous concussion separated the flames from the feeding column of gas, and the fighters rushed in to play streams of water on the white hot wreckage of the steel derrick which melted down soon after the well was ignited.

The gas still was running wild early tonight, a misty white column which could be seen from downtown buildings.

To the practical-minded crew of "fire-eaters," the task of extinguishing the flame was routine. To the laymen premitted to watch the preparations there was drama in the approach of pygmy forms behind the protecting shields.

Headed by M. M. M. Kinley, of Tulsa, the fire fighters scorned the use of asbestos suits for the actual placing of the shot. They were dressed in ordinary clothing and streams of water were played constantly upon them and the shields to neutralize the heat.

Residents Are Shaken.

Although 100 quarts of the explosive was available, the 30-quart shot was correctly estimated to be sufficient. It was placed in an asbestos-lined, 50-gallon steel barrel. Although the men were confident heat would not explode the huge bomb, they ran for safety after placing it.

The immediate vicinity of the well was cleared of oil workers and spectators before the charge was exploded. The blast shook residents in the south part of Oklahoma City, but was not heard or felt in the downtown section.

GIRL'S DEATH HOUR VAGUE

Dr. Bader said, "several hours." He could not set a time of even within several hours, he said, because of the heat of the room, the fact that the young woman's skin had not been broken, and his lack of information as to what she had been eating. All these would determine the state of the body, he declared. It was veery probable, he admitted, that she could have been killed late Tuesday afternoon or Tuesday night.

While Dayton sat morosely pondering his crime and his fate last night at the District Jail, the body of his former sweetheart was being prepared for the last rites of the church.

Burial Set for Tomorrow.

Miss Marjory O'Donnell will be buried in the family plot at Pittsburgh tomorrow afternoon. The body was scheduled to leave Washington shortly after last midnight accompanied by Miss Katherine O'Donnell, the heart-broken sister, who stoically decided to make the long, sorrowful journey alone.

The other sister, Margaret, who attends Holy Cross Academy, will not attend the funeral. From the first she has been shielded because of her youth.

The father, John O'Donnell, a newspaper man of Uniontown, Pa., and an uncle, Joseph Bryan, of Pittsburgh, will meet Katherine at the station. They had originally announced their intention of coming to the Capital last night, but the elder sister bravely determined she would face the torture of attending the inquest, making funeral arrangements and greeting friends alone.

Dayton's Cell Near McPherson's.

Dayton was lodged in the District Jail, south wing, yesterday afternoon, two cells removed from Robert McPherson, alleged strangler of his pretty nurse-wife, and a floor beneath Franklin Smith, convicted slayer of his daughter, Bessie. The latter also choked his victim to death.

Daniel S. King and Harvey Cobb, attorneys with offices in the National Press Building, were retained as counsel for Dayton last night. They conferred with the young strangler in the District Jail for almost two hours, but they declined to reveal what their defense tactics would be.

The coroner's jury ordered the 25-year-old insurance salesman held for action of the grand jury in short order yesterday. Dayton made no attempt to defend himself or to refute the damaging testimony of the police. His despair was complete as the tragic culmination of his passionate romance was laid bare before the jurors.

Similarly speedy action is expected from the United States District Attorney's office. The grand jury will take the case probably within the next ten days or two weeks, and a first degree murder indictment is expected to follow.

Remorse Shows in Face.

Dayton, one-time suave, smiling salesman, had broken considerably when he appeared at the inquest yesterday morning, though he still maintained the quiet, hopeless attitude that has possessed him since he sobered up in the Eight Precinct Jail.

Unshaven and attired in an unpressed business suit, the youth clearly showed the effects of bitter remorse in his haggard face and his sunken, dark-ringed eyes. Throughout the testimony of policemen and detectives, he kept his head bowed. When Lieut. Joseph C. Morgan, chief of the homicide squad, read the impassioned confession-letter that he had written after strangling his sweetheart, he came near breaking. His head fell in his two hands, and his shoulders shook convulsively.

The strangler did not take the stand in his own defense, and had no counsel to represent him. In answer to Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt's query as to whether he had anything to say for himself, Dayton replied, "No, sir, I have nothing to say." His voice sounded hollow almost as though he were talking from the realm of the dead.

Sister Weeps Quietly.

Katherine O'Donnell, sister of the slain girl, attended the inquest but was not called on to testify. Accompanied by two friends, she slipped unnoticed by many, including Dayton, into the small room. As the details of her sister's death were unfolded by police, she wept quietly, frequently applying a handkerchief to her eyes.

The testimony was but a repetition of previous accounts of the murder revealed by the police. The sensational climax was the reading of the entire letter which Dayton had written, apparently to his mother, before he lost his nerve and decided not to commit suicide.

Text of Letter.

This letter, which the young slayer did not clearly recall, though he admitted the handwriting was his, is as follows:

"I am going to kill my sweetheart and then myself.

"God knows I love her. Perhaps we may find happiness and mutual understanding in death or in the other life if there be one.

"Without her love, I do not care to live. I had it an hour ago, or so she said, but I fear it will be just a repetition of all the other times we have found love and happiness together and then lost it.

"How I hate myself for the pain I have inflicted on her. May God forgive me, and you, too, my sweetheart. Perhaps both will understand soon, or perhaps death is merely oblivion.

"We have both deceived each other and hurt one another. Marjie, dear, I forgive you everything. If you fully understood, you would forgive me and perhaps you do, or so I hope.

"Liquor Wearing Off."

"Now the effect of the liquor is wearing off. My woman is dead. Shortly I shall begin drinking again to get up sufficient Dutch courage to kill myself, if only I can keep from seeing the appeal in her dear eyes. My heart is broken.

"I have nothing to live for now. Nietzsche is wrong. No man is or can be a law unto himself. I can not stand being alone with my dead sweetheart and my thoughts any longer.

"I will be with you soon, Marjie, sweetheart. I can hear your sweet voice calling me, dear.

"A last request from a murder and suicide, I am wearing a little bracelet of my darling and she has my watch. Please, doctor, do not remove them. We told each other we loved one another just an hour before my jealousy was aroused.

"I wish my love had died a quicker and cleaner death. I must join you, my woman. She is my wife, my own dear wife. God, sweet, loving Christ, forgive us both and receive us both."

Tried to Revive Her.

Dr. John M. Baber, of Emergency Hospital, was the first on the stand. He recounted the finding the body of Miss O'Donnell fully clothed, save for shoes, lying on clean, white sheets in the hotel room. Lieut. Morgan then followed with the letter, after which Capt. Robert E. Doyle threw new light on the murder with the testimony that Dayton had told him yesterday morning he tried to revive his pretty victim after strangling her. He massaged the girl's wrists and arms, applied a wet towel to her, and called her name repeatedly.

It was later, in his desperation, the effects of the liquor having worn off, that he attempted to take his own life with a .38-caliber revolver.

Policeman Morrow, of the Eighth Precinct, told of finding Dayton kneeling beside the bed on which his murdered sweetheart lay. The only signs of a struggle, he said, were several spots of blood on the bed and broken beads beside the girl.

House Detective Testifies.

Dayton's calling for the police was recalled by Lorenzo Jones, colored bellboy. William W. Bowman, house detective, the first law officer in the hotel room, told of his findings and questioning of Dayton. Asked if the slayer appeared greatly upset by what he had done, Bowman said: "No; he just didn't appear interested."

Richard A. Wilson, clerk at the Roosevelt, identified Dayton as the man who had registered at the hotel Monday morning under the name of Burton.

Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, deputy coroner, the last witness, testified that the autopsy had revealed Miss O'Donnell had died from the effects of strangulation.

The jury returned its finding in less than ten minutes. The entire inquest consumed only about a half hour.

Brother Sought in Knife Attack.

Petro Scaldoferri, 26 years old, who lives near First and C streets northwest, was in Emergency Hospital yesterday suffering from knife wounds about the face and arms and police were searching for his brother, Nick Scaldoferri, 31 years old, near Second street and Indiana avenue northwest, who was reported to have attacked him.

RIOT INQUIRY BARES PRISON'S GANGLAND

Well-Organized Cliques in Cellhouses Revealed at Canon City.

TEN MORE IN "SOLITARY"

Canon City, Colo., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—With the announcement today that ten more convicts, including Sammy Reardon, who disputed with Danny Daniels the title of "king" of the Colorado State Prison here prior to the recent riot that took thirteen lives, had been placed in solitary confinement, prison officials declared they have discovered the existence of well-organized gangs or cliques inside the penitentiary. Daniels committed suicide after he had killed several guards and fellow convicts.

Most of the convicts locked up today are men who have given valuable evidence concerning the causes of the riot, officials said, and they were placed in solitary confinement to safeguard them from possible attacks by other prisoners.

Warden F. E. Crawford said today's action brought the total number of convicts held in solitary confinement to twelve. Charles Davis and Leo McGenty were locked up shortly after the riot. Crawford would not make public the names of those locked up today with the exception of Reardon's.

One of two major factions among the prisoners was led by Daniels, officials say, while another was led byy Reardon. Reardon's followers are said to have threatened him after the riot for his failure to join with the mutinous convicts under Daniels.

The death today of Myron Goodwin, a guadr, who was fatally wounded in the rebellion, brought the total number killed to thirteen. Eight were guides and five prisoners.

Meanwhile, the joint investigation of the riot by Gov. Adams and Attorney General Robert E. Winbourn, proceeded with the appointment by Winbourn of George Crowder, one of his assistants, to act as legal adviser to the board of inquiry which the governor will appoint.

Waiter Kills Taxi Man And Takes Girl Riding

Miami, Fla., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Russell Farmer, 25, waiter, took his girl friend for a joy ride last night, after killing Charles J. Corley, a taxicab driver, and appropriating Corley's car, police announced today after further investigation of the crime.

Farmer surrendered to police, admitting he had killed the driver and escorting officers to the scene of the crime, where Corley's body was found. Farmer said he originally intended to kill his sweetheart, but she had been so nice to him he "couldn't do it."

Adams Takes Trip On Giant Dirigible

Navy Secretary and Other Officials Are Guests on Los Angeles.

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Charles F. Adams, Secretary of the Navy, was a passenger late today on the dirigible Los Angeles which engaged in a flight of one hour and a quarter along the north New Jersey coast. It was the secretary's first flight in the dirigible.

Other passengers included David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics; Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics; Capt. George F. Neal, assistant to Secretary Adams, Lieut.-Comdr. Robert P. Mouten, jr., and Lieut. A. P. Sporrs.

The ship was commanded by Lieut.-Comdr. Hobert V. Wiley. It also carried a crew of 29, 11 officers and 8 student officers.

Dean of Vanderbilt Dies.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—John Bell Keeble, 61 years old, dean of the Vanderbilt University Law School and a former president of the Tennessee Bar Association, died unexpectedly of a heart attack tonight.

BEAN HOLE BEANS

With the "baked outdoors" flavor

Out of the Maine forests —where famous cooks build body and brawn— come Bean Hole Beans.

Layers of beans and sugar-cured pork, cups of brown sugar and molasses, sealed in the great, iron bean pot— baked all night long in a bed of smouldering embers deep in the underground "bean hole"— no other beans were ever so good or wholesome.

The choicest beans, highest grade, sugar-cured pork, select brown sugar and molasses—add to the famous, original North Woods recipe the certain knowledge of purity and cleanliness certified by Van Camp food experts in the Nation's Kitchens and you'll know why everyone likes Bean Hole Beans.

Some truthful cooks say they are as good as the best beans they ever baked—some say they are even better. Why not try them and get the family's verdict tonight? After that you will serve them often. Two sizes, medium, 15c; large, 25c.

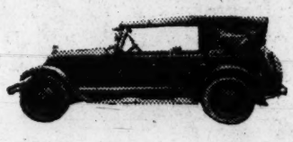
if you pass this number look at the car



It belongs to Police Captain P. C. Horne, Sr., of Washington, D. C. It has gone 96,000 miles without replacement of rings or wrist pins or tightening of bearings, and the motor still runs like new. From the very beginning it has been lubricated with "Standard" Motor Oil.

THIS is one of the outstanding performance records which are being made every year by this remarkable motor oil.

"Standard" Motor Oil is an o-i-l-i-e-r oil, made from carefully selected crudes and specially processed. It clings to metal surfaces, resists friction and penetrates more quickly to all moving parts.

This means less wear, less carbon and better power. Ask for "Standard" Motor Oil at your dealer's. Fill your crankcase with this rich-bodied, oilier oil. Get added miles of service from your car without extra cost.

THERE isn't much that Captain P. C. Horne, Sr. of Washington, D. C., doesn't know about automobiles and motors. When he bought his Columbia-6 back in September, 1923, he decided to give it the best of treatment. He chose "Standard" Motor Oil. Today, after 96,000 miles he says, "The good service I have obtained from my car is largely due to the quality of "Standard" Motor Oil."

Big Network Tonight for MacDonald

Premier's Speech in New York Will Be Heard Over World; Damrosch on Radio This Morning; Pulaski Honored at 10.

One of the most extensive networks ever used in radio will convey the voice of Premier Ramsay MacDonald from the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York, to practically every section of the civilized world over 21 National Broadcasting Co stations. Station CJSC, in Toronto, Canada, will broadcast the speech in the Dominion and short wave transmitters will distribute it for foreign listeners. Reports received from the British Broadcasting Corporation indicate that the prime minister's talk will be rebroadcast for the English audience, if conditions are favorable.

Premier MacDonald will be introduced by Elihu Root, former Secretary of State, following a dinner in honor of the British visitor given by the council on foreign relations. The speech, the theme of which has not been announced, is expected to begin about 9 o'clock and may continue an hour.

Milton J. Cross will describe events at the banquet board and will introduce Mr. Root to the radio audience.

M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., will formally start the music appreciation hour which begins at 11 o'clock this morning, under the direction of Walter Damrosch. Mr. Aylesworth will introduce Mr. Damrosch, dean of American conductors, to pupils assembled in schools and colleges all over the United States. It is for the benefit of the pupils the programs covering many phases of music, and continuing until April 4, have been arranged. The details of the first program follow:

March, from "Aida," Verdi; "Anitra's Dance," from "Peer Gynt," Suite No. 1, Grieg; Scherzo, from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Mendelssohn; overture to "Rienzi," Wagner, and overture to "Benevenuto Cellini," Berlioz.

The series will include twelve programs, according to the present plan. The programs for the two younger groups will be given on the same Friday and alternate with the programs for the two older groups which are scheduled to be given together. Series A is for the third and fourth grades; series B for the fifth and sixth; series C for the seventh, eighth and ninth, and series D for high school and college students and music clubs.

Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish patriot who sacrificed his life in defense of the American cause during the Revolutionary War, will be honored during the "Stars of Melody" presentation from WRC at 10 o'clock. Sofia Zielinska, coloratura soprano of the National Grand Opera Company and daughter of Polish immigrant parents, will be guest soloist.

The National Broadcasting Co. will broadcast the third world series baseball game from Philadelphia at 1:15 o'clock today. Graham McNamee accompanied the teams East, and will be assisted by George Hicks of the WRC staff.

In an endeavor to bring producers of the good things of the season closer to the consumers, the University of Maryland and the U. S. Department of Agriculture men have scheduled for the Friday Farm Flash period, each week, a review of the Washington markets for farm produce. This review will be given by the radio character—County Agent Robbins, familiar to all rural listeners of WRC. Outside the radio studios, County Agent Robbins is R. M. Watkins, of the University of Maryland. He is assisted by County Agent Bob White, otherwise Frank L. Teuton, of the Department of Agriculture radio service.

Station WMAL has a program which tends toward the musical this evening, with "In a Russian Village," arranged for 8 o'clock. Mme. Valia Valentinova will sing two solos, "I Remember," and "The Ring," while instrumental music will be furnished by Peter Blijo's Balalaika orchestra. Jesse Crawford will do an organ recital at 10:30 oclock, with Paul Dysart and his orchestra scheduled until 1:30 o'clock.

Kathryn Dunning, pianist, and Pauline Healy Shook, soprano, have 15-minute periods on WOL during the evening, in addition to the "Family Market Basket" at 6:15 o'clock and the Izaak Walton League program at 7 o'clock.

If all the cigarette ads in the world were placed end to end they would still reach occasionally for space."

Baby Mine

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"LIBRA."

If October 11 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 5 a. m. to 8 a. m., from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger period is from 9 p. m. to 11:30 p. m.

The stars foretell little for this date. There are no pronounced tendencies indicated. Everything depends upon yourself. Something will be planned or begun which will stretch far into the future.

Children born on this October 11 will be clever, whole-souled and intellectual. They will be fun-loving, fond of games and sports and extremely fond of animals. They will have a fund of humor.

You possess many handicapping attributes, such as an exaggerated reserve, a lack of self-confidence, an undue sense of inferiority and self-centeredness. Although man is instinctively a gregarious animal, you seek to avoid human companionship. This is a sign of mental morbidity, which can only be combated through developing a social habit. You must mingle with varied classes and types of society and listen to their points of view—this will widen your mental horizon.

You have your dreams and your ambitions, but you seldom dare take the steps necessary to put bricks under your castles in the air. You allow "panic thoughts" to prevent you from attempting many ventures which would inure to your success and happiness. You are not a physical coward, but you are decidedly a mental one. You are afraid of "silly" and imaginary things. You underestimate your own ability, and you leave nothing to chance. Luck is on your side as much as it is on any one's. Your conscientious endeavor is in itself a safe guarantee against failure. Your own good judgment can be relied upon at all times to safeguard you. Your intelligence is not below par, but is above the average. You are far more capable than many whom you envy. You have both brains and opportunities—use them both!

Successful people born October 11: Henry Dexter, sculptor.

Richard B. Kimball, author, lawyer and traveler, founder of Kimball, Tex.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD.

"Down With Contented Husbands!"

Well, well, what next? First Mabel brings her grievance, consisting of a brand-new husband who sits around radiating contentment, to Mabel's untold disgust.

"I don't want to be contented. I want excitement," moans Mabel, while we register sheer wonder.

Now Mary breaks out and tells Mabel to divorce this contented brute and get somebody exciting. Guess we don't belong in this age, or don't feel well, or something, for we think this sort of thing is atrocious. Can you imagine yourself divorcing a man because he insisted upon telling you how contented he felt in your society?

We begin to understand why men are afraid of women and afraid of marriage. What do you think of Mary's advice, and which would you rather be today, a man or a trained seal?

Dear Miss McDonald:

It seems to me you are a bit harsh with the Mabel who craves thrills in her letter in today's column. There must be more to this than meets the eye. No sane girl of 22 can expect married life (or any other conventional experience) to be one long roller-coaster ride. The three meals, eating and sleeping are part of any existence, and routine is unavoidable, but I believe that Mabel is entitled to thrills and ought to have them!

Don't laugh, if you have ever been in her predicament, as I have, you would know it is a matter of truly vital importance. Any girl who enjoys housework must have the right stuff in her, and I believe it's her husband who needs advice. However, she has asked for it, and from one who has been in similar circumstances.

The benighted man may be merely ignorant, but ignorance can cause appalling tragedies. Taken in time he may yet be a fairly interesting person to live with, and it's up to him to be that! Why should any ambitious girl be contented with merely another face to feed? Any normal and intelligent man should do his wife the honor to at least appear interested, piqued, when she raves about another man; and he should have sense enough to take her out once or twice a week, at least, to some amusing and entertaining affair.

If poor Mabel's husband is incurably indifferent, the sooner she gets rid of him the better. I had to get a divorce on those grounds and know.

Advise her to try to make that contented creature more anxious to be interesting. If she meets with no success, let her divorce him as painlessly as possible, and have more wisdom in her next marital venture. Let girls stay clear of placid husbands if they want happy homes!

Good luck to Mabel and her "contented" husband. She's a bit sour on the world now, but I hope she'll be happy.

MARY.

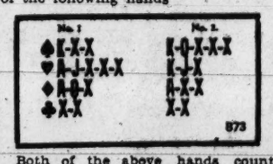
WORK'S BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

In previous articles we have discussed jumping partner's No Trump by bidding a higher number of No Trumps; we now consider bidding a suit over partner's No Trump. Suits are bid over partner's uncontested No Trump with one of three objects: (1) to prevent or minimize loss; (2) to shift to a declaration more apt to produce game; (3) to give a picture of the bidders' holding.

We must bear in mind that Contract is not Auction and that the greatest difference between the bidding conventions of the two games is to be found when bidding a suit as an overcall of partner's No Trump. Furthermore, we must remove from our minds an idea conceived in the early days of Contract, viz., that there is no such thing as "a weakness bid."

We will first consider what should be done with a strong major suit hand, partner having bid one No Trump and second hand having passed. Suppose North holds either of the following hands



Both of the above hands count more than enough to justify jumping partner's one No Trump to three No Trumps; so manifestly it would be unsound to permit South to play at less than a game contract.

Both of the North hands given are weak in the Club suit, suggesting to North that it may be easier to make four Hearts with No. 1 or four Spades with No. 2 than to make three No Trumps with either. Should North bid three No Trumps with either hand, he would fail to disclose his strong major holding; should he bid the game-going four Hearts or four Spades, South could not rebid No Trump without going beyond a game contract, and that he would not be apt to do as he was able to bid only one originally. The way in which North can safely work himself out of this quandary will be explained tomorrow. Clip or note the hands given today so you will have them before you tomorrow.

Ann Interprets the Mode

An unusual gown in white and either black or red crepe moracain. (A Dah-ray Design.)

Oh-o-o-o, we come to the close of the Clever Fingers Contest! Exhausted, we fall gracefully upon our sandalwood desk, one eye out for the stabbing propensities of the upright letter-file, and say in a quake-and-wivering voice, "Ha-a-ave you sent in your idea?"

"No, we are not exactly asking for it!" said she, plaintively regarding the two desks full of unopened letters—but then you might win a generous prize, so wouldn't everybody be sorry if you didn't send in that idea?

So sit right down this very minute and TRY to tell us how you make that favorite thing. As we have told you, it doesn't have to be sewing: in fact, it can be anything, except cooking.

The rules are simply that the letter must be typewritten and the name and address must be ON the letter. That you can send only one idea in a letter. That your illustrations, if any, need not be expert, but must be comprehensive.

The prizes, all designed by Dare and made by her Paris dressmaker, who, by the way, is a famous couturier, consists of a fall ensemble as first prize; second prize, a dinner dress, and third prize, a Dah-ray negligee. And then there are, you know, ten prizes of Dare's new booklet, "Clever Fingers."

Worth trying for, aren't they? Well, if you hurry and send yours in it might arrive before we close shop manana—meaning when we get the letters opened!

• • • •

Oh, well, why not let's be a bit "ooul-trah" once in a while? Why not, for example, wear a white crepe moracain gown like the one I designed for you today by my own self, with either black or dull red satin sleeves? NO accessory can be ANYTHING but white—not another single pingle speck of red anywhere except on my lady's lips.

• • • •

No more extravagant than a house dress and so-o-o-o-o much smarter and more comfortable, are the pajamas we tell you how to make in this week's illustrated leaflet, for which you have only to send your stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. You can just slip into them for tea and extra specially pretty ones for an intimate dinner when you're in the mood for that something different to wear.

The Christmas Box.

Y-e-e-e-es, that's just what I said. THE Christmas box! And don't get bored and not pay any attention to me because it's only October—lovely red and gold October—and Christmas is so-o-o-o-o many days away that, well, really! It may be lots of DAYS away, but it isn't many months away, and it may take you one whole one to decide what in the world to give Jo-Jo, who has everything in the world anyway.

Now I've put the idea in your head, I won't say another word about it till—tomorrow, at least.

• • • •

Green for the evening is new and smart. Mamzelle writes of a dress with a tight bodice, high waist-line, long, full skirt over tight-fitting knickers, which come below the knees. It was lace, this one—the dress, not the knickers.

The weekly Dare fashion letter in The Washington Post each Sunday presents some new and intriguing ideas. We hope you are enjoying it.

Au Revoir!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

WHERE DOPE IS USED.

The best opinion is that the use of opiates and cocaine is declining. Sales through drug stores and physicians have declined markedly. If physicians were ever responsible for much drug addiction, such is not the case now. The only fly in the ointment is the possible increase of drug addiction among thieves, criminals, beggars and sporting women. An investigation on which the Boyleston prize essay was based indicated that physicians are responsible for less than 10 per cent of the present day drug addiction. Most of the drug addicts get their supply through peddlers. Some of the terms used among the underworld trade are as follows:

There is apt to be a heavily financed dope ring. In this men of financial power and sometimes of social position are the stockholders. Powerful politicians get a cut-in on the profits. The drugs are smuggled into the country in barrels of sugar, sticks of timber, and a thousand ways.

These importations are made by agents of the ring. The dope is distributed to the peddlers by men called "wires." The peddler takes his stock to a point on the street or possibly a pool hall. The place where he meets his customers is called a "meet" or a "stand." A package of drug wrapped in paper is called a "deck," a "check or a "bundle." If it is in a capsule it is called a "berry," a "bean" or a "cap."

The prevailing price when and where this investigation was made was one dollar a grain. The average amount used daily by an addict was found to be about eleven grains, requiring that the thief or beggar should manage to lift about ten dollars a day to pay for his dope. The peddlers generally shortweight their customers about 10 per cent. Sometimes they water the drug with milk sugar.

Of 106 addicts investigated, 30 began by using heroin, 41 with morphine, 12 with cocaine, 11 with opium, 10 with paregoric, 1 with laudanum, and 1 with patent medicine. It was found that addicts who mixed cocaine with opiates averaged a larger dose than those who used opiates alone.

The Oregon Medical Sentinel, which journal reprints the Boyleston essay, says that whatever may have happened elsewhere the drastic provisions against heroin have not sufficed. The law prohibits the manufacture, sale and use of heroin. Yet the Sentinel says heroin is plentiful on the Pacific Coast. In all probability conditions there are about the same as those elsewhere.

This has some bearing on proposals to limit the sale of poppies, the gathering of the crude drug, the manufacture of the products and traffic in them in India and China, and in all other parts of the world; to hold the production of the drug to about the level of the legitimate demand. Unless our experience with heroin convinces to the contrary, this promises to be the next effort at prohibition. So far as the cure of the habit is concerned, the essayist says this cannot be accomplished except in an institution where the patient is under complete control.

In order to prevent relapses the period of medical treatment must be supplemented by a prolonged period for the building up of morals.

SEAWEED FROM OLD JAPAN.

Constant Reader writes: 1. What is agar? I have been taking plain granular agar for constipation, 3 teaspoons before breakfast, with splendid results.

2. Does the continued use of agar cause harm?

3. Does the continued use of mineral oil cause vitamin A and D to be lost from the food?

REPLY.

1. Dried Japanese seaweed.
2. No.
3. No.

TREATING DEMENTIA PRECOX.

Mrs. H. H. writes: Is dementia precox curable and what kind of treatments should a person be given? My sister's case has been diagnosed as dementia precox.

REPLY.

Dementia precox is not curable but many people who have it and who, because of it need to be confined, can be trained to become fairly useful members of society and to fit fairly well into home and community life. The treatment consists of training and with due attention to diet, bowel habits and other matters physical.

From Baltimore, L. Stoddard Taylor, manager of the Belasco, received a wire yesterday that set his heart aglow. It follows:

"Baltimore, Md., Oct. 9.

"Stoddard Taylor,
"Manager Belasco, Washington, D. C.

"Thank you for your congratulatory wire. I regard 'Stripped' as the best play I have had for a long time Critics and audiences are a unit in indorsing my opinion. Opened to practically capacity and I know, my old friend, that you will be glad of this good news. I look forward to a fine week in Washington, for I feel they will like this play, as several prominent Washingtonians were present at my first night here and have written me of their keen enjoyment and delight. Kindest personal regards.

"LIONEL ATWILL."

"Stripped," it might be explained, is the play booked for the Belasco next week. It was written by Jane Murfin, the young lady who collaborated with Jane Cowl on the writing of "Smiling Thru," a successful drama of some years ago. Miss Murfin also has to her credit a play called "Lilac Time." So she is no newcomer to the theater. In Baltimore, the critics were right kindly to "Stripped"—whatever that may mean.

• • • •

Rare old Ben Jonson comes to life—after several centuries at rest—on the stage of the National Theater next week when his comedy, "Volpone," is put on by the Theater Guild, now doing handsomely by a Eugene O'Neill travelogue, "Marco Millions." It happens that the advance agent for the Theater Guild is a former professor of literature in a Pittsburgh college. His name is Elmer Kenyon and he believes that "Volpone" is really one of the classics. Well, it is.

• • • •

T. D. Bonneville, manager of Poli's, has a busy week ahead of him, doing nothing; for, due to the exigencies of the business, his house is dark all next week. This means that Mr. Bonneville, instead of standing in the lobby greeting customers, must go out to the races every day, and at night—well, at night, I so he says that's a different story. It seems that Mr. Bonneville is charter member of the Ace in the Hole Club, a literary organization that meets only after sundown.

• • • •

At noon today members of the National Press Club will have the pleasure of seeing and hearing a British journalist, Ian Hay, who came over last week with his new play, "The Middle Watch," now doing duty at the Belasco. During the war Mr. Hay was sent over to this country by the British intelligence service to counteract whatever German propaganda that was set loose on an unsuspecting public. He then came into touch with his first knowledge of red tape, so-called. After the war was over, and he still lecturing, he cabled the home office: "What shall I do now?" The reply was, "Carry on!" So he wrote a play about it.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Stories of Invention.

What is lightning?

Lightning is a giant electric spark.

There was a time, less than 200 years ago, when people did not know what lightning was. At that time, they knew a little about the action of electricity. There were electric machines which made sparks. A glass globe was turned, and a silk cloth was rubbed against the glass. People were able to get "a shock."

A Leyden Jar "Sparking."

The Leyden jar had also been invented by a professor at a German university. This jar had tinfoil inside and out, and it was used to store electric charges.

When electric toys were brought to Boston from Europe, in 1746, a man named Benjamin Franklin watched their action with interest. Franklin noticed that the spark was zigzag, and that it made a noise. He wondered whether lightning, which was also "zigzag," and which made the noise of thunder, was a huge electric spark.

After thinking a good while on the subject, Franklin wrote an article saying that lightning must be electric. The article was read by scientists in Europe. Some of them laughed at the idea, but others thought it might be true.

A Frenchman named Dalibard placed an upright rod in the ground. During a storm, he was able to get an electric spark from the rod. Franklin later flew a kite and brought down an electric charge which was stored in a Leyden jar.

Franklin thought about the damage done by lightning, and, to prevent the damage, invented a lightning rod. Lightning struck a rod placed over a Philadelphia building, and was carried to the ground by a wire, doing no harm to the building.

Some persons said that lightning rods ought not be used, because when lightning struck it was by the will of God. Friends of the new invention, however, pointed out that churches had been struck more often than any other kind of building. This was due to the tall steeples, for lightning tends to strike the highest point. Lightning rods became common, and Franklin's invention, in an improved form, is in use today.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN.

OCTOBER 11.

The famous American archeologist, Mrs. Harriet Boyd Hawes, was born this day, 1871, at Boston.

After completing her education at Smith College, Mrs. Hawes began her exploring career in Greece under fellowship of the American School of Classical Studies. Her first important work was done in 1900 when she excavated the citadel and tombs of the Iron Age (1000 B. C.) at Kavousi, Crete. Three years later as representative of the Exploration Society of Philadelphia, she completed discovery and excavation of the town and palace of the Bronze Age (1600 B. C.) in Crete.

During the Turko-Grecian War in 1897 and during the Spanish-American War, Mrs. Hawes served as a Red Cross nurse. During the World War she conducted relief work among the Serbians and was the organizer and first director of the Smith College Relief Unit in France. Queen Olga of Greece decorated her for her war work.

Mrs. Hawes has written and lectured extensively on her work. Since 1920 she has been lecturer on pre-Christian art at Wellesley College.

LINDBERGH RETURNS FRO MMAYAN JAUNT

Flying Colonel and Party Land in Miami After Hop From Cozumel.

RUINS ARE SEEN AGAIN

Miami, Fla., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh returned here tonight from a twenty-day swing around the Caribbean that included an exploring expedition over ancient Mayan ruins hitherto unknown to the scientific world.

The colonel accompanied by his wife, Dr. A. V. Kidder, of the archeological department of the Carnegie Institution, Washington, and W. T. Van Dusen, representative of the Pan-American Airways, took off from Cozumel Island, Mexico, at 9:56 o'clock this morning to take a final glance at ruins in Quintana Roo Province, Mexico. The party then flew to Cuba, and from Cuba here, arriving after dark.

The Lindberghs plan to fly to New York from here tomorrow in their private plane.

Last Look Is Taken.

Aboard Lindbergh's Plane, Oct. 10 (A.P.) (By radio direct to Pan-American International Airport, Miami).—Starting their last day of the three-week air tour around the Caribbean, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his party took off today from Cozumel Island, off the coast of Mexico, and headed west toward the territory of Quintana Roo on the mainland. The object was a final sight of the Mayan ruins spotted yesterday.

Following a plan of flight decided on last week, Col. Lindbergh headed for Coba, on the mainland, one of the largest Mayan ruins, but yet only briefly studied. The object was to try to pick up signs of a great ancient highway built of rock, believed to have been used to connect Coba with other cities of Yucatan.

Forty-five minutes after the start the plane was over the great square temple at Coba, which, with pyramids, formed the central plaza of the old city. The community was strung along the banks of two lakes.

Other Mounds Identified.

After circling the central towers the plane party clearly identified other mounds some distance away, but obviously part of the ancient settlement.

Only crumbling bits of masonry atop the highest pyramids can be seen today. The bush and jungle growths have swallowed all relics closer to the natural surface and have hidden them from the eyes of men afoot.

Col. Lindbergh spent some time circling around these sites, but no sign of the stone highway could be discovered. Therefore he turned back toward Cozumel with low, broken clouds and a little rain ahead, but in spots, which made it easy for the machine to avoid them.

Cozumel Passed Again.

By noon the big machine had passed over Cozumel again and was well out over the Yucatan Straits on its way to Cuba.

Everyone was enthusiastic over the results of the five days of exploration from the air. In that time the party covered a distance that would have taken eight years for an expedition on muleback, cutting its way painfully through the jungle, and plotted all but one small bit of what heretofore have been blank spots on the maps of Yucatan and Quintana Roo in Mexico, and in sections of Guatemala and British Honduras.

The flight has also proved that planes can be used to transport scientific parties into isolated localities in the jungle, accomplishing in a few hours what would require days and even weeks of painstaking and laborious effort if the task were attempted by land.

Berlin Council Orders Mayor Back From U. S.

Berlin, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Despite receipt of a cablegram from Dr. Gustav Boess, lord mayor of Berlin, saying he did not consider it advisable to cut short his visit to the United States because of a contract graft scandal here, the city council late today passed a resolution ordering him to return.

Dr. Boess had cabled from San Francisco.

Eighth Prison Guard Dies of Riot Wounds

Cannon City, Colo., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Myron Goodwin, guard, one of the first men to be shot in the riot at the Colorado Penitentiary here a week ago, died of his wounds today. Goodwin's death brings the death toll of the riot to thirteen, eight of the dead having been guards.

The Seven Dials Mystery

By AGATHA CHRISTIE

Lord Caterham stared at him. It occurred to him that what was so often referred to as "the strain of modern life," had begun to tell upon George. Certainly his description of Bundle seemed to Lord Caterham ludicrously unlike.

"Are you sure you are feeling quite well?" he asked anxiously.

George waved the inquiry aside impatiently.

"Perhaps, Caterham, you begin to have some inkling of my purpose in visiting you this morning. I am not a man to undertake fresh responsibilities lightly. I have a proper sense, I hope, of what is due to the position I hold. I have given this matter my deep and earnest consideration. Marriage, especially at my age, is not to be undertaken without full—er—consideration. Equality of birth, similarity of tastes, general suitability, and the same religious creed—all these things are necessary and the pros and cons have to be weighed and considered. I can, I think, offer my wife a position in society that is not to be despised. Eileen will grace that positoin admirably. By birth and breeding she is fitted for it, and her brains and her acute political sense can not but further my career to our mutual advantage. I am aware, Caterham, that there is—er—some disparity in years. But I can assure you that I feel full of vigor—in my prime. The balance of years should be on the husband's side. And Eileen has serious tastes—an older man will suit her better than some young jackanapes without either experience or savoir faire. I can assure you, my dear Caterham, that I will cherish her exquisite youth; I will cherish it—er—it will be appreciated. To watch the exquisite flower of her mind unfolding—what a privilege! And to think that I never realized——"

Permission Granted.

He shook his head deprecatingly, and Lord Caterham, finding his voice with difficulty, said blankly

"Do I understand you to mean—ah, my dear fellow, you can't want to marry Bundle?"

"You are surprised. I suppose to you it seems sudden. I have your permission, then, to speak to her?"

"Oh, yes," said Lord Caterham. "If it's permission you want—of course you can. But you know, Lomax, I really shouldn't if I were you. Just go home and think it over like a good fellow. Count twenty. All that sort of thing. Always a pity to propose and make a fool of yourself."

"I dare say you mean your advice kindly, Caterham, though I must confess that you put it somewhat strangely. But I have made up my mind to put my fortune to the test. I may see Eileen?"

"Oh, it's nothing to do with me," said Lord Caterham hastily; "Eileen settles her own affairs. If she came to me tomorrow and said she was going to marry the chauffeur, I shouldn't make any objections. It's the only way nowadays. Your children can make life damned unpleasant if you don't give in to them in every way. I say to Bundle, 'Do as you like, but don't worry me,' and, really, on the whole, she is amazingly good about it."

George stood up, intent upon his purpose.

"Where shall I find her?"

"Well, really, I don't know," said Lord Caterham vaguely. "She might be anywhere. As I told you just now, she's never in the same place for two minutes together. No repose."

"And I suppose Miss Wade will be with her? It seems to me, Caterham that the best plan would be for you to ring the bell and ask your butler to find her, saying that I wish to speak to her for a few minutes."

Lord Caterham pressed the bell obediently.

"Oh, Tredwell," he said, when the bell was answered, "just find her ladyship, will you? Tell her Mr. Lomax is anxious to speak to her in the drawing room."

"Yes, my lord."

Tredwell withdrew. George seized Lord Caterham's hand and wrung it warmly, much to the latter's discomfort.

"A thousand thanks," he said. "I hope soon to bring you good news."

He hastened from the room.

"Well, said Lord Caterham.

"Well"

And after a long pause:

"What has Bundle been up to?"

The door opened again.

"Mr. Eversleigh, my lord."

As Bill hastened in, Lord Caterham caught his hand and spoke earnestly.

"Hullo, Bill. You're looking for Lomax, I suppose? Look here, if you want to do a good turn, hurry into the drawing room and tell him the Cabinet have called an immediate meeting, or get him away somehow. It's really not fair to let the poor devil make an ass of himself all for some silly girl's prank."

"I've not come for Codders," said Bill. "Didn't know he was here. It's Bundle I want to see. Is she anywhere about?"

"You can't see her," said Lord Caterham. "Not just now, at any rate. George is with her."

"Well—what does it matter?"

"I think it does rather," said Lord Caterham. "He's probably spluttering horribly at this minute, and we mustn't do anything to make it worse for him."

"But what is he saying?"

"Heaven knows," said Lord Caterham. "A lot of damned nonsense, anyway. Never say too much, that was always my motto. Grab the girl's hand and let events take their course."

Bill stared at him.

"But look here, sir, I'm in a hurry. I must talk to Bundle——"

"Well, I don't suppose you'll have to wait long. I must confess I'm rather glad to have you here with me—I suppose Lomax will insist on coming back and talking to me when it's all over."

"When what's all over? What is Lomax supposed to be doing?"

"Hush," said Lord Caterham. "He's proposing."

"Proposing? Proposing what?"

"Marriage. To Bundle. Don't ask me why. I suppose he's come to what they call the dangerous age. I can't explain it any other way."

"Proposing to Bundle? The dirty swine! At his age!"

Bill's face grew crimson.

"He says he's in the prime of life," said Lord Caterham, cautiously.

"He?" Why, he's decrepit—senile! I——" Bill positively choked.

"Not at all," said Lord Caterham, coldly. "He's five years younger than I am."

"Of all the damned cheek! Codders and Bundle! A girl like Bundle! You oughtn't to have allowed it."

"I never interfere," said Lord Caterham.

"You ought to have told him what you thought of him."

"Unfortunately modern civilization rules that out," said Lord Caterham, regretfully. "In the stone age now—but, dear me, I suppose even then I shouldn't be able to do it—being a small man."

"Bundle! Bundle! Why, I've never dared to ask Bundle to marry me because I knew she'd only laugh. And George—a disgusting windbag, an unscrupulous, hypocritical old hot air merchant, a foul, poisonous self advertiser——"

"Go on," said Lord Caterham. "I'm enjoying this."

"My God!" said Bill, simply and with feeling. "Look here, I must be off."

To See Thesiger.

"No, no, don't go. I'd much rather you stayed. Besides, you want to see Bundle."

"Not now. This has driven everything else out of my head. You don't know where Jimmy Thesiger is by any chance? I believe he was staying with the Cootes. Is he there still?"

"I think he went back to town yesterday. Bundle and Loraine were over there on Saturday. If you'll only wait——"

But Bill shook his head energetically and rushed from the room. Lord Caterham tiptoed out into the hall, seized a hat and made a hurried exit by the side door. In the distance he observed Bill streaking down the drive in his car.

"That young man will have an accident," he thought.

Bill, however, reached London without any mischance, and proceeded to park his car in St. James Square. Then he sought out Jimmy Thesiger's rooms. Jimmy was at home.

"Hullo, Bill. I say, what's the matter? You don't look your usual bright little self."

"I'm worried," said Bill. "I was worried anyway, and then something else turned up and gave me a jolt."

"Oh!" said Jimmy. "How lucid! What's it all about? Can I do anything?"

Bill did not reply. He sat staring at the carpet and looking so puzzled and uncomfortable that Jimmy felt his curiosity aroused.

"Has anything very extraordinary occurred, William?" he asked gently.

"Something damned odd. I can't make head or tail of it."

"The Seven Dials business?"

"Yes—the Seven Dials business. I got a letter this morning."

"A letter? What sort of a letter?"

"A letter from Ronny Devereux' executors."

"Good Lord! After all this time!"

"It seems he left instructions. If he was to die suddenly, a certain sealed envelope was to be sent to me exactly a fortnight after his death."

"And they've sent it to you?"

"Yes."

"You've opened it?"

"Yes."

"Well—what did it say?"

Bill turned a glance upon him, such a strange and uncertain one that Jimmy was startled.

"Look here," he said. "Pull yourself together, old man. It seems to have knocked the wind out of you, whatever it is. Have a drink."

A Certain Letter.

He poured out a stiff whisky and soda and brought it over to Bill, who took it obediently. His face still bore the same dazed expression.

"It's what's in the letter," he said. "I simply can't believe it, that's all."

"Oh, nonsense," said Jimmy. "You must get into the habit of believing six impossible things before breakfast. I do it regularly. Now then, let's hear all about it. Wait a minute."

He went outside.

"Stevens?"

"Yes, sir."

"Just go out and get me some cigarettes, will you? I've run out."

"Very good, sir."

Jimmy waited till he heard the front door close. Then he came back into the sitting room. Bill was just in the act of setting down his empty glass. He looked better, more purposeful and more master of himself.

"Now then," said Jimmy. "I've sent Stevens out so that we can't be overheard. Are you going to tell me all about it?"

"It's so incredible."

"Then it's sure to be true. Come on, out with it."

Bill drew a deep breath.

"I will. I'll tell you everything."

New Flower Shop Will Open Today

Grillbortzer Has Modern Establishment on Thirteenth Street.

Grillbortzer, the florist, announces the opening today of an attractive new flower shop at 815 and 817 Thirteenth street northwest, with the public especially invited during the hours from 2 o'clock this afternoon until midnight.

Music and souvenirs will be features of the formal opening, according to announcement by D. G. Grillbortzer, as proprietor, and R. J. Knoll, as manager, both of whom have arranged an elaborate display of flowers for exhibit to the crowds expected to view the new establishment.

Grillbortzer's also extends an invitation to the public to inspect its greenhouses in Alexandria. The company, in business for 30 years, possesses 6 acres of flowers and plants under a quarter million feet of glass. Besides its Washington store, the company operates an establishment in Alexandria and a fleet of motor delivery trucks for its expanding business. The firm specializes principally in many varieties of roses and also orchids.

OUTSTANDING FEATURES of the

Sunday Post TABLOID MAGAZINE

For Sunday, Oct. 13th

In addition to the work of some of America's best known authors this comprehensive magazine presents many exclusive stories of local interest by staff writers. Among articles of unusual appeal in this week's issue will be the following:

Will Illustrious Shades Seek Eden?

When President Hoover dedicates the monument commemorating the complete canalization of the Ohio River, George Washington and George Rogers Clark should be very near in spirit. Nellie R. Thomas tells why in this interesting and informative article.

Matching Wits With Auto Thieves

Edward Francis Clark relates the inside story of the Auto Squad of the Metropolitan Police Department and outlines the enviable record it has made in car recovery and others of its manifold duties.

The New Battleground of the South

An enlightening revelation of the conditions leading up to the critical situation existing today at Gastonia, N. C., by Austin T. Rogers, who was on the ground in the early days of the strife between labor and the mill owners, with its threatening tinge of red communism.

The "Father of the Pure Food Law"

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, long a dominant figure wherever our food supply is concerned, approaches his 85th birthday still in harness. E. W. Davidson relates the story of this sturdy Hoosier and his accomplishments.

A Portia Whose Dreams Came True

An inspiring recital of the major events in the career of a woman attorney of Washington who established the first law school for her sex in the United States and has subsequently played a notable part in the successful careers of many outstanding feminine figures. By Vylla Poe Wilson.

Why We Have a "Columbus Day

R. B. David traces the history of the discoverer of America and his adventures in a semi-humorous vein that is as diverting as it is instructive.

Master Manhunters of the North

Joseph Gollomb, in "The Ratskin Cap," contributes another of his gripping crime tales of the Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted operating on the fringe of the Arctic.

THE FOOLISH VIRGIN

by Kathleen Norris is concluded in this issue and "ANCESTOR JORICO," a never before published novel by WILLIAM J. LOCKE, begins in the main news section, to be continued thereafter in the Sunday Tabloid Magazine.

ART—A full page of news and gossip of the painters, sculptors and their patrons by Ada Rainey.

BOOKS—A full page of interesting reviews, forecasts and news of the authors and publishers.

UNCLE SAM AND THE HOME MAKER—A page of useful information to the housewife and home builder.

WILLIAM LYON PHELPS on POLITICAL HISTORY—HELEN AND WARREN—LITTLE STORIES OF GREAT EVENTS—many other regular features and additional catchy titles, including: "HURRAH FOR THE AMERICAN HUSBAND," by Dolores Del Rio; "LADIES AND GENTLEMEN," by Joe Humphreys, famous fight announcer; "WHITE LIES IN THE SOUTH SEAS" and "OUR SUPERSTITIOUS CELEBRITIES."

"Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory . . ."

. . . Count Pulaski

A courageous warrior, a generous friend and with fealty to none, a compatriot whose heroism we cherish on the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of his death.

SHORTS ARE CAUGHT BY BROAD ADVANCE

Favorable Unfilled Orders of United States Steel Start Many Increases.

BROKERS' LOANS SLUMP

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—An unexpectedly favorable unfilled tonnage report by United States Steel caught shorts napping and precipitated a broad advance in today's session of the stock market. A repetition of yesterday's 5 per cent call money rate, and over-optimistic forecasts regarding the weekly Federal Reserve brokerage loan figures, aided the advance. The volume of trading picked up considerably from the sluggish turnover yesterday, transactions totaling 3,999,730 shares.

The brokerage loan compilation was a decided disappointment, when it appeared after the close. Although loans declined $91,000,000, it was an amazingly small retraction for a week in which stocks experienced the most precipitous break of the year, as measured by most price averages and indices. The more conservative estimates had placed the decline at $1,000,000,000, while the highly optimistic indicated a drop of as much as $300,000,000.

This retraction compares with an increase last week of $192,000,000, and made but a small dent on the increase of the past six weeks totaling $809,000,000. It was, however, the most substantial drop since the troublous market times of last May, loans having risen almost steadily since early June. The figures showed that corporations and individuals actually increased their loans by $34,000,000, but New York banks withdrew $98,000,000 and out-of-town banks $27,000,000.

The most favorable aspect of the Federal Reserve reports was the indication that banks were rapidly repaying loans and markedly strengthening the reserve position. Borrowings of the New York banks were reduced to $30,000,000, as compared with $63,000,000 a week ago, and $286,000,000 a year ago. The reserve ratio of the New York Reserve Bank increased from 81 to 85.3 per cent, compared to 65.8 a year ago, and of the entire reserve system, from 72.7 to 74.4, as against 67.6 a year ago. At the same time, the reserve system continued to add moderately to its open market purchases of acceptances.

Curb Review

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Curb market stocks were well bought today, as uneasiness over the brokers' loan figures, to be published after the close, gave way to a fairly confident feeling in professional quarters that the compilation would be highly pleasing. The public was wary, however, and trading was in light volume. There was still a considerable tendency to take profits on bulges.

Leading utilities made good headway, American Gas & Electric, Electric Bond & Share and Electric Investors selling up several points, while American Superpower, Allied Power & Light, United Light & Power A and Associated Gas & Electric were firm. Cities Service was again one of the conspicuous strong spots, continuing its long gradual climb into new high ground in active trading.

Insull Utility Investment sagged for a time, but rallied later. Commonwealth & Southern, which has been one of the most active issues on this market since the stock was issued last summer, was transferred to the "Big Board."

New York Central rights were admitted to unlisted trading privileges and heavily dealt in at 9 and fractionally higher. Industrials were generally strong, such issues as Aluminum Co., Deere, Hires, Silica Gel and Crocker Wheeler selling substantially higher.

TIME MONEY HELPS BOND MARKET AGAIN

Nearly All Issues Show Strength When Rate Dips Slightly.

MANY RAILS MAKE GAINS

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The bond market had further assistance today from time money, which dipped to 8¼ to 8½ for 30-day loans and to 8¼ to 8½ for the longer dates. The rate yesterday was 8½ per cent flat for all maturities.

With the favorable trend as a stimulant to sentiment, the low coupon rails again developed moderate strength. Most of the industrials were firm and a few high-grade utilities moved up a point or more. United States Government issues and foreign bonds also improved.

American Telephone 4½s and International Telephone 4½s made one of their rapid advances, the former soaring 7 points and the latter 8½. Turnover in the American company's debenture was about $3,300,000, par value.

Convertibles Show Rises.

Atchison convertible 4½s had a net gain of 2¾, while American I. G. Chemical 5½s made a maximum rise of 1¾, later reacting to finish with a net rise of ½. Remington Rand 5½s, with warrants, were strong in the stock feature section, mounting 11. The Erie convertibles also were strong.

Among the rails, gains of ½ to more than 2 points appeared in Atlanta & Birmingham 4s, Baltimore & Ohio first 5s, Atlantic Coast Line first 4s, Canadian Pacific 5s, Central Pacific guaranteed 5s, Rock Island 4½s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Denver & Rio Grande general 5s and refunding 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s and general 4s, Pennsylvania general 5s, St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s, Southern Railway general 6s, Union Pacific first 4s and Western Pacific first 5s.

Seaboard Issues Gain.

Noteworthy strength and activity developed in the Seaboard Air Line and Seaboard all Florida loans, which soared 1 to 3¼ points. St. Paul adjustment income 5s rose 1⅝ to 76⅛, the best quotation in some time.

Utilities gaining a point or more on the day included American Water Works 6s, Federal Light & Traction 5s and Ohio Public Service 7½s. Utah Power & Light 5s were up ¾.

P. Lorillard debenture 7s led the industrials with a 3½ point rise. Armour & Co. 5½s held most of a 1 point gain. Steels were firm, while Republic Brass 6s moved up nearly a point.

The City of Baltimore sold a $4,037,000 issue of 4s, divided into three loans and maturing 1938 to 1948, at $96.83, a 4.41 per cent basis.

LOANS OF BROKERS SLUMP $91,000,000

First Recession in Weeks Is in Line With General Expectations.

OTHER DATA REVEALED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

In line with a general prediction in financial circles for the last few weeks, brokers' loans made their first recession in weeks yesterday, the report of the Federal Reserve Board showing a total of $6,713,000,000, a decline of $91,000,000 from the new high of $6,804,000,000 was run up.

Decreases were shown in two divisions and the sole increase revealed was in loans for account of others, totaling $3,941,000,000, a gain of $34,000,000 over the previous week. Loans for own account aggregated $973,000,000, a decrease of $98,000,000 under the week prior, and loans for account of out-of-town banks, amounting to $1,799,000,000, were $27,000,000 less than those of the week before. With the payments for the new investment trusts issues completed to a large extent, the reaction in loans anticipated was realized.

The board's consolidated statement of Federal Reserve Banks on October 9 announced decreases for the week of $73,300,000 in holdings of discounted bills and of $5,000,000 in Government securities, and a gain of $10,300,000 in bills bought in open market.

Member Bank Deposits Dip.

Member bank reserve deposits declined $59,900,000 and Government deposits $21,900,000, while cash reserves increased $20,900,000 and Federal Reserve note circulation, $9,100,000. Total bills and securities were $68,300,000 below the amount reported a week ago.

Holdings of discounted bills receded $27,200,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, $21,200,000 at St. Louis, $20,600,000 at New York and $7,100,000 at Atlanta, and gained $12,100,000 at Cleveland. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market increased $10,300,000, while holdings of United States Treasury notes decreased $3,500,000 and of Treasury certificates $1,500,000.

Principal changes in Federal Reserve note circulation for the week included increases of $3,400,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, $3,100,000 each at New York and St. Louis, and $2,400,000 at Cleveland; and declines of $3,500,000 at Philadelphia and $2,400,000 at Chicago.

Lower Interest Aids Loans.

Reduced interest on small loans put into effect one year ago by Household Finance Corporation stimulated business remarkably, according to a report by the company to Lee, Higginson & Co., bankers. In twelve months company loans increased from $18,000,000 to $29,000,000. On the basis of the latter figure, savings to borrowers would be approximately $3,000,000 in the coming year.

This rate reduction, voluntarily granted by the company, cut the cost of loans to small borrowers almost one-third but the increased volume of business justified the declaration of an extra dividend of 10 cents a share on participating preference stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share. Nothing is foreseen at present, according to officials of the company, to indicate that an extra quarterly dividend on all stock can not be maintained.

L. C. Harbison, president, in his review of the year, pointed out that when the rate cut went into effect, Household had 68 offices in 11 States with 114,000 accounts on its books. Now a year later, due to the purchase of a chain of offices, new financing and stimulation of business due to the lower rate, it has 116 offices in 12 States and 225,000 accounts on its books. Net assets on June 20, 1928, were $17,249,467 or $123.21 on 140,000 shares. On June 30, 1929, they were $22,053,961 or $132.29 on 180,000 shares.

Capital Exchange Volume Rises.

After Wednesday's slump, business on the Washington Stock Exchange showed a most favorable reaction yesterday, particularly in the bond division where a total sales volume of $23,000 was listed, an advance of $17,500 over the preceding day's transactions. Stock volume also registered considerable improvement, the turnover of 403 shares bettering the previous session by 286.

The session was characterized by three large stock sales in Capital Traction, Mergenthaler Linotype and Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred, the latter a small-priced issue. One hundred and ten shares of Capital Traction sold at 85, point loss; 104 of Mergenthaler at fractional rises from 102⅞ and 130 of Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred at 7⅜, last sale price.

Three bank stocks were out, District National selling to the extent of 30 shares at 227 and 225; ten shares of Federal-American at 320 and six of National Bank of Washington at 305. Heaviest bond sales were in Capital Traction 5s, $5,000 changing hands at point and fractional gains over 88⅛. The exchange will close tomorrow on account of the Columbus Day Holiday.

Aircraft-Auto Contact Urged.

Closer contact between the aviation industry and the large automobile manufacturers would go a long way toward solving the present problem of the overproduction of aircraft, according to Gage P. Wright, president of the Business Economic Digest.

In the current issue of that publication Wright points out that the aviation industry is entering a crucial period in which modern management practices are highly essential if the industry is to continue its progress.

According to the weekly estimate of bituminous coal production, made by the National Coal Association, the output of soft coal in the United States during the week ended October 5 amounted to about 11,200,000 net tons, a decline of about a quarter of a million tons from the total for the preceding week.

The report of the United States Bureau of Mines shows that the tonnage of soft coal mined during the week ended September 21 was 10,867,000 net tons, and during the week ended September 28, 11,451,000 net tons.

Resolutions of Respect Voted.

Resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Charles J. Bell, chairman of the board of the American Security & Trust Co., have been voted by Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking. Mr. Bell having been a great friend and the first honorary member of the chapter. The chapter also has ordered similar resolutions honoring the late Roy L. Neuhauser, former president of R. L. Neuhauser & Co., investment brokers and a past president of the chapter. Resolutions of respect to the late Mr. Bell also have been passed by the board of the Washington Loan & Trust Co.

Enrollments in the courses in bank training of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, now exceed 400. The new course in public speaking has 26 students, and its success is assured. Plans for the chapter's Halloween dance, of which the women's committee is in charge, are now in course of preparation.

President A. E. Heuze, of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, is confined to his home with illness.

Treasurer Edson B. Olds, of the Union Trust Co., is on vacation.

Manager Harry L. Selby, of the Farmers & Mechanics Branch of Riggs National Bank, is on a motor trip in North Carolina.

An interesting program for the present administrative year, including discussions of plans for safeguarding receiving tellers, was formulated last night by the auditors' section of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at a dinner meeting at the National Press Club. Twelve banks were represented at the session.

40,000 TO SEE THIRD GAME AT PHILADELPHIA TODAY

Quaker City Gives Macks Ovation

Mob Receives Team at Station With Big Welcome.

Connie Tries to Give Admirers the Slip, But Fails.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Philadelphia loosened its vocal cords today and poured forth upon Connie Mack and his great team of young ball players all the noise and enthusiasm that can be stored up waiting fifteen years for a champion.

Into a city that throbbed with an undercurrent of joy and excitement, tempered on the surface with calm satisfaction, the ancient McGillicuddy led his huskies this afternoon. They came fresh from the world series battlefield in Chicago, full of pepper, dash and optimism, eager to announce the Cubs as soundly here as they did in the first two games in the Midwest.

A happy, boisterous crowd mobbed the station as the special train clanged into the yards. They roared and rushed for Jimmy Dykes, the plump, smiling third baseman, as he popped his head first from the players' car to catch the lay of the land. They cheered Jimmy Foxx, young first baseman, who has clouted two home runs and a flock of lesser base hits so far; Al Simmons, the socking left fielder; Mickey Cochrane, Mule Haas, Max Bishop, Lefty Grove, Earnshaw and all the rest.

Ehmke Gets Great Reception.

Then they caught sight of the blond head of lanky Howard Ehmke, Connie's surprise package of the series, the veteran who sank the Cubs and experts alike by striking out thirteen of the enemy on the opening day. The roar that greeted Howard rattled the eardrums of a couple of hundred fans jammed in the covered pass that led into the station.

In all the excitement every one looked for Connie Mack, the tall, lean, gray-haired leader. He was not with the players nor was he in any of the cars directly ahead of the Athletics' carriages.

It seemed as if the team Connie spent fifteen years to build into championship caliber was coming home without the 67-year-old veteran sharing in the triumph. For a few minutes it seemed a most definite rebuke to the fickleness of baseball's fandom.

Fifteen years ago Connie shattered probably the greatest team in baseball history, the old White Elephants, because of their lack of appeal to some of the selfsame fans now crowding to greet his new warriors. That team won four American League pennants in five years behind the great hurling of Chief Bender, Jack Coombs and Eddie Plank. It boasted the first $100,000 infield in Homerun Baker, Stuffy McInnis, Eddie Collins and Jack Barry. The chilliness of fandom forced the scattering of that great ball club.

Cubs, Seeking Rest, Find Little.

Connie watched the boisterous reception for the youthful team that in one year has stirred up more enthusiasm in the Quaker City than the old champions created in their entire careers. Then he tried to sneak unnoticed from the front of the train. He was half away before the crowd spotted him. He smiled at them, raised his hat and hurried away.

The Cubs, without a word to say, slipped into town with scarcely 200 fans forming a reception committee. Silently they went to their hotel to rest. There was little rest, however, in any hotel. Every hostelry in the city was jammed to capacity, the visitors and hosts alike intent on talking and thinking baseball.

COURT OPEN TO TEAMS.

The basket ball floor of the Washington Boys Club is available to any team desiring to start early practice. Arrangements for practice dates may be had by getting in touch with Mr. Carter, who will be at the club between 6 and 9:30 p. m.

PEGLER FINDS FEW FANS IN LINE

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—One sees much romantic literature in the papers about the Spartan devotion of the faithful bleacherite who sits on an orange crate outside the wall of a ball park for 48 hours before the ticket sale begins, but your correspondent has just returned from the Athletics' ball park, and he will state that the faithful bleacherites who are sitting on the crates out there are as frowsy a gang of bums as ever crowded the bullpen of a hold-over jail.

They sit in a line about half a block long with a detail of police, under a captain, to keep them in order, bundled in raveling sweaters and crumby blankets, smoking cigarettes and strewing the butts and the rinds of their sandwich meals at their feet, and the types are reminiscent of the unwashed, unemployed and unemployable guests who used to infest that den of smells, despondency and wretchedness, Hogan's flop, the nickel-a-night refuge of the lowdown bum in Chicago.

Dirty, scrubby, and gay with the defiant devil-may-careness of the abandoned bum, they seem to have crawled out of the flops of Philadelphia's rather extensive region of hobo lodging houses, hock-shops and second-hand shoe stores, and they are holding their places out of no devotion to Connie Mack or the heroic ball players, but to sell them when the ticket windows pop open tomorrow.

Boys Have Grandiose Ideas.

In fact, it is my notion that if the ticket windows were to snap open this evening about 150 of the 200-odd loafers in the line would have to fall out again, not having the price of $1 seats. The boys up toward the head-end of the line have rather grandiose ideas of the value of their places, as they are asking $25 just now, with another night of waiting remaining, which probably means that they will want $30 by morning. Of course, they will not get $30, or even $25, but no doubt there are 200 patrons without reserved seats who will be willing to pay as much as $10 or $15 for places so far advanced as to assure them $1 admissions to the outfield seats when the sale begins.

The papers today printed a picture of a faithful lady bleacherite sitting in a rocking chair among the faithful gentlemen bleacherites but knowing several photographers myself, I suspect that the boys hustled a rocking chair out of the parlor of one of the shabby houses which line the other side of the street for a nominal rental and got one of the neighborhood girls to sit for her photograph in return for the momentary fame which they were in a position to give her. Perhaps they promised to tell Zukor about her and get her in the movies as they often do. At any rate there was no faithful lady bleacherite in line when I was there.

Carpenters At Work On Bleachers.

On the Yonder side of the other street abutting the bleachers, the street where the roofs of a rundown row of dingy brick dwellings overlook the wall and the playing field, carpenters were at work on quite ambitous emergency bleachers this evening under the direction of the lessees or proprietors, preparing for a rush of business tomorrow. Lumber wagons had dropped piles of beams and planks along the curb and the carpenters were building false roofs of heavy lumber and on them tiers of bleacher seats, while stout, blowsy ladies of the type who sell hot dogs at bathing beaches harried them to get the job done before morning.

The honest householders in that row have turned many a dollar this season selling space on the roofs to customers content with sniped views of the ball games but when the world series approached there was some dispute as to whether the walls of the old houses would support the weight of formal bleachers with full loads of customers. It seems to have been decided that the walls are strong enough for this and by tomorrow afternoon the customers will know whether the engineers were right or wrong.

The baseball players are intensely interested in the financial statistics of the world series and on the train from Chicago to Philadelphia Mr. Connie Mack's well-mannered young men perused the boxoffice reports quite as earnestly as they studied box scores. Young Mr. Simmons, a Polish boy from Milwaukee, who went to work at

Series Scene Shifts to Philly

Walberg and Root Likely Choices for Today's Game.

Mack May Surprise and Name Quinn for Mound.

when he sent Lefty Grove to the mound in the crucial stage with such salutary effect.

Much more will depend upon the Cubs' pitching nominee. A defeat for Chicago today would virtually seal their ultimate unhappy fate in the series for no team in the history of the fall classic which extends back to 1903 has turned about to win out after losing the first three games.

Root and his fast-breaking curves demonstrated that he could master the Macks for at least seven innings on Tuesday when he held them to three hits, actually outpitching the hero of the battle, Howard Ehmke, for that period. But Guy Bush is also a leading possibility off his relief performance on Tuesday when he was in good form despite three hits allowed in the last two innings.

In the background for the Cubs are the left-handed Art Nehf, hero of many a world series victory for the Giants; Sheriff Blake, a mainstay during the pennant race, and Mike Cvengros, diminuative southpaw who saw world series action with the Pirates in 1927.

Cubs Must Deal With Mack.

It is this man Mack, 66-year-old tactician of the Athletics, with whom Cubs have to reckon in the greatest measure, however. It is his known facility for staking his team to the psychological advantage at the outset and at critical occasions during the battle that has been a salient figure in the two triumphs of the Macks.

To enumerate the "smart" moves of Connie Mack in the first two games of the series would require much time and space if you were to delve into the intricacies of the game as Mack plays it from his restless seat on the bench, but the wily Moses of the Mackmen can ever be depended upon to press every apparent advantage and others that are apparent only to him and his trusted confederates.

His plan of defense in the first two games from a pitching standpoint was obvious, however. Ehmke, his mere presence on the mound a surprise in itself, fed the Cubs those slow, tantalizing curves in the opening game, and in the Wednesday contest Mack adopted an entirely different method of play.

He sent in George Earnshaw and Lefty Grove against the Cubs, who had been figuratively breaking their backs against the slow balls of Ehmke and who were not adjusted to the sort of speed that the two big aces of the Athletics had in store. The result was conclusive, and thirteen more strike-outs were added to the thirteen strike-outs of Ehmke and another triumph was inscribed beside the name of Connie Mack in baseball's scroll of managerial heroes.

Mack Mixes His Pitching.

With slow balls on Tuesday and burning speed on Wednesday Mack can be expected to devise something new for the benumbing of the Cubs' attack and it is not too far fetched to imagine that old Jack Quinn and his long-lived spitball might be sent to the firing line just by way of variation.

The last two world series' history does not hold out encouraging prospects for Chicago supporters who bank on the ability of the vaunted hitters of the Cubs' line-up to awaken. Bottomley, Frisch, Hafey and Douthit were extremely docile throughout the 1928 classic and in 1927 the Pirate followers waited in vain for the Waners, Traynor and Grantham to maintain their slugging reputation.

Hornsby and Cuyler have failed dismally and Stephenson alope of the sluggers of the team which also includes Hack Wilson has justified his reputation as a hard and consistent hitter. But the left-field wall at Shibe Park is more conducive to home runs than the same territory in Chicago and the eight right-handed hitters of the Cubs may find consolation in that, not forgetting also that Simmons and Foxx and Bing Miller and Jimmy Dykes are also right-handed.

Cubs Were Simply Outclassed.

There are few "breaks" upon which to blame the defeat of the Cubs in the first two games. They were simply outclassed, although it still was evident that they are a hustling aggregation with no trace of hopelessness in their play. But it is extremely doubtful if they can outslug the Athletics at their best and it is also doubted that they have the same fine distribution of power in their batting order which the Athletics boast. Their fielding thus far also has failed to compare with the Mackmen.

The stage for victory for the Cubs must be set first by a well-pitched game from either Bush or Root today. In that eventuality lies the Cubs' chief hope, dim though it may be, for prolonging the series and ultimate victory.

PALACE WANTS GAME.

The Palace Football Team, 190-pound class, is seeking a game for Sunday and other days. Call Manager Monk Pell, at Franklin 8987-J, between 5:30 and 6 p. m. The Palace players are requested to report for practice at Sixth and N streets southwest at 7 o'clock.

Cloudy Day Forecast By Weather Bureau

Philadelphia, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The expert opinion of George Bliss, forecaster for the Weather Bureau, is that Lefty Grove will do the hurling for the Athletics tomorrow against the Chicago Cubs in the third game of the world series.

Bliss tinkered with his rain makers, cloud catchers and sun producers atop the Federal Building today and finally dragged out a nice cloudy day to be polished up for use tomorrow He had no rain on tap and no higher temperatures than 55 to 57 degrees, but there are a few loose breezes from the north and northeast that can't be kept in stock much longer.

"Tomorrow," he announced finally, "will be a great day for smokeball. The man who can throw the fastest will be in there; and that, as everyone knows, means Lefty Grove."

Mitchell and Mangan Win at Wardman Nets

Dooley Mitchell and Tom Mangan advanced to the semifinal round of the Wardman Park tennis championship tournament yesterday by defeating Bud Markey and Bernard Welsh, respectively. Mitchell took things easy in the second set and had to go an extra session to win, 6—1, 2—6, 6—1. Mangan won in straight sets, 6—2, 6—0.

Today, Considine and Mangan will clash in a semifinal match which is likely to attract the attention of all District tennis fans. They will start play at 3:30 o'clock. Maurice O'Neill will meet Mitchell in the other semifinal tomorrow. The final match is scheduled Sunday.

Corinne Frazier and Frances Krucoff are to oppose each other in the lone women's semifinal match scheduled today. They will play at 2 o'clock. The final in the women's division is slated for tomorrow.

N. Y. U. Working Hard For Fordham Contest

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Oct. 10.—Head Coach Chick Meehan worked his New York University football players hard again yesterday afternoon in order to prepare for the gridiron battle this weekend with Fordham University at the Polo Grounds.

The entire squad is in A1 shape despite the scrimmaging they have been put through this week. The going has been hard for the Violet athletes and Coach Meehan does not intend to let up on the drive. Scrimmages and hard workouts have been on the program all week. Not once since Monday have the violet-shirted gridders been permitted to ease along The [illegible] eleven worked much better yesterday against the Fordham formations and displayed an improvement over previous performances.

Ehmke Scouted Cubs In August, He Admits

As exclusively set forth by Frank H. Young, in The Post on Wednesday morning immediately after Howard Ehmke had made his record pitching performance against the Cubs in the world series, the Athletic pitcher last night, in Philadelphia, let it generally be known among the newspaper men that he had scouted the Cubs last August in planning a pitching repertoire that would puzzle the Chicago hitters.

Ehmke watched the Cubs in action against the Phillies last August and not only made mental observations, but also made record of the batting weaknesses of the respective Cub sluggers in a note book he provided for that purpose.

Last night Ehmke made the following statement relative to his preparations for the series games against the Cubs:

"We had that game won before I ever stepped into the box," he said. "I pitched exactly as I had planned last August and the Cubs never had a chance. I nearly wore out my poor brain out there at the Phillies' park getting up this plan to beat the Cubs. But give Connie Mack the greatest credit. He sent me in the game."

Mack Junior Finds Solution to Problem

Philadelphia, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Connie Mack may be sitting pretty with his Athletics and a two game lead in the world series, but his son is in a terrible fix.

Connie Mack, jr., a tall slender youth, is the left regular end on the Germantown Academy Football Team. Tomorrow his eleven plays Haverford School. And yet tomorrow, too, his father will lead the A's into the third game of the world series, with the Chicago Cubs.

Young Mack is 17, a finely-muscled youngster, and he knows his duty to his schoolmates. Then again there's the duty he owes his dad to be in there rooting for another Athletic triumph. He certainly doesn't want to miss his father's great moment.

Compromises have been necessary on both sides, but young McGillicuddy thinks he has the solution.

"I can see the game start at Shibe Park at 1:30 and stay for five innings," he said. "Then I can hustle over and get in there at end for Germantown."

Earnshaw Given Official Credit for Second Game

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 10.—The intricacies of baseball scoring was demonstrated yesterday with the crediting of the Athletics' victory in the second game of the series in Chicago to George Earnshaw, Connie Mack's starting pitcher, despite the fact that Earnshaw was knocked from the box in the fifth inning.

The decision as to whether Earnshaw, or Grove who relieved him in the fifth inning, was to receive credit for the game was at the discretion of James Cruisinberry, of Chicago, the official scorer, despite specific American and National League rules of scoring.

American League rules provide that a starting pitcher must work four full innings before receiving credit for a game while National League rules specify that he must pitch five innings.

However, in the case of a pitcher leaving the game before the minimum innings, it still may be arbitrary with the official scorer according to the rules as to whether or not he should receive credit for a victory if his team wins. If in the opinion o fthe official scorer the starting pitcher had a commanding lead when withdrawn he still could be credited with the victory. The official scorer deemed that the 6 to 3 lead of the Athletics when Earnshaw left the game was a commanding lead. Earnshaw's name in the box score as the winning pitcher caused widespread comment among fans here and in Chicago.

Wightman Net Team Leaves for England

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—England's Wightman tennis team, which lost the international trophy to America's feminine stars last August, sailed for home today after an exhibition tour that extended as far as the Pacific Coast.

Mrs. B. C. Covell, doubles star whose husband was in charge of the team as manager, expressed the opinion that Helen Wills, while a remarkable player, does not measure up to the great French girl, Suzanne Lenglen, now a professional, in skill and ability.

Notre Dame Entrains Without Knute Rockne

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football mentor, was not with his squad of 35 men when they left for Baltimore today to meet the Navy Saturday. Tom Lieb, assistant coach, was in charge of the team, due to illness of Rockne.

The head coach has not been well recently and this week his condition has been aggravated by sciatica rheumatism. At the last moment Rockne's physician advised him not to make the trip.

Kansas City Trounces Rochester Club, 9 to 1

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Five Rochester pitchers felt the fury of the Kansas City attack today as the American Association champions won the seventh game of the little world series, 9 to 1. The victory gave Kansas City an advantage of four games to three.

A five-run attack in the opening inning, which received aid in the way of three Rochester errors, gave the Blues an edge, which the International champions were never able to overcome. Before the end four more Red Wing hurlers followed Berly to the mount, but they, too, were ineffective, the Blues scoring two runs in the fourth and one in each of the fifth and eighth innings.

Nelson, who started for Kansas City, faltered just long enough in the fourth to give Rochester one run. He was relieved in the sixth by "Pea Ridge" Day, but he was just as much of a puzzle to the New York team.

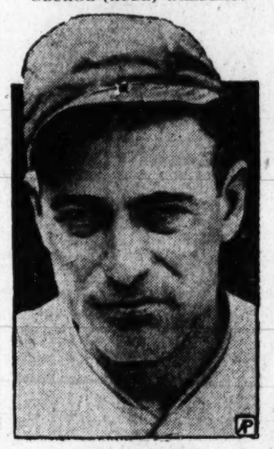
WORLD SERIES FEVER GRIPS CITY AS CUBS, A'S RESUME BATTLES

GEORGE (RUBE) WALBERG.



CHARLEY ROOT.

Foxx and His Retinue Seek Third Victory in Own Park.

Situation Not Inspiring One to Chicago Ball Club.

By DICK WILLIAMS.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Stately Philadelphia owed a divided allegiance today. Premier Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, was here. So was Premier Jimmy Foxx, of the American League batsmen.

Prior to the arrival of Premier Foxx, Premier MacDonald had been given much attention. Gurgling women mobbed the lobby of the Bellevue-Stratford to look upon him, driving early world series arrivals to seek safety in the roof garden.

Staid and dignified men, men less dignified and men less staid, crowded over the sidewalks and hailed the visiting statesmen. Newsboys cried his name in the streets. Photographers tugged and pulled and sprinted after him.

Then Premier Foxx and his retinue, the Philadelphia Athletics, came to town. Premier MacDonald, a canny man, took up his secretaries, his portfolios, his speches and went away, leaving the surging city to the apple-cheeked Maryland farmer boy.

Not since 1915 had Philadelphia felt the grip of the world's championship series fever and she showed it a bit today around the collar band. Men talked in rather excited tones about the feat of the home boys in winning two consecutive ball games at Chicago. Forty thousand were happy, a hundred thousand sad, since old Shibe Park, for all its turreted front, can hold but 40,000 souls, when stretched to its utmost capacity.

Every Reserved Seat Is Sold Out.

Every reserved seat is sold out, and the standing room, together with the bleachers, goes on sale at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. Because it has been ruled that the playing field no longer can be curtailed for extra stands, the Shibes have had much difficulty in expanding the old park, but some 6,000 seats and standing spaces have been worked out. There is much grumbling here, especially since the surprising showing of the Athletics in the Chicago sector.

They were a strangely divergent pair of ball clubs, these two arriving in Philadelphia today.

Certainly no group ever had their vertebrae more firmly implanted against the wall than the Chicago Cubs. Two games they played in their native heath, and two games they lost, the second more ignominiously than the first. Twice they tried their skill and power against the mummery of Connie's gifted pitchers, and twice they failed, even before friendly eyes.

Now they have come into alien territory, a territory awakened to a show of enthusiasm by the unexpected success of what actually isn't an imposing or inspiring ball club. They must do here or die here. They must fight their way out from the wall. They must relieve the pressure on the backbone and do it soon. One more game lost, and the cause will have attained a futility almost beyond the reach of miracles.

Hope and Charity Are There.

The truth of the matter is that two mediocre ball clubs are playing this series, one with Hope and Charity doing the pitching and catching, the other with Imagination and Deception in the battery jobs. Old Slobball Pitcher Hope is floating them in for the amazingly incapable Cubs, breathing a bit of a prayer on everything he tosses at the waiting batsman. Behind the plate crouches Charity, soliciting Fate for one little chance to subdue an enemy surprised by its own potency.

It took imagination to win that first game for Connie Mack, so imagination was the proper pitcher. Howard Ehmke did the physical work, and right well he did it, too. But old imagination, unwrapped from the camphor and cotton in which he had rested since the lively ball came to drive him from the spotlight, won the ball game. So, too, did deception aid imagination in the second game, since Manager Mack elected to undo the Cubs with the blazing speed of

Carey, Bancroft Get Release From Robins

New York, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Official announcement of the unconditional release of Max Carey and Dave Bancroft by Manager Wilbert Robinson, of the Brooklyn Robins, was made today at the office of the club.

Carey, veteran outfielder, had been with Brooklyn since 1926 when he was acquired from Pittsburgh. Of late he had been used chiefly in an advisory capacity and as coach.

Bancroft, once one of the game's outstanding shortstops, came to the Robins in 1928 from Boston, where he had managed the Braves for five years.

231 Extra Usherettes Work at Mack's Park

Philadelphia, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Femininity will come officially into its own tomorrow at the opening of the third game of the world's series between the Cubs and Athletics at Shibe Park. The A's have engaged 231 extra "usherettes" to help handle the women's vote.

Normally, 15 girl ushers are on duty at the American League ball park and 25 men. Tomorrow, however, is ladies' day among the ushers at least for the male contingent has bene increased only to 106.

Furthermore, married women will be in the majority among the ticket scanners.

"We feel that married women are most entitled to the $5 daily wage the job pays," say officials at the park.

International Yacht Races Draw 24 Entries

New Orleans, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Twenty-four entries from the United States and foreign countries had sails set for the annual world's championship races of the International Star Class Yachting Association beginning today on Lake Pontchartrain.

Skippers and crews, slightly disappointed by the lack of winds for the unofficial tuning-up race earlier in the week, were more optimistic today, with a strong breeze prevailing over the course leading from a half mile out from the club to the 10-mile point out on the lake.

SOUL OF HONOR IS WINNER IN FEATURE AT LAUREL

Audley Farm Star Beats Mei Foo

Donnay Beats Kopeck in Secondary; Fator Rides Winner.

The Freshman Victor in Sixth; Bounding Deep Scores.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Md., Oct. 10.—Laurel offered as attractions for its patrons this afternoon the Crisfield Handicap and the Severn Purse and both races brought together classy fields. The Crisfield was a dash of one mile and a sixteenth and the Severn, a sprint affair, brought together some of the speediest horses on the grounds. They were programmed as the fourth and fifth events.

Donnay ran one of his good races in the Severn when he came from last place to win in a driving finish from Kopeck, which he beat out a head. There were seven starters in the Severn and Donnay was favorite. In the early stages, Mud went to the front and showed the way to the half mile pole where he had a lead of a length over Stream Line. Kopeck and Silverdale followed heads apart. Donnay was last and Fator was sitting still. Rounding the far turn Donnay began moving up on the outside and straightened out for the final run was in a contending position. Fator was pulling one of his famous finishes and Donnay was answering his call in bold fashion. Kopeck had passed Mud and was in front. At the sixteenth pole it looked as if he would win, but Donnay, charging with determined courage, wore him down to get in the final strides. The first three were heads apart.

Stream Line Finishes Fourth.

Stream Line was fourth, beaten a length and a half for the place. Clean Play showed a dull effort. Fields had him down on the inside and was in close quarters until making the turn for home where he went wide and at the finish he was easing his mount up.

The Audley Farm withdrew Princess Tina in the Crisfield Handicap and depended on Soul of Honor to win. The judgment proved correct. Fields was astride Soul of Honor and he rode the colt in a very confident manner. In the early running Mei Foo went to the front and in the run down the back stretch drew away into a lead of two lengths. Fields, rating in second place, had Soul of Honor in hand and not until rounding the far turn did he call on his mount. When he did he moved up next the inside rail and at the top of the stretch was on even terms with Mei Foo. He was a neck in front at the furlong pole and for the remainder of the trip held this advantage. William T. held Martinique in the stretch drive and beat the latter a length for third place. Martinique ran one of his dull races. He was kicked by Dunmore while at the barrier and at no part of the running did he display a serious effort.

It is surprising the number of close finishes that come with the running of a majority of the 2-year-old races at Laurel. The opening event this afternoon furnished another stirring contest and nose finish when Iago just lasted long enough to beat the Harry Payne Whitney entry Frumper. It was a mighty tight fight and the winner was not known until the official placing was flashed. Iago, breaking rapidly, was the one to make the pace.

Iago Sets a Fast Pace.

Taking the lead in the first 100 yards, Iago set a fast pace. Frumper, on the other hand, was slow to get going and trailed along in the middle of the bunch. Entering the home stretch, Iago made a wide turn, while Workman, hugging the rail with Frumper, saved much ground. The latter charged on the leader in bold fashion going to the furlong pole and the pair hooked up. It was a desperate drive from there to the finishing mark and Iago, hanging on with determination, held his advantage to the end. Six lengths back of the leaders finished Eatonardo, who beat Guide Right two lengths for the show money. Crossbones, a full brother to Neddie, made his first appearance with the colors up in this race. A big colt with a bold way of going, Crossbones ran a bit green and probably needs education. He raced on the outside with the leaders until the last furlong, when he tired.

Fantad was winner of the second race when he came from behind to wear down Wacket in the stretch run and to win going away at the end by a length. In the early running Wacket went to the front and in the run down the backstretch carried Zeve's Gold also along at a rapid pace. Fantad was on the outside and closing up. Rounding the far turn Fantad moved up and joining issue with Wacket the pair raced like a team into the home stretch. Wacket began to tire and Fantad finishing full of courage, shook Wacket off in the last hundred yards. Zeve's Gold was third, a length and a half back and a length in front of Play Ball. The latter began in his usual slow manner and was last passing the half mile post. From there to the end he gained steadily and at the finish was closing very strong.

Bradley Stable Wins Race.

The E. R. Bradley stable scored its first victory at the meeting when Be With Us galloped home an easy winner in the third race. This was a dash of one mile and 70 yards in which Be With Us carried top weight and was favorite in the wagering. Breaking in front when the start came Be With Us made all of his own pace and in the run around he first turn opened up a lead of a length and a half. Baigere took him under slight restraint as they swung into the back stretch and for the remainder of the journey the big black son of Black Toney appeared to be only galloping. He held command of the situation at all stages and at the finish led Sun Vir by three lengths. Liza was third, beaten a like distance for the place.

Liza met with a mishap at the turn out of the back stretch where she was blocked when Robertson attempted to go through on the inside. The interference cost the Whitney filly several lengths and ruined what ever chances she may have had.

PLAY IN RICHMOND.

The Silver Spring Giant Nine will meet the Burk & Co. Team at Richmond tomorrow and Sunday. Silver Spring players will leave the District Building at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—IAGO, $12.70, $4.20, $3.20; FRUMPER, $3.20, $2.70; ETONARDO, $4.10.

IAGO carried to the front and steadied along to withstand early opposition from ETONARDO, responded to severe pressure when challenged and, under a stiff drive, just lasted to stall off FRUMPER. Latter moved into contention with a rush, slipped through on the inside of the winner and was going resolutely at the end. ETONARDO, a forward factor early, weakened in the closing test and was in hand nearing the finish when holding the others safe. GUIDE RIGHT was unable to menace the leaders.

FANTAD (FIELD) WINNING AT LONG ODDS.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:20. Off at 2:21. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FANTAD, $20.80, $8.50, $4.90; WACKET, $5.50, $4.10; ZEVE'S GOLD, $5.20.

FANTAD, racing in near attendance of WACKET, displaced the latter when inside the final furlong and, kept under pressure, was slowly drawing clear. WACKET, hard hustled all the way, saved ground and continued determinedly. ZEVE'S GOLD, always well up, held on well and just lasted to stall off PLAY BALL.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BEWITHUS, $3.90, $3.60, $2.80; SUNVIR, $8.40, $4.30; LISA, $2.60.

BEWITHUS outran his field from the break, sprinted into a commanding lead when reaching the far turn and was in hand all during the final stages. SUNVIR moved up menacingly when approaching the turn into the home stretch, finished gamely, but was held perfectly safe. LISA dropped back at the far turn, was forced to severe punishment to keep her from loafing and she finished gamely to outstay PASSE.

FATOR PILOTS DONNAY HOME AHEAD.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. The Severn. For 2-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:19. Off at 3:20. Winner, Rancocas Stable's b. c. (3), by Donnaconna—Kilauea. Trained by J. Rowe. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:46 3-5, 1:12.

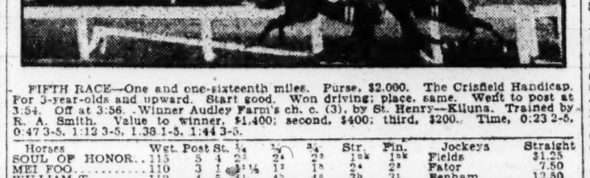
Two-dollar mutuels paid—DONNAY, $8.00, $4.40, $3.40; KOPECK, $14.30, $7.30; MUD, $5.40.

DONNAY, reserved off the early pace, circled the leaders when making his run, wore his opposition down gradually and, in a rapid finish, was up in the last few strides. KOPECK, a keen factor, disposed of MUD when inside the final furlong and held on willingly under stout pressure.

SOUL OF HONOR DEFEATING MEI FOO.



FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $2,000. The Crisfield Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:54. Off at 3:56. Winner Audley Farm's ch. c. (3), by St. Henry—Kiluna. Trained by R. A. Smith. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 3-5, 1:38 1-5, 1:44 3-5.

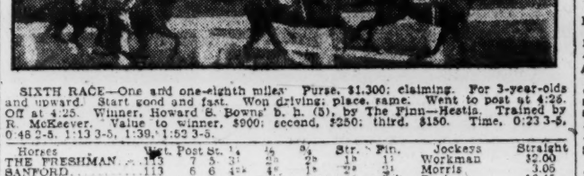
Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOUL OF HONOR, $4.50, $3.70, $3.10; MEI FOO, $6.20, $4.20; WILLIAM T., $5.20.

SOUL OF HONOR, taken in hand for the first six furlongs, reached MEI FOO by moving through on the inside at the far turn, was hard urged once in front and was ridden out to the finish. MEI FOO had splendid early speed. He came again after being overtaken a furlong out.

WORKMAN SCORES WITH THE FRESHMAN.



SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good and fast. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:25. Off at 4:25. Winner, Howard S. Bowne's b. h. (5), by The Finn—Heatha. Trained by J. McGrever. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:39, 1:52 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE FRESHMAN, $6.00, $3.60, $2.70; SANFORD, $4.70, $3.30; GOLDEN ARROW, $4.20.

THE FRESHMAN, sent into a contending position at once, secured racing room on the inside of the leaders all the way, assumed command at the final furlong pole and outfinished SANFORD. Latter, rated off the pace, made a determined effort at the far turn, but weakened in the closing test. GOLDEN ARROW, outrun early, circled his field and closed stoutly.

BOUNDING DEEP BOUNDS TO TRIUMPH.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Rock Candy. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:59. Winner, Seagram Stable's ch. g. (3), by Boniface—Storm Bound. Trained by W. H. Bringloe. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:40 3-5, 1:53 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOUNDING DEEP, $5.30, $3.20, $2.80; KEYDET, $5.30, $4.80; BOZO, $14.30.

BOUNDING DEEP, clear of interference and hurried into a forward position, raced BOZO into submission. KEYDET, prominent all the way, outstayed BOZO in the final furlong. Latter set a good pace and saved ground and held on well. FIRE CHIEF finished fast. PAT CALHOUN raced in spots. FIRE WATCH met with much early interference. HEDGEFENCE was eased up when he tired.

LOCAL SCHOOLBOYS IN SEVEN GRID GAMES TODAY

Devitt Meets Eastern in Feature

Western Opens Campaign With Alexandria High.

Business, Gonzaga in First Game on New Field.

SCHOLASTIC GRID CARD.

Eastern vs. Devitt, Eastern Stadium, 3:30 o'clock.

Tech vs. St. John's, Central Stadium, 3:30 o'clock.

Business vs. Gonzaga, Thirty-fourth street and Benning road, 3:30 o'clock.

Western vs. Alexandria High, Alexandria, Va.

Woodward vs. George Mason High, Alexandria, Va.

Emerson vs. St. John's Junior Varsity, Annapolis, Md.

Landon vs. Charlotte Hall, Charlotte Hall, Md.

WHEN Coach Dan Ahern last night announced his starting line-up for Western High School's opening game of the season, the preparations of four high and three prep schools for their games today were completed.

Although doubtful of their ability, this is the way Ahern has picked his men to take the field against Alexandria today: Capt. Owens and Stansbury, ends; Cook and Gould, tackles; Hatfield and Alexander, guards; Piffer, center; Thompson, quarter back; Williams and Millard, half backs, and Draper, full back.

Led by Capt. Quincy Owens, the Western Eleven will carry four men into the game who have never played football before, and Ahern is pessimistic over the outcome of the battle. Hatfield, Alexander, Stansbury and Williams are the untried performers.

Devitt Backs Offer Eastern Trouble.

Undoubtedly, the spotlight of the day's attractions will be centered at Eastern High Stadium, where a championship prep eleven of last year clashes with a prospective championship eleven of the current season, the Eastern Club. However, Coach McNamara of the Devitt clan admits his team this year is nothing like the winning combination of 1928, although he is confident that his charges will put up a strong fight. While his line is untried, the back field of Abramson, Knott, Bernard and Hennegan promise to make things a bit warm for the Lincoln Parkers.

Up at Central Stadium, two teams will be sent against each other by coaches who both prefer them to be rated the under-dogs. Although Tech won its inaugural last week, "Hap" Hardell looks for a victory today only if St. Johns is very weak, while Paully Byrne will be tickled to death if his boys manage to hold the supposedly green Techmen to a low score. St. Johns has on its roster only two men who have ever played football before, however, and the Tech Team should walk off with the game.

Gonzaga will officially dedicate its new stadium at Thirty-fourth street near Benning road northeast, when it entertains the light but plucky Business High Eleven in its opening game. The big purple eleven worked out on its new field for the first time yesterday and claims to be in readiness for the Stenogs. Coach Woodworth's men will be up against another tough opponent which should delay their entrance into the win column.

Landon, Emerson, Woodward Start.

The new Langdon Team will open its season in a game with Charlotte Hall at the Virginia school's gridiron. Coach Gordon Kessler last night said his men would take the field in this fashion: Hopper and Sands, ends; Voucher and Hill, tackles; Talbert and Paine, guards; Hitchcock, center; Smith and Quinn, half backs; Baker, quarter back, and May, full back. The game appears to be a toss-up.

Emerson and Woodward will also engage in games with the Sanbormen visiting Annapolis for a game with the St. Johns College Junior Varsity and the Woodward Team meeting George Mason High at Alexandria.

Coach "Ty" Rauber will leave with his Central Eleven today for New York City, where the Mount Vernon High Eleven will be engaged tomorrow. The New Yorkers have a fine reputation in their section of the country, having been named champions of their county for the last three years, and having beaten Baltimore City College last week to the tune of 25-0. Rauber will send the same team on the field that took the measure of Forest Park last week, plant of Shenandoah Valley Canning

CORINTHIANS START.

Candidates for the Corinthian A. C. Basket Ball Teams will drill tonight at Peck Memorial Gym, Twenty-eighth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, at 7 o'clock. Teams will compete in 100 and 115 pound company. All new candidates are asked to report.

AL SIMMONS LIKES THE GAME

Macks Busy Figuring Their Share of the Money.

a tender age because his father died, later becoming a professional ball player, ran his eye over the item "players'" share, $236,006.46 and leaned back with an expression of rapture.

Simmons Fond of National Game.

"I am very fond of our national game," Mr. Simmons said. His fondness will grow considerably before winter sets in, too, because he and Jimmy Foxx, the young oyster-opener from the Maryland Eastern Shore, are going on tour after the world series, playing ball games on a long itinerary reaching to the Pacific slope at a guaranteed rate of $1,000 per game with an option on 60 per cent of the gross. Thus far James has hit two home runs and Al has hit one himself and the boys realize that these feats will do their show no harm in the leaky-roof ball parks within the next month.

The cares of journalism, in which most of them are technically engaged for the period of the world series, weigh lightly on them. I see articles in the papers attributed to almost all members of the club but I have yet to detect any of these journalists sparring with a typewriter or even chewing a pencil except to figure out 60 per cent of some theoretical player's share and divide that by 25 to arrive at a theoretical approximation of their dividends if they win. Jimmy Foxx, one of the most prolific of the authors, received a compliment on this morning's composition as the Philadelphia papers were thrown aboard the train over in western Pennsylvania.

"That was a very good article of yours," said Mr. Ralph Perkins, the aged catcher of 32. "Thank you very much," said Mr. Foxx, much pleased. "What does it say?"

Ehmke to Stay Another Season.

Howard Ehmke, the large, loose-hung pitcher who struck out thirteen hitters in the first game, probably won considerably more than one ball game in so doing, for it seems quite likely that he will now be retained with the ball club for at least one year more. There was no likelihood of that before he pitched in the world series. His wife, delicate girl, who has been ill all summer, is improving now and in general you might say that things are looking up for the Ehmkes.

Howard and Simmons were ostentatiously chummy on the train, wishing to belie a published report that they had fallen out and that this rancor was responsible for Ehmke's omission from the team when the Athletics made their last Western trip of the season.

"We have always been pals, haven't we, Al?" Mr. Ehmke said, winding his valuable pitching arm around Mr. Simmons' neck in an affectionate way.

"Pals?" exclaimed Mr. Simmons. "More than pals. I am crazy about you."

"And moreover," said Mr. Ehmke, "I fixed up some hitting soup for Al. Didn't I Al?"

Wonderful Soup, Says Simmons.

"You certainly did," Mr. Simmons said. "It was wonderful soup. Tell the gentleman about the soup."

"This soup is what I call hitting soup," Mr. Ehmke explained. "You know, I am always inventing things, and I got up this preparation to help the boys hit. I gave Al some one day and he got two triples and a home run, so I brought some to Chicago with me."

"It certainly worked, big boy," Mr. Simmons said.

"This secret preparation is a sticky preparation for hitters," Mr. Ehmke resumed.

"You rub it on your hands, and it draws your fingers close around the handle of the bat. This improves your grip, and it is remarkable to see a man begin to hit as soon as he tries it."

"It is wonderful stuff," Mr. Simmons testified.

It appears that Mr. Ehmke is not a trifling inventor, but a studious inventor with a commercial mind, and he is now arranging a laboratory in which to produce hitting soup in commercial quantities for a spring sales campaign, accompanied by testimonials from Simmons and Foxx.

ST. STEPHEN DRILLS.

St. Stephen's Football Eleven will drill tonight in preparation for its opening game in the Capital City League Sunday. Coach Bush requests all players to report in uniform at 8 o'clock on No. 1 field at Seventeenth and B streets northwest.

Georgia Elevens in Dixie Feature Games Tomorrow

Georgia Entertains Yale, While North Carolina U. Challenges Georgia Tech; Florida Faces Dangerous Foe in Auburn Team.

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

THE biggest football movement in the history of the South got under way last night when the first of 23 special trains rolled into Atlanta loaded with ticket holders to the Yale-Georgia intersectional game at Athens Saturday and the North Carolina-Georgia Tech clash at Atlanta today.

The Athens extravaganza is the week's premiere attraction in the South, but the meeting of Tech and North Carolina, in which championship hopes of two of the foremost contenders in the conference are at stake, is playing a lusty second fiddle in interest and importance. This game, well supported by the Florida-Auburn title under the floodlights at Montgomery, and the Clemson-North Carolina State scrap at Florence, S. C., will serve as a prelude to the main events under Saturday's big top.

Storm Warning Out at Ga. Tech As Tarheels Invade.

Storm warnings are out at Georgia Tech. North Carolina, with the best team developed in the northern end of the conference in many years, is invading Grant Field with a much better than fair chance of bumping the 1928 champions off.

The North Carolinians have recovered from the stage fright which cost them last year's game, and the experts are unanimous that if Georgia Tech is as badly off its game as it was against Mississippi A. & M. last week, Coach Chuck Collins and his men will ride home aboard the big end of the score.

The Carolina team arrived today and took a brisk workout. It appears to be much more advanced in its training than the Golden Tornado. With two victories under their belt, the Tarheels are the only team on the Tech schedule with an uncrossed goal line.

The Florida Alligators, who got the scare of their young lives from V. M. I. last week, will be strictly up against it when they tackle Auburn. Three regular line stars were left in Gainesville and the Alligators will be forced to take the field with a patched up forward wall.

Clemson Seeking Fourth Victory in Row.

Coach Josh Cody's powerful Clemson, who have rolled up a total of 127 points in three games so far, will be after their fourth straight victory and their second against a Conference foe in their contest with the remodeled Wolfpack of North Carolina State.

Two S. I. A. A. contests and eight smaller engagements round out Friday's program.

Presbyterian College meets Furman at Greenville, S. C., and Wofford entertains Erskine at Spartanburg, in the S. I. A. A. games, both of which were moved up from Saturday as a gesture to the Georgia-Yale spectacle.

Davidson Handicapped For Army Tomorrow

Special to The Washington Post.

Davidson, N. C., Oct. 10.—It seemed a certainty here today that Tom Brohard and Don McQueen, half back and full back, respectively, would be unable to play in the Army-Davidson football game at West Point next Saturday, because both of them are suffering with knee injuries and have showed little improvement in their ability to move around. Brohard's injury antedates the Clemson-Tiger battle, while McQueen's hurt came in the Wofford game at Spartanburg.

The coaches were undecided tonight whether they would be carried on the trip, for neither were able to participate in the scrimmage with the freshmen this afternoon, and could not move about in the signal drills with any alacrity. Should these men be left at Davidson, McFadyen and Pritchett probably would get the call.

William-Mary Out To Mar Wasp's Record

Special to The Washington Post.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 10.—William and Mary College, after its splendid showing against Navy last week, is out to break Emory and Henry's winning streak of 24 straight games, when it engages the Wasps in a night classic at Emory this Saturday. Emory and Henry, last year's Virginia Conference winner, and William and Mary stand out as the strongest elevens in the conference this year. The winner of their clash will, in all probability, annex this year's title.

MACK'S STRATEGY WON TWO BATTLES

Earnshaw and Grove after having accustomed them, on the first day, to the lazy floaters of the veteran Ehmke.

Macks Are Not Worse Than Cubs.

To date, the Athletics have not been a substantially better baseball team than the Cubs. They merely have not been worse. The Cubs have outhit their opponents, but they haven't outscored them. They have failed pitifully in the pinches and their so-called stars have done the failing. Even those among them who were denied the appreciation of hitting genius, but were accorded high esteem as fielders, have failed egregiously in their specialties, thus balancing the collapse of the hitting platoons.

As in Chicago, the game tomorrow will start at 1:30 p. m.

Because of traffic conditions here, due to a sad bottle-necking of all transportation toward the park, hints have been broadcast to those holding tickets to start early for the stadium or take a chance on not getting in before the last put-out. Shibe Park is celebrated, or notorious, as the case might be, for the difficulty encountered in reaching it when there are crowds to combat.

VA. DEFENSE BOLSTERED FOR GAME

Changed Line-Up to Start Against Swarthmore.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 10. Defensive scrimmage against Swarthmore plays has occupied much time of the University of Virginia Eleven in preparation for the game with the Little Quakers here on Saturday.

Until this week the Cavalier Varsity has been giving much more attention to developing attack than in working on defense. But reports from Pennsylvania indicate that Swarthmore is bringing a veteran team, with a line averaging almost 200 pounds from tackle to tackle and an ever-threatening back field.

Swarthmore's splendid showing against Pennsylvania and the victory of Virginia over South Carolina have combined to make this intersectional affair one of unusual interest. The kick-off will take place at 2:30.

James G. Driver, director of athletics, had not planned to have extra seats put up on the west side of Lambeth Field until just before the game with Virginia Military Institute here on October 19. But indications are that there will be a large crowd here Saturday, and framework and seats for the bleachers have been hauled up to the main field, where they can be assembled, should all the seats in the concrete stadium be sold.

Changes in Virginia Line-Up Are Planned.

Virginias line-up Saturday is likely to be somewhat different from that used against South Carolina last Saturday in Columbia. With two youngsters, Bill Thomas and Herbert Bryant, both demanding a place in the starting back field, some of the letter men of last year must be replaced. Capt. Johnny Sloan is sure of starting at quarter, but Gus Kaminer, Hunter Faulconer and Albert Lewy are fighting for positions with the two former freshman stars.

Several line positions are still in doubt. George Taylor will be at center, Dick Turner on left end and Hunter Motley and Larry Whalen in the two tackles. All these seem certain of places.

Thirty St. Louis U. Gridmen on Way Here

St. Louis, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Head Coach "Hunk" Anderson, of St. Louis University, today led a squad of 30 players East for the Billikens' game with Georgetown University, at Washington, Saturday. The squad was in good condition. The Rev. James J. O'Regan, S. J., director of athletics, and Coach Flanagan accompanied the team, which left at noon.

Hampden-Sydney Team Departs for Cornell

Special to The Washington Post.

Hampden-Sidney, Va., Oct. 10.—Twenty-two Tiger moleskin artists, coaches and manager leave tomorrow morning for Ithaca, N. Y., where they meet Cornell's big red team Saturday. Charlie Bernier and Red Smith have had their squad hard at it to get into fair shape for what will probably prove the hardest game on this season's schedule.

The squad came out of the V. P. I. tilt with few injuries, Ruffner and Jefferson being the only men kept out of the rough work during the week. Scrimmaging took its toll when Lineweaver, pivot man, suffered a painful shoulder injury. One consolation from the Tech encounter is that the Tigers got some excellent preparation for Gil Dobie's famed off-tackle smashes from the Gobblers' heavy line and speedy backs.

Garden will play full back Saturday for the first time this season and McCann is looked to for yardage running behind the big sophomore. Back field material, due to injuries and the ineligibility of Bus Weller, is at a premium on Death Valley.

Western Maryland Is Set for St. Thomas

Special to The Washington Post.

Westminster, Md., Oct. 10.—A fierce one-hour scrimmage was the high light of today's practice session of Western Maryland gridmen. Goose Doughty's punting, the accuracy of which was a feature of the Georgetown game, has steadily improved under the tutelage of Greasy Neal, back field coach. With Ekaitis, Clary and Jones also booting past the 45-yard stripe, this department looks stronger than it has been for some time.

Tiny Pincura, tackle, was out today with a bad shoulder, but probably will be in the line-up for the St. Thomas fracas on Saturday. Harlow feels that he has found the right combination in the line which played such magnificent ball at Georgetown and is not contemplating any changes for the Scranton game.

Tulane Facing First Conference Battle

Special to The Washington Post.

New Orleans, Oct. 10.—The Big Green Wave of Tulane University is pounding hard on the Dixie football front. Those who may have taken the charges of Coach Bernie Bierman lightly before the season started were forced to do a right about Saturday when the Greenies splashed through a series of tropical showers to a 13-to-10 victory over Texas A. and M.

Saturday Coach Bierman must point his team toward its first Southern Conference game. Mississippi A. and M., the team that held Georgia Tech, 27 to 15, will be in New Orleans to play in the big uptown stadium and with fair weather more than 17,000 fans are expected out. Despite the battle of the elements which included sprinkles, electrical storms, torrential downpours and a rainbow appearance at the last, 15,000 fans sat through Saturday's game.

Account Is Winner At Churchill Downs

Churchill Downs Race Track, Ky., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—The eleven days of racing at this track closed today with an ordinary card composed of five claiming affairs and 2-year-old maiden races. The fifth number, a claiming event for 3-year-olds and upward, drew the best of what horses were left here and resulted in a victory for Account, which, with K. Russell in the saddle, carried the colors of R. C. Thatcher across the finish line in front of his five competitors. Myth was second, with Duellist third. The race was worth $900 to the winner and Account paid $5.02.

Account, way slow but under a well-judged ride by Jockey Russell, improved his position steadily to the stretch, where he went into the lead to win easily by two lengths. Myth went into a lead after passing the half-mile pole, continued in front to the last sixteenth, where she tired but lasted to take second money by four lengths from Duellst. The latter, a close-up contender to the stretch, was unequal to the task and finished third.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 10.—Alexandria High School and George Mason High School Teams will open their home season campaigns tomorrow afternoon, both games starting at 3:30 o'clock.

Alexandria High will meet Western High, of Washington, at Haydon Field, while the Masonites will oppose the Woodward (Y. M. C. A.) School Team at Baggett's Stadium. Bill Leach will referee the Alexandria High contest, and Ray Cobean the George Mason game.

The probable line-up for Alexandria High will include Agner and Jeff Williams, ends; Luckett and Carr, tackles; Henderson and Mudd, guards; Horne, center; Jennler, quarter back; Bell and Pete Williams, half backs, and Hugh Tavers, full back. Coach Reynolds has made several shifts, which are expected to give his team added strength. Pete Williams, last year's all-State end, who was out of school the early part of the season, is back at half back, and Jim Luckett, who has been playing end, has been shiften to tackle. He is doing the kicking for the "Big Reds" and his work has been outstanding in the games played so far this year.

Prex Wilson's George Mason Gridders have been working out against the Episcopal High School second team, and yesterday tackled hte varsity in a scrimmage game. Leslie Scott is captain of the team, and plays quarter back. Claude Nixon, a last year's varsity man, is holding down the full back position.

Manager Elwood King, of the Masonites, says this is one of the six major games for his team, five of which will be played at Baggett's Stadium.

Jean Reveals Class In Hawthorne Feature

Hawthorne Race Track, Oct. 10 (A. P.).—A card given over entirely to claiming events was the offering here today. Judging by the entered values, the first number claimed highest distinction. It was a sprint of 6 furlongs for 2-year-olds.

S. N. Holman's brown filly Jean was the best of the eight starters, leading from start to finish to win by half a length. Lillian Tobin followed the leader all the way to take the place by a length, with Bill Looney racing evenly in third place throughout. This event was worth $1,000 to the winner and Jean paid $5.56 for $2.

Annapolis Annexes Jamaica Feature Race

Jamaica Race Track, N. Y., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—In a blanket finish, W. J. Salmon's Annapolis, with Malley up, scored by a nose in the October claiming handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, here today. R. T. Wilson's Chatover, coupled in the betting with Annapolis, was second, and A. W. Wentzel's Low Gear was third. R. Spreckel's Sageboy was fourth. It was a thrilling finish and the winner was in doubt until the numbers were hung out. Chatover galloped in front, leading by several lengths to the stretch, where Low Gear challenged. It appeared as if Low Gear would win but in the last sixteenth Annapolis came up on the outside and was up to win by a nose. Chatover beat Low Gear a nose for third, while Sageboys was fourth, a head back. The race was worth $3,600 to the winner.

Alabama U. Crippled For Saturday's Fray

University, Ala., Oct. 10.—With a 22 to 7 win over Ole Miss, first conference foe of the 1929 season, tucked away, the Crimson Tidesmen are pointing toward the Chattanooga tussle next Saturday in the stadium. Chattanooga, S. I. A. A. champ last year, perenially has a strong team, and with a flock of lettermen back from last season's eleven, again looms formidable.

Alabama will enter the Moccasin fray weakened by the loss of two of her best backs—Campbell and Suther. While there is a slight possibility of Suther seeing a few minutes of service, Campbell is hopelessly out with his broken leg.

NO CHANGES IN NAVY'S LINE-UP

Ingram Gives Middies Hard Practice for Notre Dame.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10.—Thursday afternoon, recreation period in academic routine, when all Midshipmen are expected to take to some form of outdoor exercise, enabled the football players to get in a more protracted session than usual, and the staff of coaches made most of it by putting the squad through enough stiff scrimmage.

It was the last hard drive in preparation for the Notre Dame game in Baltimore Stadium Saturday, one of the main objectives of the local season.

Tomorrow will be devoted to work of the lighter order, such as signals, punting and handling kicks, and further polishing off a new bag of tricks which the Tars hope to spring to the point of breaking the morale of the opposition.

Ramblers Given Edge On Form.

On general form the Ramblers are given a slight edge, but the consensus of opinion among those in close touch with the Middies is that the team that exhibits the most alert play will be returned winner, and that team will be Navy.

Certain it is that all of the boys are on their toes and raring to go.

With the exception of Gannon, veteran half back, the entire squad is in the best of condition physically.

Head Coach "Bill" Ingram made no changes in the line-up compared to the group tha has figured in thee final drive, which indicates there will be no attempt to emulat Rockne's oft-employd strategy of sending his shock troops to the firing line in the first quarter, as he did in last year's game.

Navy's plan of campaign, it is believed, will be to put its full strength into the fracas, get the jump on the opposition by scoring early, if possible, and then fight to the last ditch to say in the van.

Easton Soccer Team Defeats St. Michaels

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Oct. 10.—Easton High had no trouble in defeating St. Michaels here this afternoon in the Talbot County Soccer League, 4 to 0. Covey, outside right forward, was knocked out when he collided with three other players. His mouth was badly cut, but after he came to he resumed playing. He and Meintzer starred for Easton.

Easton.	Position.	St. Michael's.
Bell	Goal	Spencer
Coburn	L. B.	L. Harrison
Parrish	R. B.	Shannahan
E. Burkhardt	L. H. B.	Wales
G. Burkhardt	R. H. B.	Cohee
Hubbard	Center	Jones
Covey	O. R. F.	W. Harrison
Hill	I. R. F.	Hunt
Matthews	C. F.	Kirby
Stafford	O. L. F.	Dobson
Meintzer	I. L. F.	Gillis

Sheehan was substituted for Hubbard in the second period and Rouse for Hill. Matthews, Sheehan and Cohee were ruled out for fouling. Goals kicked from field—Matthews, Stafford. Linesmen—Parkerson, Councell. Referee—McGee.

Because Rufus Martin owed him $40, John W. Brown, of Winchester, Va., holds the 13-month-old son of Martin until the debt is paid. Martin and his wife left their son in the care of Brown's wife while they attended a fair. When they returned they asked for their son, Brown informed them that he was going to hold the son until payment of the debt was made. Martin has obtained a writ of habeus corpus from Judge T. W. Harrison and Brown will be required to produce the child in court. This is the first case of its kind on record here.

Admiral Manney, chief of the Equipment Bureau of the Navy, announced the Navy Department now has 22 wireless stations. The station in Washington, Arlington, is considered one of the best. Plans are being made for 60 more stations. These are to be on island possessions and a few in Alaska.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau.

Washington, Thursday, Oct. 10—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia—Increasing cloudiness and not so cool Friday; Saturday mostly fair; gentle to moderate southeast winds.

For Maryland—Increasing cloudiness and not quite so cool Friday; Saturday mostly fair with slowly rising temperature; moderate east winds.

For Virginia—Increasing cloudiness and slightly warmer Friday; Saturday mostly fair and warmer; moderate northeast and east winds.

Pressure continues low over the western Caribbean and is relatively low over the southern Rocky Mountain region. A high-pressure area of great magnitude extends from Ontario southeastward to New England and thence southwestward to the South Atlantic States. Ithaca, N. Y., 30.72 inches, and pressure is high over the northern Rocky Mountain region. During the last 24 hours rains have occurred in the Plains States, the Ohio and upper Mississippi Valleys, in the north portion of the West Gulf States, and at scattered points in the upper Lake region, the northern Rocky Mountain region and New Mexico. Temperature changes have been unimportant.

The outlook is for mostly fair weather Friday and Saturday in the Washington forecast district, except showers on Friday in the Ohio Valley and the western lower Lake region, and for showers Friday and Saturday in southern Florida. It will not be quite so cool on Friday in the Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic States, and temperatures will rise quite generally on Saturday over middle and northern districts.

Along the North Atlantic coast the winds will be moderate northwest over north portion and moderate northeast over south portion, and weather partly overcast Friday. Along the Middle Atlantic coast the winds will be fresh northeast and weather partly overcast Friday.

South American Cyclist Ends Washington Visit

Adolfo Rodriquez, of Buenos Aires, reached Washington yesterday on a bicycle trip to New York which started on April 5, 1927. Many difficulties were encountered by the youth. Crossing the Andes Mountains he found growth so thick and trails so rough he had to carry his "bike" many miles.

In Ecuador, Rodriquez fell ill of tropical fever, and his journey was delayed six months. However, he persevered and entered the United States at Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 28. He left for New York yesterday, and will return to his home from that city by ship.

BROWN DENOUNCES, STATE "AUTOCRACY"

Conditions Worst Virginia Has Ever Known, Charges Coalition Candidate.

SUSPECTS VOTE FRAUDS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Addressing an audience estimated at 700 to 800 persons in the Armory last night, Dr. William Moseley Brown, coalition candidate for governor, flayed machine politics in Virginia and was particularly caustic in references to his Democratic opponent, Dr. John Garland Pollard, whom he claimed is now the candidate of a faction he fought ofr 25 years.

At the conclusion of an introduction by Frank Lyons, of Arlington County, Dr. Brown entered the hall to the strains of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." He spoke for nearly two hours, being frequently interrupted by applause.

His criticism was directed at what he termed the "worst autocracy Virginia has ever known," and pleaded for a rule by the people. The election laws, he said, particularly favor the machine, and one point he brought out was that the "absent voter" law is susceptible of abuse, and may result in ballot-box stuffing.

Charges Misrepresentation.

Dr. Brown charged that the Democratic newspapers of the State have misrepresented his views on many questions, first, as to good roads and primaries. The plan he favors for good roads, he says, will provide for a reduction in the gasoline tax, a reduction in the automobile license fee and completion of a road program involving the expenditure of -140,-000,000 in eight years, instead of ten years under present plans. His views on primaries, he said, include the holding of primaries, but the holding of voters to the present law, which would bar voters from a primary unless the person had supported his party in the last general election. He claimed that in the last Democratic primary not only a large number of so-called Hoover Democrats, who had failed to vote for the Democratic nominee in the last election, but a large number of Republicans, had voted for Pollard, with the understanding that they would not support him in the general election in November.

Considerable stress was laid on the result of the next Virginia election on national issues for 1832. Dr. Brown read the headlines of a large number of clippings from newspapers scattered throughout the country, making reference to the nomination of Dr. Pollard as a Smith supporter.

Suspects Vote Frauds.

The short ballot, which provides for the appointment by the governor in a large number of cases instead of election by the voters, was criticised, and he stated that if elected he will use his utmost endeavors to have the Legislature pass an act restoring these officers to the control of the voters. Specific reference was made to the school supervisors. The speaker advocated members be elected instead of appointed. He also urged that city and county boards be elected.

Dr. Brown claimed that city employes ni Richmond, and State automobile license agents have been solicited to make "contributions" to the Democratic campaign fund, and that these men feared they would lose their positions unless they contributed.

The coalition candidate made a strong appeal to the audience to turn out of power the Democratic machine which, he said, has been in power without interruption for 44 years, and substitute a rule by the whole people, instead of a few individualsñ and said that the nomination of Dr. Pollard had been decided upon by three m —Gov. Harry Byrd, Senator Claude A. Swanson, and Senator Carter Glass. He is not asking any man, he said, to change his party affiliations and vote for him, but asked that the voters place "principle above party, and let their conscience be their guide."

The children of St. Mary's aCtholic Church yesterday attended initial funeral services for the Rev. Lawrence F. Kelly, assistant pastor of that church, the celebrant of the mass being the Rev. Joseph J. Kelly, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Fathers Cannon and Quinn. The Rev. Father Mitchell was master of ceremonies, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Father Winston, of Warrenton. The choir and chanting was under direction of the Rev. Thomas A. Rankin, pastor of St. Charles' Church, Clarendon.

Final service for Father Kelly will be held in the church at 10 o'clock this morning, the celebrant of the mass at that time being the Rev. Felix F. Kaup, vicar general of the Virginia Diocese, of Richmond. The Rev. A. J. Van Englehem will serve as deacon, and the Rev. Hugh S. McFadden as subdeacon. The sermon will be by the Rev. Edward Tierney, of Lynchburg, and the Rev. John S. Igoe will be master of ceremonies. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The honorary pallbearers will be William Albert Smoot, Dr. M. D. Delaney, E. A. Sweeley, Judge Robinson Moncure, George F. Downham, R. E. McGahey, Thomas J. Fannon, Judge William P. Woolls, J. T. Minoughan, William H. Sweeney, P. J. Conlon, Harry R. Burke, John D. Normoyle, the Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Wallis, Claude M. Lennon, J. O. Martin, of Falls Church; Leo P. Harlow, Michael T. Dwyer, Urban S. Lambert, J. H. Crilly, Martin E. Greene, Eugene Igoe, Nicholas J. Lawler, Dr. Edward A. Gorman, James T. Preston, sr., Dr. Thomas B. Cochran and Julian D. Knight.

Active pallbearers will be Herbert Cady, Thomas J. McFarland, Thomas E. Dyson, M. R. O'Sullivan, F. T. Quinn, William A. DeVaughan, George Manger and J. H. McDonough.

"Kid" Lilly, alias John Gaines, Negro, under indictment here for the murder of Police Sergt. Charles R. McClary, has again made his appearance in Nelson County, Va., and has again eluded the vigilance of the police, according to a report received here yesterday. The report states that on Wednesday Sheriff Charles Murphy, of Pittsylvania County, with several deputies, paid a flying visit to a point in Nelson County, 28 miles north of Lynchburg, in search of Lilly, he having been informed that the Negro had been seen where Lilly was born and reared. The sheriff and his deputies searched several houses, some of them occupied by relatives of the fugitive, but without success

The city council of Alexandria offered a reward of $1,000 for the capture and conviction of Lilly, in addition to which ther e is understood to be a reward offered by the authorities of a North Carolina city, where Lilly is said to have slain another policeman, and the authorities of Pittsylvania County want him for a felonious assault on a woman. Lilly has been in the hands of police on several occasions since the Mc-

LEGION TO ENROLL VIRGINIA VETERANS

Object Is to Find and Aid Former Service Men in Need.

70,000 IS STATE'S TOTAL

Richmond, Va., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—A census of the estimated 70,000 former service men and women, white and colored, in Virginia will be taken before January 1, 1930, it was announced today at State legion headquarters here.

Under direction of W. Ernest Acton, jr., of Portsmouth, junior department vice commander and chairman of the committee on census and survey, work is to be started immediately in several sections of the State in the legion's effort to get information concerning all former service people within the jurisdiction.

Veterans of the World War found to be in need will be helped, and deserving cases not already recorded will be presented to the Veterans' Bureau.

Assistance will be asked of schools and other agencies in taking the census in those counties without legion posts.

The alternate executive committeemen from the ten congressional districts are serving as members of the general State committee and as district chairmen under direction of Acton. They are—First, Stanley Garner, Newport News; Second, M. E. Haug, Portsmouth; Third, Charles E. Maurice, Richmond; Fourth, M. J. Paytas, Emporia; Fifth, Fletcher Martin, South Boston; Sixth, W. G. Myers, Roanoke; Seventh, P. W. Rinker, Bridgewater; Eighth, E. H. Hinkins, Falls Church; Ninth, O. D. Hamrick, Bristol; Tenth, L. F. Pendleton, Clifton Forge.

FIELD TRIALS START NEAR FAIRFAX SOON

PRODUCE BAN IS LIFTED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
Clarendon 919-J-1.

The fifth annual trials of the Northern Virginia Amateur Field Trial Association will start Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock on the farm of F. W. Huddleson, about 6 miles from Fairfax, on the Lee-Jackson highway.

Setter and pointer dogs with a total value of $15,000 will participate in the events. Drawings for the trials will be held Sunday night. A silver cup will be presented to the winner of the events and trophies will also be awarded to those finishing second and third.

Thomas P. Baldwin, of Washington, and Matthew Trimble, jr., of Kensington, Md., will serve as judges, rating the dogs on their performances in the field.

The Ayre Hill Garden Club will meet today at the residence of Mrs. Ronald Blake, in Vienna, Va. Plans for beautifying the town of Vienna will be discussed.

Persons who mail in their duplications for hunting licenses have been causing E. R. Holbrook, deputy county clerk, considerable trouble. Holbrook pointed out that many fail to comply with instructions inclosed with applications.

The quarantine on movements of farm produce from the Fairfax section has been lifted. Department of Agriculture inspectors are still discovering a few beetles in flowers submitted for shipment from the county, and consequently the floral ban continues. Restrictions of hothouse and nursery plants will be enforced throughout the entire year as a result.

The Fairfax Fire Department is having its troubles.

The department hoped to purchase a siren from a Norfolk department, but a test yesterday proved that the siren was in bad condition, and it will be returned to Norfolk. The department is debating whether or not to go into debt and purchase a new siren.

Then, to add to the department's troubles, the old cooper shop, which has been used for quartering the fire apparatus, has been leased to the Fairfax Garage Co. as a temporary repair shop. The department has two new homes for the apparatus under consideration.

County Clerk F. W. Huddleson's force is busy preparing tax bills for the coming year. To date the force has completed assessments for one town and four districts out of four towns and six districts in the county.

Taxes may be paid from the date stamped on the bills up until December 5, 1929, after which a penalty of 5 per cent will be added. In the event the bills are not paid by June 15, 1930, an additional 5 per cent penalty will be levied, with 6 per cent interest until the date of payment.

Clary shooting, but in each instance has been allowed to go free for lack of timely identification.

The congregation of the First Baptist Church will give official recognition to teh new pastor, the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, at a meeting to be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight at the church, when ministers of other churches in the city will extend a welcome. A musical program will be rendered.

The Rev. Emmette R. Spencer, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, was the speaker at the meetnig of the Kiwanis Club yesterday. The program was in charge of Forest Patterson and Walter Pierpont, and musical numbers were given by Charles B. Clark and Roy Gurley.

A tmporary office of th Virginia ara district of the District of Columbia Boy Scouts was opened yesaerday in the municipal building, on the first floor of the Camron street side. This will be headquarters for seven troops of scouts in Virginia, and all records kept here.

Will you go to the theater tonight or will you stay home and listen to the radio? The Washington Post will help you make your decision by its daily listing of broadcast programs on the more popular stations and also by its comment and criticism of current plays and motion pictures by John Daly and Nelson Bell.

ROAD BODY DEMURS TO INJUNCTION BILL

Attacks Equities of Group Seeking to Block B. & O. Kensington Bridge.

WILL HONOR COLUMBUS

Attorneys for the Maryland State Roads Commission yesterday filed a demurrer to the bill for injunction filed by a group of residents of Kensington, Md., against building the proposed overhead bridge over the Bltimore & Ohio Railroad on Lincoln avenue.

The demurrer denies that the persons who filed the bill for injunction have any equities involved. The demurrer was filed by Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Archer and Attorneys Cissel & Woodward, of Rockville, counsel to the Montgomery County commissioners. Judge Robert B. Peter set the date for hearing on the demurrer as October 25 at Rockville.

The injunction against the roads commission was asked by nine residents of the town of Kensington through Attorneys Vivian Simpson and John E. Oxley, of Rockville, and Albin Wood, of Frederick, charging that the commission arbitrarily plans to take property owned by them in connection with the site. The persons named as plaintiffs are Edgar W. Moore, former Mayor of Kensington; Frank P. Welsh, Harry K. Corrick, John A. Feeney, Clare M. Dyson, Frank S. Shipley, William A. Chapman, Charles D. Phillips and Joseph O. Murray. The defendants named in the suit are G. Clinton Uhl, Howard Bruce, John K. Shaw and the State Roads Commission.

The bill alleges that without due hearing and in absolute abuse of discretion vested in them and with utter disregard of the convenience of the public affected, the defendants determined to erect the crossing at Lincoln avenue. This, the bill charges, is arbitrary, unreasonable and abuse of the power vested in the commission. The bill points out that Lincoln avenue is a blind street and can not be rendered a useful and convenient street without great unnecessary expense and oppressive and unnecessary changes.

The State Roads Commission decided upon the Lincoln avenue site after lengthy discussion and research. A public hearing was held at Kensington at which time the members of the commission and their engineers inspected the seven sites which were under consideration. The mayor and town council of Kensington have approved the site and has offered to cooperate with the roads commission in defending the action against the injunction suit.

The adjutant general of the Army yesterday approved awarding the contract for the grading and landscaping of the grounds around the National Guard Armory at Silver Spring to the low bidder, the Westcott Nursery Co. The Westcott company offered a bid of $1,347.

Columbus Day will be observed in Montgomery County tomorrow. Banks will be closed all day, and appropriate exercises in honor of the discoverer of America will be held in the county schools this afternoon.

The Montgomery Players tomorrow night will present "A Successful Calamity," a two-act comedy of modern New York life, at the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, Forty-fourth and Elm streets, Chevy Chase, Md. The curtain will rise at 8:20 o'clock.

The play has been in rehearsal since early in August under the direction of Arthur B. White.

Cash prizes totaling $50 for the three best names submitted by residents of Montgomery County for the new highway between Bethesda and Silver Spring have been offered by Capt. Chester Wells, of Chevy Chase. Capt. Wells, a member of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, believes an attractive and descriptive name will be of great value to present and future residents of the county.

The judges are to be Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the Montgomery County Commissioners; Lacy Shaw, vice president of the board; Col. A. B. Barber, president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation; B. W. Parker, president of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, and John J. Dolan, president of the Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce. All names should be submitted to T. Earle Hampton, secretary of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, Bethesda, Md., before November 15, when the new highway is expected to be opened to travel.

The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission has started work on the Willette branch sewer west of Bethesda, Edgemoor, Chevy Chase Terrace, Friendship and Drummond. Construction will be pushed as rapidly as possible, officials say.

Work on the main interceptor sewer in Rock Creek Valley will begin next week, the commission announced. Construction of the Rock Creek Valley sewer line will commence at the District line and work north to intercept the sewer line now serving the western slope of the Chevy Chase-Bethesda section and the western slope of the Silver Spring, Woodside and Linden sections.

The annual meeting of the Montgomery County Council of Home and School Associations will be held November 8 at the Rockville High School, it was announced yesterday. Lewis P. Alderman, of the Bureau of Education, will be the principal speaker. Officers will be chosen at this meeting.

Other speakers are Superintendent of Schools Edwin W. Broome, Thomas W. Price, county supervisor of high schools and principal of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School; Miss Kristine Nilssen, Miss Huldah Brust and Miss Elizabeth Meany, supervisors of county schools.

Negro Given 12 Years For Attacking Woman

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 10.—Frank Smith, colored, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court today to attacking Mrs. Clara Whitacre in the vicinity of Gore on August 13, and was sentenced by Judge Philip Williams to twelve years in the penitentiary.

Smith, said to be a former convict, was traveling in an automobile which broke down and as Mrs. Whitacre was passing, carrying United States mail from Trone to Gore, the Negro asked for assistance. When Mrs Whitacre stopped he is alleged to have seized the mail sacks, rifled the pouches and, finding no valuables, endeavored to force Mrs. Whitacre into the nearby woods. Her screams for help frightened the Negro, who fled, but was captured by a sheriff's posse.

SONS WOULD RAISE VETERAN PENSIONS

Reunion Votes to Work for Double Pay for Confederate Soldiers.

JOINT CONVENTION ENDS

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 10.—The forty-second annual reunion of the Grand Camp of United Confederate Veterans of Virginia, which has been in session here for the last three days, came to a close today, as did the thirty-fourth annual reunion of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans heard an address by David L. Pulliam, commander of Stonewall Jackson Camp, of Richmond. Mr. Pulliam, who has just been elected commander of Virginia Division, Sons of Confederate Vetreans, succeeds Charles Norman, of Richmond, who had headed the division for two years.

Commander Pulliam in accepting the office said that as long as he lives the memories of the Confederates shall "live." He asked the aid of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in the work and urged the sons to take the torch, the torch of Southern ideals, from the hands of veterans who will be gone in a few years and to hold it high.

At the final meeting the sons took action looking to securing for the Confederate Veterans a monthly State pension of $50 instead of the present pension of $300 annually.

Asks Impartial History.

Dr. J. H. Eckenrode, historian of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans, addressed the Virginia Division, S. C. V. He was of the opinion that a committee of qualified men should be appointed to write a history of the United States which will present the war between the States in a fair way. It was unanimously voted by both the Veterans and Sons of Veterans to indorse the placing of some of the returned battle flags at the entrance of the recumbent statue of Gen. Lee in the Memorial Chapel at Lexington.

A resolution was adopted opposing the removal of the Confederate Monument at Alexandria from its present location to any other site.

A committee was appointed to cooperate with the Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park to try to secure the sites of the two battles of Manassas so that both might be incorporated in the military park. Resolutions of respect honoring the memory of members who have died since the last reunion were passed.

List of Woman Leaders.

At the ball given at the Grays' Armory last night the "official ladies" of the two reunions were presented. They were:

Playing Boy Shoots; Kills His Companion

Headsville, W. Va., Oct. 10.—William S. Dobbs, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dobbs, of Pittsburgh, was killed on a farm near here late yesterday when a companion, Jackson Steck, 12, playfully pointed a .22-caliber rifle at him, cried "Look out, I'm going to shoot!" and pulled the trigger. The bullet hit Dobbs in the arm, coursing upward to sever the jugular vein.

Dobbs died within a few minutes, before his mother, with whom he was visiting at the Steck home, could reach him.

Authorities held the shooting accidental, deemed an inquest unnecessary, and the youth was not held. Steck saying the safety catch on the gun, which was set, failed to work.

Seadrome Tests To Be Made Soon

Parts of Model Received at Cambridge, Md., for Try-Out on Bay.

Cambridge, Md., Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Parts of a working model of the Armstrong Seadrome, which will be assembled here for a test of its operation when buffeted by waves, began to arrive in Cambridge today from a shop in Chester, Pa.

Two truckloads were brought to a wharf here and it was expected additional parts would arrive in a few days. Several days will be required for assembling the model, which will be one-thirty-second of the size of sea planes which E. R. Armstrong, the inventor, hopes to station at intervals across the Atlantic Ocean.

Tests are to be made at the mouth of Choptank River, where waters of the Chesapeake Bay will stimulate wave conditions which the seadromes are expected to encounter in service.

JONES, CONVICTED, GETS YEAR'S TERM

Former Woolen Mills Head Found Guilty of $2,670 Embezzlement.

JURY DELIBERATES LONG

Winchester, Va., Oct. 10.—Arthur G. Jones was convicted and his punishment fixed at one year in the penitentiary by a jury today in Corporation Court, where he has been on trial since October 3, charged with embezzling funds of the Arthur G. Jones Woolen Mills Corporation, of which he was formerly president and general manager.

Defense counsel immediately moved to set aside the verdict as being contrary to the law and evidence and grant a new trial. Judge Philip Williams, who presided, announced he would fix a day for hearing arguments on the motion. Jones renewed his bond of $15,000 and was released until October 21, first day of the next term. Defense attorneys indicated that if a new trial was denied the case probably would be carried to the Virginia Supreme Court.

The jury received the case late yesterday afternoon, and with the exception of an hour for supper remained in session until an hour past midnight, reporting to the judge their inability to agree. The court permitted jurors to go home for the night and return at 10 o'clock today. The judge urged the jury to consider the evidence again and make "an earnest and sincere effort" to reach a verdict. The jury finally announced agreement before noon.

It was reported the jury had stood ten for conviction one for acquittal and one not voting on the first ballot. Many ballots were taken and masses of documentary evidence examined before a verdict was agreed upon. The court had instructed the jury to fix Jones' punishment at from one to ten years in case he was found guilty.

Jones remained calm, suave and self-possessed, as he had been throughout the trial. Occasionally he stroked his gray curly hair. His wife and daughter, Miss Doll Jones, the latter a leader in one of the local social sets, remained by his side. None gave any sign of their emotions.

Jones was indicted on about 40 charges of embezzlement and was tried specifically for crediting himself with $2,670.92 as commission on sales of goods without the knowledge or consent of the directors.

About 40 other charges of embezzlement stand against Jones. The State declined to indicate their future disposition.

Indicted along with Jones was Max Krol, former vice president, treasurer and selling agent of the woolen mills, with headquarters in New York, charged with embezzling large amounts and splitting commissions with Jones, which the latter admitted on cross-examination, were outside agreement or "understandings" and with which the "directors had nothing to do." Krol is listed as a fugitive. He has not been seen here since last February, when a stockholders' protective committee began an investigation.

Former Sailor Hangs Self in Cell by Belt

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 10.—Looping one end of a leather belt tightly about his neck, and securing the other end to a coat hanger hook, Jack H. Carruthers, 35, Alabama Negro, recently discharged from the United States Navy, hanged himself in his cell in the Anne Arundel County Jail here early this morning.

The Negro was arrested a few days ago after a row with Patrolman William Collins, and was being held for grand jury action for carrying a concealed weapon. He told fellow prisoners that he had no means of livelihood and that it was a "cold world." No other motive was ascribed for his act.

PASTOR QUITS POST OVER SUIT OF WIFE

VOTES MORAL SUPPORT

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 10.—Following suit filed in Circuit Court by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Heimer, for separate maintenance and alimony, charging "cruelty, which at times was violent," the Rev. Peter E. Heimer, for seventeen years pastor of Thurmont Charge of the Reformed Church, which embraces four congregations, today sent in his resignation to take effect at once.

The resignation was presented at a joint meeting of consistories of the four churches, with 25 officials present, and was unanimously accepted. A resolution was adopted expressing regret at the "unjustifiable circumstances" which made the resignation necessary and Dr. Heimer was referred to as a man "whose exemplary Christian character is above reproach."

Dr. Heimer has been active in pastoral duties of Trinity Church, Thurmont, and three other congregations in adjoining towns. He is a member of the county ministerial association. A civic worker. One of the promoters of the Mt. Tabor community park project and has been active in the movement for good roads in the Thurmont section.

Since the suit was filed he has not conducted services in any of the churches. The Rev. Robert Heubner, a Moravian minister, of Utica, N. Y., on furlough, has filled the pulpits. Dr. Heimer stated that he will ask for further action at the next meeting of the Maryland leaders of the Reformed Church in this city, October 25. The church consistories, in the resolution accepting his resignation, asked that the classes give him "moral support in his difficulties."

The couple was married in Belfast, Pa., and have three married children. Mrs. Heimer left Thurmont some time ago and Dr. Heimer closed the parsonage and is living with friends. In her suit for alimony, Mrs. Heimer stated her husband possessed securities amounting to $75,000. In addition to his salary as pastor. She said she is without means and asked that her husband be required to furnish her counsel fees. The court issued an order requiring Dr. Heimer to pay his wife $75 per month pending outcome of the suit.
